NATIONAL ODE. Herewith is the national ode as composed and read by Howard Taylor at the Fourth of July exercises at Philadelphia, 1874.

And order that standing upon thy soil, And that stand in solemn awe Above all self, and lowly bow

III.—1. Here may thy stern challenge stand, All-powerful God, and thou, O'er our heads with the Present Day, Or in the shadow drift, Of something nobler, sweeter, holier

III.—2. O'er our heads with the Present Day, Or in the shadow drift, Of something nobler, sweeter, holier

III.—3. O'er our heads with the Present Day, Or in the shadow drift, Of something nobler, sweeter, holier

REMARKS OF HON. W. A. WALLACE, U. S. SENATOR, JULY 18, 1876.

THE SENATE, as in Committee of the Whole, resumed the consideration of the bill (H. R. No. 3022) making appropriations for the construction, repair, preservation, and completion of certain public works on rivers and harbors.

The President pro tempore. The question is on the motion of the Senator from Ohio [Mr. Thurman] to recommend to the Committee on Appropriations, with instructions to report the aggregate amount of the appropriations contained in the bill to not exceed $4,000,000.

Mr. Wallace. Mr. President, the proposition of the Senator from Ohio with instructions to reduce the total to five millions. I shall support this motion of the Senator from Ohio mainly because of the instructions it contains.

I regard this bill in its present proposals as a masterpiece, as it has already been characterized on the floor of the Senate, and I will take any parliamentary means in my power to reduce its provisions.

The first of those, I mean, is the appropriation of $2,000,000 for the improvement of the navigation of the Ohio river.

It is a question of the propriety of the appropriation of $2,000,000 for the improvement of the navigation of the Ohio river.

size too, the fact that the increase of a trifle upon the cost of production that increased taxation makes means, if it means anything, the destruction of some important branch of your manufactures; when it means the shutting off the blast of the furnaces, the filling up of your mines, the throwing broad over the country of hundreds and thousands of artisans and laborers, as it has done in the State that I represent; when it means the reduction of the power to regulate commerce.

It means, sir, more than this; it means starvation, privation, death, and the ruin of the people of this State and of this country.
