CLEARFIELD, PA. WEDNESDAY MORNING, SEPT. 19, 1877. FREE AND SLAVE PROPRIETORS CONTRASTED.

ago, whom I have not seen for about sixteen years, and in which he says: "If you hold the same views politically you did formerly, we would have less trouble in agreeing. I have come to learn that even the 'black night' of slavery was not as bad as I thought it would be."

Now, let us see, by candid comparison, which of these two oracles is really of the most service to the country. The property held by the slavery was profitable. It paid taxes, made sugar, molasses, cotton cloth, cheap iron, gave employment to millions of workmen in the North.

Below will be found a portion of the remarks made by Hon. Geo. H. Pendleton, on the opening of the campaign in Ohio by the Democrats, on the 24th inst. Mr. Pendleton said:

My Fellow Citizens—I speak to you tonight because our country suffers because honest, industrious men seek employment in vain and their families wait food. Harper's Weekly says: "It is computed that there are three millions of people in the country who would gladly work."

There were only 1,500,000 slaves in 1820, who produced but 225,000 bales of cotton, and then the tonnage business of the United States was only 47,784 tons. In 1856 the slave population had increased to over 3,000,000, and the cotton crop had gone up to 3,527,846 bales, and the tonnage of the United States to 469,393 tons.

And the manufacturing wealth of the North also kept pace with the increase of the production of the slave. The value of the cotton crop in 1853 was $7,220,000, and the value of our manufactures then was $2,209,000. In 1859 the value of this staple (cotton) had increased to $14,134,223, and our manufactures had correspondingly gone up to $9,247,927.

Now, what has the bonodocracy done? It has destroyed three-fifths of our commerce. It has almost wiped out those staples of the slavery which were the basis of nearly all our wealth and property. It has raised the taxes more than five hundred per cent.—

It has only increased the momentum of the general movement. Prophecy has become accomplished in history, and this night ten thousand millions of the last twelve months, the weary footsteps of the innumerable multitude seeking work, the strikes of unpaid laborers, the bloody and disgraceful riots in our cities, the roads filled with tramps, and station houses filled with homeless paupers, indict the Republican policy as the cause of this condition of affairs.

There are some Republican managers at Washington who begin to fear that it will be necessary to expel Mr. John J. Patterson from the Senate. This would be a calamity to the Republican party, but the damage to the country would be easily repaired.

REMARKS OF JUDGE M'KENNAN IN PENDING JUDGMENT. The hearing in the case of the rioters on the Lehigh and Susquehanna Railroad was concluded before Judge M'Kenna, in the United States Court at Pittsburgh, on the 7th inst.

I marked before, these men had a perfect right to do as they pleased in continuing or discontinuing their relations with the receiver, in whose employment they were. They might work if they might refuse to work; but when they made up their minds to stop work they could not undertake to control the actions of the receiver, nor could they undertake to determine whether others who were in the employment of the receiver should pursue their avocations or not.

The law authorizing the issue of greenbacks provided that whenever they were presented by any individual in sums of fifty dollars they might be converted into 5-20 bonds. Two years afterward, this provision was repealed. Greenbacks depreciated immensely in the hands of the people, and the sale of bonds was monopolized by the capitalists.

My first purpose was to impose the most exemplary punishment upon the person who should be clearly proven to have been guilty of the charge that is preferred here. In view of the condition of things throughout the country I suppose that might be necessary in order to show it was the purpose of the Courts to maintain the supremacy of the law and the rights of American freemen at any sacrifice and to the extent of imposing the most exemplary punishment.

The rioters were then sentenced to pay fines from $100 to $500 each and to undergo a short term of imprisonment. In the case of the prisoners who were engaged in a mob at Solomon's Gap, stopping a train on its way to Wilkesbarre, Judge M'Kenna said:

These young men are all adjudged guilty of contempt, and I will order them to pay the costs of this proceeding and let them go, in consideration of the fact that they are all young men, and most of them have manifested their regret for the wrongs they did; but they must understand they did a very serious wrong, and if they repeat unlawful conduct of this kind, they will find the law can be administered with as much sternness as I am disposed to exhibit leniency now.
