DIVORCE CASE IN BUTLER COUNTY. A letter from Butler, Pa., to the Pitts. burg Dispatch, says:

"Quite an important divorce suit has been tried in our Court of Common Pleas, Hon. Daniel Agnew on the Bench, in which Adolphus J. Rebstock was libellant, and Ida Rebstock, respondent, ent is a young woman of about sixteen years of age, very beautiful, and the daughter of one of the most wealthy and respectable merchants of this place .-The parties were married about two years ago, the wife then being only fourteen years of age. The libel charged her with adultery with a man by the Esq., appearing for libellant, and J. N. Purviance and son, for respondent.

After an able charge from the Court of over an hour in length, the jury retired, and returned in about fifteen min-The most important point in this case is, however, yet undecided. Immediately after libellant had filed his petition, it appeared respondent had left, and gone Huntingdon, Indiana, and there apsubsequent to the verdict and filed a certified copy of the record of said Huntingdon Court, divorcing her from the bonds of matrimony, as a barto a decree upon the verdict obtained here. To this plea libellant's counsel has filed an answer, and thus the matter will rest until the next sitting of the Court, when the question as to the validity of the Indiana decree will come before his Honor.

The law of the State requires that every teacher shall be competent to teach "good manners." good manners, refined in their habits, and of easy and graceful deportment. Very many, probably the majority, are so; neglect, in modern times, among'teachers, to inculcate the virtues, (for good manners are virtues), and the omission of all the old-fashioned manifestations of them on the part of children, are too unpleasantly obvious to be passed by without stricture. In the place of these, we find often a pert forwardness, a presumptuous assurance, and, not seldom, a positive audacity of impertinence.

"The absence of restraint at home, the ill-judged indulgence, or the selfish love of case, which often prompt a parent to be too little watchful of his children, are all fruitful nourishers of this fault-a fault for which even the God-fearing Eli was made to feel the awful judgments of the Almighty." HORRIBLE CANNIBALISM.

The Massacre of the St. Paul's Passengers. [From the Sydney, Australia Herald.] The Chinese passenger of the St. Paul, who was rescued by the steamer Styx, and arrived on Tuesday, has furnished us with the following acount of a massacre of the Chinese passengers by the St. Paul, wrecked at Rossel Island: "The ship went on shore during the night, and when she struck, the passengers all rushed on deck, making a great outery, upon which the

Captain drove them all below again. When daylight broke, we landed by means of the boats on an Island, where we remained two days without any water, when some of us went on board the ship again to get some provisions. The Captain left in his boat with some of the crow, and we were not disturbed by the natives for a month after he was gone; they then came over from the mainland, distant about three-quarters of a mile, and made an attack on us. Some of us had double-barroled carbines, but we got frightened and threw them away. The only white man left with us, after the departure of Captain Pennard, was a Greek, who, having armed himself with a cutlass, fought desperately, and killed a great many of the natives before he was ovespowered. They then took all our clothing, &c., which they partly destroyed. Any valuables that they found, such as sovereigns, rings, &c., they placed in a net bag, which each man carried round his neck. A watch particularly excited their attention, as they were continually opening it, to observe the reflection of their faces in the glass. At night we were placed in the centre of a clear piece of ground, and fires lit in several places, the natives keeping a regular watch over us, and during the day they would select four or five Chinese, and after killing them, roast the flesh and eat it, what was not consumed being deposname of John Hall, a merchant, also of ited in their nets. Their mode of proceeding was high standing, and the head of a large as follows:-The victims being decided on they were taken out and besten all over (excepting the head) with a kind of club, and then despatched ripping the stomach open. The body concut up in small pieces and divided, the concept of the c toes and brains being pagerly sought after; the hones were then collected, and either burnt or thrown away. I saw ton of my fell w parting Gu gors killed in this way. On one occasion, some utes with a verdict in favor of libellant. of the Chinese took a boat which belonged to the ship, and went over to the mainland at night to Forte-monaies, Purses and Pockget some water, but never returned, so we thought they had been killed. Every day they brought they had been killed. Every day they brought the seases, Wallets, Money-belts, of different sizes as cocoanuts or some wild roots to eat, and aparts of companies of the seases, Card Cases, Combs, Brushes, Needles, Work ing Scissors, Penknives, Pencils, &c., &c., very low at REIZENSTRIN & BRO'S. of things continued until I was taken off the Isplied for a divorce on the ground of de- land. I saw these five the day the steamer came in counsel, she appeared in Court the day sight, but when the natives saw the boats coming on shore they took them to the mountains .-I was sick and lame, and they would not carry mo so that I watched my opportunity and contrived to conceal myself among the rocks until the boat came on shore. They are very numerous, but do not appear to have any chiefs among them. They live on cocoanuts, of which they are large quantities, and a kind of vam, which they roast before mals nor fowls of any kind." John Travis, the greatest champion of pistol shooting in the United States, proposes to establish a class in Baltimere. In the West he has met the most signal success. He has had in Kentucky and Virginia the most fashionable ladies' classes. The Richmond Whig gives the following account of his shooting upon the occasion with his dray, heavily loaded, and sitting of his trial shot there :- "He made a trial of his skill yesterday, and the results were as follows:ange the dray joited heavily throwing distance of each shot, about fourteen paces with deliberate aim at the figure, hit the bell eleven times in twelve shots; with the pistol between his knees, hit the ball four times in five shots .--The eight figures marked on the board were then struck successfully, at the random call of one of the spectators. Capt. Travis' servant then took his position near the figure, and held a percussion cap box—of the diameter of half a dollar between his thumb and fore-finger. The Captain took deliberate aim at this object, and sent a bullet through it midway between the centre and circumference. He closed the exhibition of his extraordinary skill by firing at a half dime placed between his feet, with only the width of the coin separating them. This shot was also successful, the coin being struck without detriment to the Captain's boots or shoes.

