AN EXTRAORDINARY CURF OF DEAFNESS.

A new discovery, made not lot since in Paris, excites a great deal attention; not merely on account of its intrinsic importance, but be cause of the melancholy result of it to the discoverer. It appears that a Mddlle. Cleret, a school-mistress, had been for many years very deaf, but one day she brought some thread. which was wrapped in a leaf of some work on geography which had fallen still-born from the press and had been sold as waste paper. She read on it that cortain peasant would cure them. selves of deafness by exposing their ears to certain emanations. She forthwith began to make experiments on herself-guided to different objects bollers of any size and shape made to order. None but No.1 Iron used, and no other than experienced workmen employed. Twenty nine children were attended by her, and in every instance advantageous results obtained. Two children, declared by approved medical men to be incurably deaf and dumb, were completely cured by her. Seven other children were attended by her, under the supervision of a com her, under the supervision of a com mittee; these children were complete-ly deaf and dumb. But Mdlle Cleret was poor-ex. tremely poor-and she wrote to the Minister of Public Instruction, announcing her discovery and asking the state to assist her in making if known. Doctor Behier was ordered to examine her claim. He reported in favor of granting her very consid-erable pecuniary assistance, and asked that a medical committee be appointed to examine profoundly into Mdlle. Cleret's method. The Committee ap-pointed consisted of Mons. Lelut, Mons Berard, Mons. Georges Ritt, Mons Yalade Gabel, Mons. Rapet, Mons Pillet and Doctor Behier. It first met in October, 1856, and every three months thereafter, to examine the state of the childron confined to M'lle Cleret's curd. While they were in the state of the childron confined to M'lle cleret's curd. While they were in the midst of this study, the poor school-mistress went mad. The contrast between the obscurity of her position and the fame given by her cure— were too much for her wits. Sho is now in a lunatic asylum. The medical means used by Mdlle.
