THE LITTLE BONDS, OR LONG BONDS FOR SAVING INVESTMENTS.

In the United States Senate on the 7th day of March, that body, during the morning hour, had under consideration the "Worthington and Sioux Falls Railroad" bill, and at the close of Mr. McKim's remarks several Senators addressed the Chair.

Mr. Wallace. I shall have to ask that this bill go over.

Mr. McKim. May I appeal to the Senate to delay a few minutes? I think we shall come to a vote on this bill.

Mr. Wallace. No, I think it is likely to occupy all the afternoon.

Mr. Windom. I am sure the good nature of the Senator from Pennsylvania cannot be appealed to in vain.

Mr. Wallace. That is a proverbial answer.

Mr. Chaffee. I only want to remind the Senator from Texas of the law which now authorizes the legislative power of the Territories.

Mr. Wallace. The purpose of the bill of course is to provide as many of the smaller denominations as the country may need to take, and a great many Senators think that the denomination of ten cents is the best.

The Vice President. The question is on the amendment of the Senator from Missouri.

of a less amount than such bonds as would ordinarily be carried abroad for purposes of sale or negotiation. I think $50 better than $25 as the minimum.

Then there is another object that I have in view, and that is this: Very many of the savings-banks in the United States, if this interest is put at 4 per cent, would invest these bonds.

It seems to me that there is no necessity of issuing $25,000,000 of twenty-five dollar bonds. It would make a vast number of bonds. A less amount of those smaller bonds, it strikes me, than one-fourth of the whole sum issued might be sufficient.

The question should be that there should be a sum not exceeding $200,000,000.

Mr. Blaine. That is a matter of detail. I think we should first settle whether the interest shall be 4 per cent.
