VERA CRUZ, January, 1858. The steamer for Vera Cruz leaves New Orleans ject, however, I am not a competent witness, as at patient dies. Bea (on short passages) the amount of food consumed by me is not much, and the taste anything but agreeable. I never omit, however, the usual sucrifices paid by most landsmen to Neptune .-Though I was unable to appreciate the good fare of the gallant steamer. I was fully sensible of the gentlemanly and obliging conduct of those in charge of her. Those that make the passage of attentive and agreeable purser, Mr. Dn Costa .--The Captain seemed to be of the right stamp; he case,) but appeared to look carefully after the safety of his ship. Some featful accidents have occurred from officers (whose first duty it is to attend to the working of the vessel,) being teo constant in their attendance in the cabin. The passenger business between New Orleans and Vera Cruz is not heavy; they seldom have such a large party on board as ours; this accounts for the high rate of charge, $50 for a three days' passage .--Land is generally visible some three or four hours before reaching Vera Cruz, provided the weather be clear. The mountains in the neighborhood of Perote are generally the first seen; they are rugged, broken, volcanic formations, highly picturesque, rising as they seem to do out of the sea; while high above them towers the huge round topped "Cofre de Perote" (coffin of Penete,) so called from the resemblance the top of the mountain bears to a shrouded corpse. The summit of this last is about 13400 feet above the level of the sea. As we progressed a still grander and more imposing object appeared, the volcano of Orizaba!-This is the mountain of which Bayard Taylor says, "Orizaba dwells alone in my memory as the a true estimate of its real magnitude, but the snow that covered its apex shewed that it stretched for upwards into the regions of everlasting frost. Its height is stated at near 17500 feet. At about 3 o'clock in the afternoon of January the 4th, we came to anchor opposite the town of Vera Cruz, just as the English mail steamer was about sailing for the West Indies. There is no harbor here, only an open road-stead, and one by no means safe. Its entrance and exit are from the north, on all other sides it is shut in, by either coral reefs or the shore. The usual anchorage is just between the Fort or castle of San Juan and the mole or little pier built out from the city wall. The most dangerous winds that blow here are from the north, and to these this roadstoad is quite exposed. When vessels are caught bere by " "norther" their only security is in the strength of their cables and anchors; and that these are often unequal to the emergency, several shattered wrecks on the southern side fully attest. Not very long ago a screw-steamer belonging to the Mexican Navy was forced ashore in spite of all her crew could do, and great loss of life was the consequence. Wnen it is found that a ressel will the sandy beach and avoid the fatal coral reefs; case of the above mentioned steamer, they sometimes fail. If Mexico were in the hands of an energetic people a breakwater could be so constructed as to render this anchorage perfectly safe; as it is, it probably will never be done. It was once proposed (so the story goes,) to Santa Anna to build this breakwater, "What" replied that patriot, "put all that money into the sea! much better to put it into my pocket," and so the matter rests. The town of Vera Cruz contains some 10 to 12000 inhabitants. Formerly there were many more, but it seems to be retrograding like every thing else in this country. A greater contrast to a bustling go-ahead American city than it presents cannot well be imagined. In the first place it is walled and fortified, (not that it could stand many days before a well appointed besieging army,) at every corner one sees soldiers. There are few if any wooden houses (inside the walls,) the dwellings being generally one or two story hous. es, whese walls are built of a considerable thick. ness (they are ahead of us in that at any rate,) the material used being coral and brick, laid without any regularity, and held together by cement square buildings containing a kind of open court in the center in which are generally some shrubs is in striking contrast with that of the or fruit trees. WASHINGTON FEB. 27. 1858. The past week so far as Congressional matters are concerned, has not resulted in anything beneficial to the country. A majority of the Senate have deemed it expedient to differ with the President, as to the necessity of an increase of the army; and Col. Johnston is compelled to operate against the rebellions People of Utah, with the handful of men now under his command. The President has however performed his duty, and should the traitorous saints, cut off, or defeat our little army, the responsibility rests not with him.

