A tragedy was near being cuacted at the residence of Mr. Henry, several miles above Pakayra, last Thursday. One of the many strollers new infesting this section of count y, came to the house while the family, with the exception of a son of Mr. Henry, were attending a neighbor's funeral. The travelor and the boy got into a quarrel, when the boy seized a gun and snapped it at the former. It was fortunate that the gun did not fire as it was heavily loaded with a bull.

The stranger then rushed into the house, seizad a poker and hove it at the boy, while the latter was beating a retreat. The traveler then also made himself scarce.

Her chamber was in a far-off apartment in the second story of the building, and separated by several vacant rooms from where the other members of the family slept. About midnight a brisk breeze sprung up, and for a time threatened an angry storm; and it was this that fortunately ening to the rising wind, she was suddenly aroused by hearing a noise at her window. Lifting her head from her pillow, she was startled by the appearance of a corpulent form, apparently struggling to gain admittance into her chamber. The effect upon her can be imagined. It struck her at first that the in mider, had procured a ladder, window. He seemed struggling with stern determingtion to enter. Conscious of her isolated situation, she became bewildered with a thousand ideas of what to do, that flitted in an instant through her brain.

Thus, in her terrible despair, did her little feet dance totteringly around the room. Her imagination was excited almost to distraction. To scream, to faint, to harl berself from the window -to do one of these was her only alternative .-Crying as though her heart would break, and with a frontic shrick, she made one wild leap and bounded from the room. THE ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH CABLE .-- We learn The Atlantic Telegraph Cable.—We learn that Cyrus W. Field, expects to leave for London within a week or ten days to renew labors, in connection with the company in London, in having manufactured, during the summer a new Atlantic cable. This is to be brought on with all the new improvements, and fully preparing for laying across the Atlantic early in the summer, laying across the Atlantic early in the summer, of next year. We understand that Mr. Field expresses his faith in the ultimate success of the enterprise as strongly as he did at its first commencement. His perseverance in such a noble undertaking deserves success. He thinks that the emergencies of war in Europe will prove favorable to the enterprise, as they will demonstrate more decidedly than ever the necessity of the communication.—N. Y. Herald.
