ELECTION OF PRESIDENT AND VICE PRESIDENT.

SPEECH OF Hon. William A. Wallace, SENATOR FROM PENNA., In the Senate of the United States, February 11th, 1881.

Mr. President: On the 28th of January last I had the honor to submit for the consideration of the Senate joint resolution No. 148, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which is in these words:

That the President and Vice President of the United States shall be chosen by the people of the respective States in the manner following:

Each State shall be divided by the Legislature into as many electoral districts as it has Senators in Congress, and each district shall elect one elector for President and one elector for Vice President.

The electors shall meet in each State on the day specified in the Constitution for the election of the President and Vice President.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

The electors shall vote for President and Vice President by ballot, and their votes shall be counted in the presence of the people of the State.

PRINCIPLES, NOT MEN.

It will be noted that this system changes, first, the electoral college to direct vote by the people in districts, second, the plurality or majority in each district contribute one vote to the election of President and Vice President.

Third, the State has entire control of the elections and the certificate of Congress. Fourth, the two Houses, acting together, are given sole power to count the votes; fifth, the necessity for a majority of the electoral college and for action in any event by the House of Representatives voting by States in districts.

The district system is now thought in the politics of this country. It is the principle of the constitutional convention of 1787, on the motion of Judge Wilson, of Pennsylvania, and it was initiated in Congress in the very early days of our history.
