CREATION
A correspondent of the Chicago Tribune says:
The first and only cremation furnace in the country is situated at Washington, Pa., and is now ready for the reception of a corpse. Its owner and originator is Dr. F. Julius LeMoyne, a gentleman of wealth and culture, and with wide reputation as a physician. He has been a student of the theory of cremation, and has been at the expense of fitting up a furnace for the incineration of human remains, solely for the purpose of conducting the experiment of the cremation of his own remains. any call for a restoration of the Union, and all this talk about it is moonshine, a dream indulged in for partisan purposes and to serve political ambition. A friend of mine whom I met here to-night, referring to Forney, said "I can't get you to see the difference between me and him. I will give you to have them all, to bind North and South in indissoluble bonds of everlasting amity and concord. They call the last House the 'Confederate House,' but I have found the Southern members sincere men, who, though once wrong on secession and slavery, are now firm in their convictions in favor of the Union. The Republican party makes boasts that it fought for 'Why the leading generals of the Union Army—Sherman, Sheridan and Grant, went from the Democratic party, and likely Grant would be in it yet, but that the Republicans made him President. The soldiers could not have voted for him at this time. It was the Democrats who spoke plainly, and not harshly. I say that the battle in Ohio and Indiana was waged against most fearful odds, stake against stake. Democracy made desperate men. It won victory in the North, the keystone of the coalition of the victors of the army, read the records of the dead, number the maimed, or count the widows and orphans and you will find there were many Democrats as Republicans. [Applause.]

SOUTHERN WAR CLAIMS.
GOV. TILDEN SPEARS THE GUNS OF THE SOUTHERN.
Governor Tilden has addressed to Hon. Abram S. Hewitt, a letter relating to his position in regard to Southern claims. He quotes the fourteenth amendment of the constitution, points to the fact that it has been repeatedly approved by Democratic State Conventions of the South, and was adopted as part of the platform of the last national Democratic convention which declared it universally accepted as a final settlement. Gov. Tilden says: "My own position on this subject is informing me that Republicans high in authority are publicly representing that the South desire, not without hope, to obtain payment for losses by the late war, and to have provision made for the rebel debt, and for the losses of slaves."

THE PEACEFUL REVOLUTION.
WASHINGTON, October 22, 76.—The gloom and despondency which settled on the Republican managers after the full returns from Ohio and Indiana, and the desperate efforts to throw off this feeling and to reanimate the party, were signally failed. Instead of improving it has become more and more confirmed. Chandler finds himself in the condition of a commander who has embarked on a campaign on the fate of a single battle, and came out with a broken and demoralized army, much inclined to revolt, without discipline, and nearly without ammunition. Nothing reveals weakness like defeat. Then it is that dissent, just, every, every, every, and disappointed ambition speak out. This is the sort of refreshment which Chandler's committee has been delegated for ten days. No word of comfort has come, but constant cheering and applause at the same time of the campaign; the warring of the 'bloody shirt' as a national banner; the putting forward of Blaine and other corrupt leaders as the representatives of reform inside; the fabrication of charges against Mr. Tilden's personal character, and false figures made in the Treasury to decoit the country. There has been no rally of the party in the sense of recovery from a stunning blow or an astonishing gain, but a confidence in success. On the contrary, there is a panic here now which is far worse than that first witnessed, because the reports received, from Wisconsin and Michigan, are such as to give to give Chandler the most serious concern and alarm for the result.

THE FINANCIAL POLICY.
What has the Republican party done to increase this depression? Chief among its acts was the first one signed by Grant, which made the 5-20 bonds legal tender, and the second one which authorized the issue of $400,000,000 of greenbacks. The result of this was to send them abroad, and from this country to Europe there has ever since been a steady drain upon our material resources. This act alone added $500,000,000 to our national debt without any reason or justice. THE DEMONSTRATION OF SILVER. By the act of a Republican Congress in demonetizing silver, refusing to allow it to be paid for the government bonds, ten per cent. has been added to the entire indebtedness of the country. RE-ESTABLISHING SLAVERY. They tell us that the Democracy came into power the negro will be re-enslaved, and when they are confronted with the irresistible argument of the constitution upon this point they make every effort to evade it at least to reduce to a condition little better than that of slavery.

The validity of the public debt of the United States authorized by law including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned. But neither the United States nor any State, shall be held to pay any debt or obligation incurred by it in insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or any debt for the loss or confiscation of any property. This amendment has been frequently approved and agreed to by the Democratic State conventions of the South. It was unanimously adopted as a part of the platform of the Democratic National Convention at St. Louis on the 28th of June, and was declared by that platform to be "unanimously accepted as a final settlement of the controversies which engendered civil war."
The questions settled by the war are never to be reopened. The adoption of the 13th, 14th and 15th amendments to the Federal Constitution, closed one great era in our politics. It marked the beginning of the new era, the era of freedom, the era of the struggle for the rights of the American people. These amendments have been conclusively adopted, and they have been accepted in good faith by all political organizations and individuals in the North. The new chapter; they are and must be final; all parties heretofore must accept and stand upon them, and henceforth our politics are to turn upon questions of the present and the future and not upon the questions of the past.
