TOR AND AS THEOLOGIAN.

After long navigation in the peritons waters of Wall street. Uncle Daniel Drew sits on the stand, a shipwrecked mariner, and gloomily watches the cruef waves as they swallow his battered bark. He is a weather-beaten old sait of the stock jobbing seas, experienced in disaster as in prosperity, and though he heaves sigh and wipes away with his hornly hand an unbidden tear, he does not lie down in utter despair and die of his troubles. Though perhaps too far advanced in years to again trim his sails to the breezes of puts and calls, he can hereafter regale himself and his companions with tales of the strange things he has seen and done in the Wall street world. It is true that it has been said that avaried is only passion which increases with the turbulent waves of stock-jobbing. But if not solkeed by sweet philosophy, the aged mariner is yet sastained by the sjout staff of theology. Uncle Daniel has been throughout a theological as well as stock speculator.
