THE PRESTIGE OF VICTORY.
Dill, Ross, Fertig, and Africa. This is a splendid combination personally and geographically, and will meet the wishes of the people in all parts of the great Commonwealth. Andrew H.
Dill has been four times before the people as a candidate for the House and Senate in Republican districts, and has never been defeated. His popularity has increased with each year of his public service, until it has spread throughout the entire State. The district which he now represents in the Senate, was constructed to return a Republican, but it was not professedly the popularity of Andrew H. Dill for Dill. Under his influence and auspices the district has become soundly and safely Democratic. This is a presage of victory. Henry H. Hoyt, the opponent of Andrew H. Dill for Governor, on the other hand, has been beaten on the only two occasions in which he was before the people, once as a candidate for District Attorney, and once as a candidate for Additional Judge of the Supreme Court. It will not do to say that the odds were too heavy against him. They were not greater than those against his Democratic competitor. While Hoyt was beaten in Luzerne, whose politics he has so often manipulated, Ketchum, Shoemaker, Payne, and other Republicans have been elected. This is an omen of defeat.

Henry P. Ross, the nominee for the Supreme Bench, is General Judge of the Third judicial district, consisting of the large and populous county of Montgomery. In the Tenth Legislature his name is a tower of strength. The unanimity with which the Democracy of the State demanded his nomination in the present and former State Conventions bears evidence of his popularity. He is regarded as one of the ablest and most accomplished jurists in the Commonwealth, and a worthy colleague of Judge Fryer. Against him is James P. Stewart, of Allegheny county, who enters the contest with the burden of last year's defeat, and with the additional burden of having introduced a bill which the venerable chief justice of the State has declared to be unconstitutional.

John Fertig, the candidate for Lieutenant Governor, represents the county of Crawford in the State Senate, having been elected over a popular opponent in that Republican stronghold.
He is not a politician, but a business man of experience. An oil producer himself, the people in the oil regions have in his nomination a still further guarantee of good faith in the Democratic party in regard to their Legislature. Senator Stone, his opponent, was nominated by the Republicans in the hope that he would be able to arrest the tide of indignation which has arisen in the oil regions, on account of the hostility of the Republicans in the Legislature to their interests. But while Stone could not bring a Republican Senator beyond the limit of the oil regions to the support of the Democratic party, the Democratic Senators stood with Fertig for the measure. The nomination of Fertig completely effaces all the advantage which the Republicans hoped to draw from the nomination of Senator Stone.

For Secretary in Internal Affairs, the candidate of the Convention is J.
Simpson Africa, of Huntington county, who has been practically at the head of that department ever since its organization. His name is a tower of strength. His punctuality, correctness, methodical habits of business, and affability combine to make him a model official. His popularity, too, has been fully tested. He was elected a member of the Legislature in the county of Huntington when the county gave a Republican majority of a thousand, and when all his associates on the ticket were defeated.

The candidates of the Democratic Convention thus enter the field with the prestige of victory. Dill, Ross, Fertig and Africa have never been beaten before the people. Three of them have been successful in strong Republican districts. The Convention has done well. It has placed before the people of Pennsylvania the strongest and best ticket Africa in its personnel and its geographical position that has been nominated in a generation. Dill, Ross, Fertig and Africa form a quadrangle, which will defy all the efforts of the Cameron combination to break it.—Harrisburg Patriot.

HOW SHE FOOLED HIM.
John Sanderson's wife went to bed on the night of the 14th of April with her mind made up to fool the old man next day or die in the attempt.
In previous years she had found John impertinent of all kinds, and she resolved to get back on her own feet.
With her mind full of the old impertinent she went to sleep. At daylight she awoke at once and began to operate. Her victim was lying with his back to her, apparently in a sound sleep. She pulled up his nightgown and with her short elbow and clawed fingers she tore at his neck, preparatory to starting him with a half-whisper warning.

