First there is a small reception room, simply furnished. But through a doorway, hung with drab curtains, comes a flood of light and a glimpse of plants and pleasant faces, and a chattering sound, and stirring sound, and sizzling sound, and a subdued gurgling sound. Voices, spoons, cooking and laughter—these are the ingredients, and before going further, let it be said that the conglomeration is delightful to more senses than one. While giving the details of the room furnishings, the chief ornaments have been reserved till the last. They are the six lades who comprise

To THE POINT.—The New York Mercury, in alluding to this "silver age" pithily remarks: "In God we trust." This is the sacred inscription on the new silver dollar, and it is very appropriate in these days of "Christian statesmen." Besides, the gold advocates trust neither God nor man. Maximon is their God and Shylock is their Prophet.

I fully endorse the suggestion of the Osceola Reveille, that we should not consider a man's political or religious belief. But while I concede that what a man believes is irrevelant, how he bear a man is a man believes is irrevelant, how he bear a pound of sweet lard or clarified drip-

"When I left the Democratic party," says General Benjamin Butler, "it was an honorable association of brave men. "Is that why you left it. Benjamin?" asks the Boston Heald; "Was the company uncongenial?"

Ben.'s Way.—An exchange says: "Ben. Butler is so outrageously crosseyed that he has begun to nominate Democrats for effice. Somebody ought to call his attention to the discreptors."

A Good Data Work.—The Philadelphia Record says: The Mint is now turning out an average of 80,000 new silver dollars a day, which are at once shipped to the various sub-treasuries throughout the country. Thirty tons of Novada silver were received yesterday, which brought the present stock in hand up to 100 tons, or 224,000 pounds. This is valued at $33,000 a ton, or an aggregate value of $3,300, they ring a bill."

The Atlanta Constitution remarks that if the "solid South" is satisfied with Mr. Hayes' southern policy, the divided North has no right to complain.