The political Leviathan-Kausas-is made the special order of the day for Monday-and as at least twenty honorable Senators are desirous of being heard, upon the trio of reports from the Committee on territories, we may safely predict, that the middle of March will be upon us, ere a final vote will be taken in that body, on its admission as a State.

The House on yesterday passed two appropriation bilis viz., an act making appropriation for the Indian Department for the year ending June 30, 1858; also an act to e table the President of only perfect type of a mountain to be found on the U. The debate upon the resolution to expel from the House, one of "Sir R. Walpole's men"-Orsamus B. Matteson of N. York, attracted quite a large crowd to the galleries of the New Hall.

The resolution was referred to a select committee. While we are no apologists for Mr. Matteson, and sincerely believe that he justly merits the rebuke called for in the resolution; we would most respectfully suggest to those members, whose virtuous indignation has been aroused, to open their eyes to the fact—that there is at this time, a delegate occupying a seat on that floor, representing a constituency, which is engaged in open rebellion against the government. Why not put them in the same boat; and expel them both?

That "Jacksonian" document, the "President's Kansas Message," is receiving the endorsement of the Democracy in all quarters of the Country, and that the position assumed by the "Noble Old Chieftain, of the Key Stone State." will be confirmed by both branches of the national legislature, by the admission of Kausas under the "Lecompton Constitution," is as certain as, that the "Orb of day rises in the East."

Forney, must feel this is generally accomplished, though as in the and particularly of his native city; the capital of the "Old Guard," and we can almost hear him exclaim-"Hold me, Douglas, or I sink."

Forney's defiant, malignant and unscrupulous opposition to the administration, and his alliance with the "union sliding" agitators and f. natics bave placed him almost beyond the pale of redemption, and when his present political "Bun goes down" (as it surely will) in darkness, nothing short of ten years probation, as high private in the ranks, should be meted out to him, before he again be entitled to the confidence of the democracy of the Old Key-Stone State.

It is confidently asserted that, next week, the Select Kansas committee of the house, will submit a majority report, when an opportunity will be offered to those of our Pennsylvania Democratic members, who have put themselves on the record as opposed to the administration,

Letter from Luncaster.

LANCASTER, MARCH 6, 1858. Mn. BRESLIN-Dear Sir :- Great religious feelng is now prevailing in our city, and quite a large number of conversions have taken place within the last two or three weeks. St. John's Lutheran congregation, under the great exertions of their popular minister, the Rev. D. Steck, has experienced a remarkable degree of that joy which alone is essential to make mortals happy here below, and insure life-eternal in the world to come-in heaven. The pastor of this congregation commenced delivering a course of sermons to the young. Last Sunday evening was the first of the series, and to judge from this one, they will be highly interesting. The attendance on this occasion was large, especially on the part of the young. The Methodist churches have also held special meetings, which have been largely citement and long speeches; and the question of attended, and hopes are entertained that great and lasting good may result from these "revivals." I notice in the papers, that all New York is roused to a sense of their religious necessities, and conversions by the thousand are taking place. It takes hold of all classes and conditions of men, and must certainly be significant of great regencration and reformation. The Tribune, on Mondays last contained a six column article on the subject of "Religion," which strangely contrasts with its oddly cooked-up daily articles on "bleeding Kansas," "abolitionism," &c. I hope it may continue to publish such articles, and exclude all other mischief making stuff, and its large number of readers will vastly profit by it. All papers, secular and religious, should lend their aid more to the religious cultivation of the community in which they are published, and in censo quence a more appreciative and intelligent class of people would spring up and live together upon more social and intimate terms. Crime would be suppressed, and the Sanctuaries of the Lord would be better attended. As it is now, newspaper publishers cannot find room sufficient to con-> press. This reminds me of the powerful lecture delivered by the Rev. G. F. Krotel, on last evening-the third of the "Howard Evenings"-on the "Power of the Press." I see it announced in the papers, that two of our cotton factories are again to resume operations in a few days. This will be gratifying news to the large number of operatives who have tain all the crimes committed far and near, to ca-