Of course they havn't. Beautiful objects in nature were made to please the eye, and a pretty woman adds not a little to that sense of gratification. PRIMITIVE Modes of Working Iron,-The early productions of the Malagasy smiths were necessarily rude, but since the instructions given to a large number of youths by the thoroughly qualified English smith sent out with the missionaries, their work has been improved, and is creditable to their intelligence and skill, especially when the simple apparatus by which it is produced is considered. The smith's who work for the government sometimes form almost entire villages, and work together in sheds; but the native smith, who on his own account plies his craft, works at the south end of his dwelling His forge is a simple affair; the earthen floor of his house forms the hearth for his fire, which is kept together by three or four stones. The bellows consist of two wood en cylinders with pistons, similar to those which supply the draft for the smelting furnace. The anvil, which is about 6 inches square, 6 inches high, is let into a piece of wood fixed in the ground, with the water trough, tongs, hammers, and other tools near it. The smith squats on a piece of plank or board on the floor, and his assistants sit or stand opposite him with sledge-hammers in their hands to strike when required and by this simple process the seticles of iron in general use among all classes of the people are produced .- Ellis' Three Visits to Madagascar.

SARZA.—We have long supposed this colebrated drug, had come to be an exploded humbug, but we are assured by those skilled in the healing art; that not the Sarzaparilla itself is to be blamed for this conclusion, but the miserable worthless preparations of it, that have been palmed off upon the community—preparations which contain about as much of its virtues as they do of gold dust. It is a commercial fact that almost all of the Sarsaparilla gathered in the world, is consumed in the old countries of Europe, where the science of medicine, has renehed its highest perfection, and where they know the best what to employ for the mastery of the disease. Hence we are glad to find that we are now to have a compound of this excellent alterative, which can be relied on, and our community will not need be a sured, that any thing Docr. NEW ENGLAND STATES

THE RESTORATIVE OF PROF. O. J. WOOD for restoring hair perfectly and permanently, has never yet had a rival, Volume after volume might be given from all parts of the world and from the most intelligent to prove that it is a perfect Restorative; but read circular and you cannot doubt; read also the followgent to prove that it is a perfect Restorative; but read circular and you cannot doubt; read also the following.

The Ham.—People have for contaries been afflicted with bald heads and the only remedy, heretofore known, has been those abominable wigs. By a recent discovery of Professor Wood these articles are being fast disprished with but a great innuy persons still patronize them, because they have been as often imposed upon by Hair Tonics of different kinds. To all such persons we carnestly make the request, that they will try once again, for in Wood's Restorative there is no such thing, as fail. We know of a lady who was bald, who used the gridel a short time, and her head is now covered completely with the timiest and most beautiful curis imaginable. We know of numerous cases where hair was rapidly falling out, which it restored in greater perfection than it were had been before.

It is also without daub one of the best articles for keeping the hair in good condition; making it soft and glossy, removing dandraff and has proved itself the greatest enemy to all the ills that the hair is heir to It is the duty of every one to improve their personal appearance though some may differ in regard to the ways of doing it; but every one will admittant a beautiful head of hair, either in man or woman, is an object much to be desired, and there are no means that should be left untried to obtain such a consideration.—

[Woman's Advocate, Philadelphia

Cochocton, Ohio, Nov. 17, 1856.

O. J. WOOD & Co.—Gents: As I have been engaged in selling your Hair Restorative the last season for one of your local agents (R. M. Hackinson.) and have experienced the beneficial effects of it myself, I would like to obtain an agency for the State of Ohio or some State in the West, should you wish to make such an arrangement, as I am convinced there is nothing equal to it in the United States, for restoring the hair. I have been engaged in the Drug business for several years, and have sold various preparations for the hair, but have found nothing that restores the secretive organs or invigorates the scalp as well as yours, being fully convinced that your restorative is what you represent it to be. I would like to engage in the sale of it, for I am satisfied it must sell.

Yours truly.

Wayland, Mass, Feb. 5, 1857.

PROF. O. J. WOOD & Co—Gents: Having realized the good effects of your Hair Restorative, I wish to state, that finding my hair growing thin, as well as gray, I was induced from what I read and heard, so try the article prepared by you, to promote its growth and change its color as it was in youth, both of which it has effected completely. In the operation I have used nearly three bottles.