"John—oh, John—there's some one ringing the door bell!"
"It's my ring," was the sleepy response.
"But, John, maybe it's the man on the next square, who owes you that $100, come to pay you."
"No, 'tain't neither," said John with a yawn.
"But you don't know, and it may be that very man."
"I guess not, for he's buried; died last week. Besides, I don't know your carriage driver. I look the best I can of last night to fool April fools." Heaven's! what a mess she had made of it to begin with! But when the old man rolled out of bed, yawned and stretched, she saw him in the sheet in her mouth to plug up her laughter.

"Oh, Jenny! won't the tumble when he puts his foot in them pants and finds the leg sewed up?" she said to herself.
"Put on the once you have the provoked brute innocently carried the blockaded breeches to the wardrobe and inquired:

"Nancy, where's them chocolate colored pants I had on last week?"
"Put on the once you have in your hands, John, what's the matter with them?"
"I burst a button off yesterday, and they need mending." At breakfast he poured him out a nice cup of coffee and sweetened it with two spoonfuls of salt.
"You needn't give me any coffee," he said, quick as a flash.
"Why, John, what's the matter?"
"I'm sick, and I don't want any coffee."
"You're married that you refused coffee?"
"The blessed salt has made me sick lately; and, as this is the first of the month I thought I'd break off and only drink it for supper. You keep yourself!"

When he came home to dinner she had prepared him a neatly dressed envelope with a blank paper enclosed.
He eyed it suspiciously, and throwing it on the table, he said: "I know that handwriting. It's from that crazy lunatic who wants me to vote for him to-morrow. So much for his letter!"
In the evening she disguised herself in her husband's old suit, and came to the door to beg for charity.
"Please give me a nickel to buy some bread!"
"Get out, or I'll give you a nickel with my boot."
"But, sir, consider. I'm starving."
"The dickens you are! Now, I'll bet you fifty dollars against the suit of clothes you wear, that you are an im-poster!"
"With good flour, a good oven, and a good, sensible, interested cook, you can be pretty sure of good, wholesome bread. You know I consider the standard bread, and is, perhaps, more generally found on every table than any other kind. Hence it is important to know how to make good sweet, wholesome yeast bread. Good flour is the first and most important ingredient. I don't believe in bakers. Here, you police-man, take this infernal impostor to the station house." Just as the "poor" grabbed the supposed beggar by the back of the neck, and was about to march him off to the station house, would you not?"
"The deuce I wouldn't," was the cool response. "Anybody who lies to me about my door-bell, sews up my trousers, puts salt in my coffee, writes me anonymous notes, and steals my clothes ought to go to the penitentiary for life."
"But how did you know?"
"If you women wouldn't talk in your sleep you might keep a secret once in a while."
Mrs. Sanderson says that hereafter when she attempts an April fool on any one, she intends to sit up all the night previous.

HORNETS.
The dictionary-maker says the hornet is a large, venomous insect, with a tremendous stinging apparatus. It is certainly all that and something more. Though he usually minds his own business, he believes that pos-sion is nine points in the law and one point in the gutter, and he is not on his promises stands six chances in half-a-dozen to get a blow between the eyes that he won't forget during the balance of his natural life. The weapon he uses is his stinger, which he uses with a skill and accuracy that would do credit to a marksman.

Under these circumstances, when you find a hornet's nest, it is always safest for you to get behind a tree, and let the other fellow throw darts at the hornets. It is not all fancy to get stung yourself, but it is immensely funny to see another man get stung.
I would say a composer of proverbs, I should say, it is better to kiss your sweatband than to have a hornet get your trousers' leg. Remember! I should rather keep school and board round than to be stung by hornets.

Some men who are smart in other respects don't seem to understand how to manage these representatives of ontology. I have seen many who know enough to keep a hotel that couldn't show a single hornet.
It is very trying to a person's verbal morality to meet in battle and be vanquished by a creature so small and inferior. Should you ever happen to meet a man under these circumstances, and he does not say damn, you can make up your mind that he is a Christian.

There was a hornet who, not many years ago, invented the art of making paper from wood. All other manufacturers are infringing on his patent.