For the Lebanon Advertiser TOWN GOSSIP. Mr. Epiron:-When I penned my last, I thought I had done with this subject. But "Sis" not yet satisfied, continues to indulge herself (in her propensity for writing) wonderfully onlightening the people of Lebanon and the world in genpriety of Gossiping. It is somewhat ludicrous, though, to hear her rant about the good motives of that (in "Sis'" estimation) much injured class of individuals-the Scandal-Mongers. From the pertinucity with which she maintains her assertions as to it being our duty to tell all we know about our neighbors, one might be led to doubt one's judgment on this subject; notwithstanding that we are instructed by the wise to speak ill of no one. If we can say nothing good, then we shall say nothing evil. But probably "Sis" has examined this "rexed" subject thoroughly and has come to conclusions differing from that embodying in the above instruction, and, consequently is for ahead of the ago; destined to go on unappreciated amidst such "woful ignorance" that still darkens the beclouded intellect of the present generation. If "Sis" would know what is thought of the Gossiper, "by the wisest of men," let her refer to the Book of Books. Prov. XXVI chap.; which I always have considered good authority; and which also answers her question, "where Solomon and the wise men." "I consider it an imperative and high moral duty to declare openly what men and women are-"Sis" first article-

"Sis!" did you ever belong to the "Know Noth ings?" It seems there belonged to that order some years ago, some one who considered, that i was a "high moral duty to declare openly what men and women are," and, as a consequence, declared openly to the Democrats what men were "Know Nothings." In this your principles were carried out, and the community thought it a very scurvy trick to "declare such things openly." By the way "Sis," what would you think of a person who would take upon himself the obligations to Secresy that are administered in most of these Secret Societies, and then "declare openly what he had there learned. "Sis" has taken it into her head, that I "defend the Slanderer." That's funny! I hope "Sis" will excuse me for not believing that I "defend the Slanderer," for I really would not like to have it thought that I would

Why "Sis" I really do not know exactly. You say "a rotten apple spoils its companions. point your attention to schools for a proof of this." If you do not mean to libel our schools by that "rotten" allusion you mean nothing. In fact the schools are referred to as a proof that "a rotton apple spoils its companions," but as I could see no connection between our schools and "a rot-ten apple," I guessed (for I find it necessary to guess often to get at your meaning,) that you in-tended to libel them in some way or other. In speaking in the same connection in another arti elo you say, "an illustration of "good boys" could be seen at Prof. Beck's lecture." What have good boys to do with schools proving that "a rotten apple spoils its companions?" Why "Sis" you are simply ridiculous! and would better leave the Schools alone. And doubtless you would have had no remarks to make about the schools had

There is where the galled jade winces."

Now "Sis" I will call your attention to that 'woful ignorance" again, of which you have accused me as displaying, and then I have done for the present. It used to be a practice in Jorusa lem for every one to sweep before his own door, and thus the city was always kept clean. I will not, at present; attempt to deny that I am ignorant, but will ask you since you have discovered in me such "woful ignorance," what you would iave thought had I written the sentence, "whe ose you parse that for me "Sis," if you can't ask

This BRLANDY has for several years been manufactured in Cincinneti, from the PURE JUICE of the CATAWNA GRAPE, thus affording additional evidence of the progress of American Enterprise and Industry, and of our ability to produce articles at home equal to those made by any other nation.

The OHIO CATAWBA BRANDY not only equals, but are account the best imported Brandies in purity and

The OHIO CATAWBA BRANDY not only equals, but even excels the best imported Brandies in purity and flavour. It is in fact the BEST BHANDY KNOWN.—
This statement is fully corporated by the Certificates of many of our most distinguished analytical Chemists, some of which accompany this advertisement.

