THE CORNER.

-WHAT WE ARE MADE OF .-- Oliver Wendell Holmes tells what we are made of next havest. Another portion of his fnture person he will purchase, or others will purchase for him headed up in the form of certain barrels of potatoes. A third fraction is yet to be gathered in the southern rice field. The limbs with which he is then to walk will then be clad with ficsh borrowed from the tenants of many stalls and pastures, and now unconscious of their doom. The very organs of speech with which he is to talk so wisely, plead so eloquently, or speak effectively, must first serve his humble brethern to bleat, to bellow, and for all the varied utierances of bristled or feathered barn-yard life .--His bones themselves are to a great extent in posse and not esse. A bag of phosphate of lime, which he has ordered from Prof. Mapes for his grounds, contains a larger part of what is to be his skeleton. And more than all this, by far the greater part of his body is nothing at all but water, the main substance of his scattered members is to be looked for in the reserve voir, in the running streams, at the bottom of the well, in the clouds that float over his head. or diffused among them all.
