CAUDLE LECTURES. MR. CAUDLE HAS LENT FIVE POUNDS TO A FRIEND.

'You ought to be very rich, Mr. Caudle. I wonder who'd lend you five pounds? But so it is : a wife may work and may slave! Ha dear! the many things that might have been done with . five pounds. As if people picked up "money in the street! But you always were a fool, Mr. Caudle! I've wanted a black satin gown these three wears, " and that five pounds would have pretty well bought it. But it's no matter how I go, not at all. Everybody says I don't dress as becomes your wife-and "I don't; but what's that "to you, Mr. Caudle ? Nothing. Oh no ! you can have fine feelings for everybody, but * those belonging to you. I wish people "knew you, as I do-that's all. You like to be called liberal-and your poor famwily pays for it.

All the girls want bonnets, and where " they're to come from I can't tell. Half five pounds would have bought 'embut now they must go without. Of · course they belong to you ; and anybody but your own flesh and blood, Mr. Cau-

Perhaps you don't know that Jack, this morning, knocked his shuttlecock this houring, motion is not into the plazier to mend it; but after you have lent that five pounds I was sure we couldn't afford it.
Oh no! the window must go as it is; and pretty weather for a dear child to sleep with a broken window. He's got a cold afready on his lungs, and I shouldn't at all wonder if that broken window settled him. If the dear boy dies, his death will be on his father's "through his bed room window. I was dies, his death will be on his father's head; for I'm sure we can't now pay to mend windows. We might though, and do a good many more things too, if "people didn't throw away their five pounds.

"I wonder where poor little Cheub is? While you were lending that five pounds, the dog ran out of the shop. You knew, I never let it go into the street, for fear it should be bit by some and dog, and come home and bite all the Fashionable Tailoring and "children. "It wouldn't now at all aston-'ish me if the animal was to come back with the hydrophobia, and give it to all the family. However, what's your family to you, so you can play the liberal creature for five pounds?
