SINGULAR CIRCUMSTANCE

A remarkable circumstance in natural history has lately occurred in Miss Sparrow's schools, in the village of Colwhich. During the holidays in Easter week, one of the windows of the boys' school being open, a robin on still sat erect and firm, with head from the window into an alley on the two parcels of books on a shelf, which thrown back and his right hand side of the house, and had merely any of the boys could reach. It has act of self-discipline to the school, and a very interesting lesson in natural ? history. Whilst the boys have been at work or at play, or even when singing at norning prayers, the bird has been going in and out, apparently quite unconcerned, fetching worms for her chicks, or sometimes sitting at the open window watching the schokars, if not joining in their song. Her mate seldom, if ever, ventured into the room, but constantly brought insects to the window, or to a neighboring tree, which she fetched away to her brood as fast as he supplied them. Last Monday, being strong enough on the wing to be safely trust. ed (though not able to fly up to the high window at which the dam entered,) the young birds were caught and allowed to fly into the neighboring bushes. Till then it had not been observed that there were more than four of them, but after tour had been & caught and sent out, the mother still kept flying in and about the room as if in search of something. Atlength a chirp was heard on the floor, and there a fifth chick was found, which was caught and put through the window to the rest, to the great and unmistakable delight of the mother, who flew to welcome it with joy, apparently proving, beyond a doubt, that the anxious parent could count her flock and miss one if absent. Since then she has returned to the room no more. It will be a matter of interest to see whether another year she will seek again the quarters where she with such hospitable treatment. again the quarters where she has met