The want of PURB BRANDY has long been felt in this country, and the introduction of an article of such quality as to supersed the sale and use of those vile compounds hitherto sold under the name of Brandy, can only be regarded as a great public good. The CATAW-BA BRANDY posseses all the good qualities claimed for the best imported Liquor, and is of perfect purity and superior flavor. It is therefore fully entitled to the patronage of the public, as the following certificates will show. We feel confident that its reception in this State will be as favorable as that which it has met with in the Great West, and that the time is not far distant, when the superiority of our own Laquoks will put an end to their importation from abroad.

In Medicinal purposes this Brandy has no rival, and has long been needed.

What the Furmers say:

A late writer says that "the various species of vermin are multiplying at a fearful rate throughout the land.—
Their ravages have become a matter of serious dread."

A Postmaster in Illinois, writing to "Costar's" Depot, says, "The country is literally overrun with them. (rats, mice, &c.") Another from the same State, says, "The rats positively gnaw the halters off my horses while in the stable." An Ohio correspondent remarks, "They (the rats) are everywhere—in the house, the barn, and under every stump in the field." In the South it is still worse. A late order from the Navy Yard at Mobile was for thirty pounds of the Rat Exterminator alone.

What the Reople say:

New Yorks, April 12, '56.

Dear Sir—Ilaving a great many rats, around my stable and shop, I thought I would try your Rat Exterminator, and bought one of your boxes, and fixed it according to your directions. The next morning I found over one hundred and fifty dead rats. I take pleasure in saying that it will do more than you say it will. I have also tried it on steamboats, and satisfied them that it is the greatest thing of the age.

FOR PRODUCING HAIR ON BALD HEADS GREY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL COLOR.

THIS astonishing and unequalled preparation has nereficient for the direction, and turn half back to its original color, after having become gray and reinstate it in all its original health. Instre softness and beauty-Removes at once all scurf, dandruff and unpleasant itching, scrofula, cruptions and feverish heat from the scalp. It also prevents the hair from becoming unhealthy and falling off, and hence acts as a perfect

HAIR INVIGORATOR AND TONIC.

A gentleman of Boston writes to his friend in New Bed ford thus:

To your inquiries. I would reply, that when I first commenced using Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative, my hair was almost white, and had been so for the last ten years and it was very thin on the top of my head, and very loose, and pulled out freely; but I found that before I had used all the second bottle, (which was eight weeks) my hair was entirely changed to its original color, light brown, and is now free from dandruff and quite moist. I have had my hair cut five or six times since the change, and have never seen anything like white hair starting from the roots; and it is now as thick as it ever was, and does not come out at all. It has proved in my case all that I could wish to ask.

Yours, etc.

[From the Boston Herald.]

SOMETHING WORTH KNOWING.—By using Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative, gray hair can be permanently restored to its original color. The subjoined certificate from Johnson & Stone, Gardiner, Maine, is but one of the many instances that are daily coming to our knowledge, of its wonderful effects. It is no longer problematical, but a self-evident truth, as hundreds in our community can testify.

Dear Sir:—I have used two bottles of Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative, and can truly say it is the greatest discovery using it I was a man of seventy. My hair has now attained its original color. You can recommend it to the world without the least fear; as my case was one of the worst North Praf. O. J. Wood.

BROOKFISLD, Mass., January 12, 1855.

DEAR Sin: Having made a trial of your Hair Restorative, it gives me pleasure to say that its effect has been excellent in removing inflammation, dandruff, and a constant itching tendency with which I have been troubled from childhood; and has also restored my hair, which was becoming gray, to its original color. I have used no other article with anything like the pleasure and profit.

Wood's Hair Dyr.—This admirable article is rapidly improving the hair. No article of a similar kind, now before the public, enjoys a better reputation as a restorative and invigorating hair tonic. Its peculiar chemical qualities have a beneficial effect upon the growth and character of the hair, giving asilty and glossy texture to that which was formerly of a coarse and dry nature. It has, also, we understand, a tendency to preserve the youthful color and appearance of the hair, and destroying or counteracting the effects of age. With such recommendations in its favor, we hardly perceive how any lady or gentleman should be without so valuable an adjunct to their toilet.
