AN ADJUSTABLE PIECE OF MA-CHINERY.

Captain Evans was a navy veteran of sixty-seven. He had lost an arm and an eye years and years before at Navarino, which last action settled his understanding, both legs being carried off by a chain shot. Cork legs were coming into fashion. Captain E. had a pair of the first quality made for him; he had a false arm and hand; into the latter he could screw a fork or a hook, as the occasion roquired, and being gloved the deficiency was not easily perceived. As in-creasing years rendered him infirm his valet took advantage of him, so that he wrote to his brother-a Somersettshire squire-to send him up some tenants's son as a body servant. 'No matter how stupid, if but honest and faithful,' he wrote.

His brother was absent, and sent his stewart to select a lad. This the his stewart to select a lad. This the steward did, but merely mentioned that Captain Evans was infirm, not apprising the bumpkin of his new master's deficiencies, and sent him

- Shasta, California, being the head of 'Wohaw' navigation, the hotels in this town were full to overflowing, when Judge B----- arrived and asked the landlord for his room. The landlord greatly regretted the fact, 'there was but one oppor-tunity even to sleep undor his roof, and that in a double bed already oc-miner from the neighboring coun-ty, who was well acquainted with Judge B—— by reputation." The Judge, making a virtue of necessity, agreed to sleep with Pat for the night and was shown into the room by Boniface, who waked Pat and told him who was to be his bedfellow.— Pat was agreed. The landlord retir-ed, and the Judge commenced the double process of undressing and re-minding Pat of the honor of which he was about to be the recipient, and at the same time talking of the 'ould counthry' and promaring Pat to civit and asked the landlord for his room. at the same time talking of the ould counthry' and proparing Pat to give STEAM PLANING MILL. him, the Judge, his support at the coming election. 'Yis, yer Honor,' said Pat, 'and I think yer Honor would have been in the 'ould counthry' a long time before ye'd been mained a long time in the old councounthry' a long time before ye'd been a Judge, too !' The Judge waked up next morning, and looked at himself in the glass to see whether a bad night's rest had injured his looks.

Mr A Tetter from Paris tells a strange story of a recent discovery in science, culminating in a melancholy denouement.
