The Courier editor was in a bad atmosphere a week ago. He visited a place where heads and tongues win and hearts lose, -- where, in fact, hearts are embalmed and nicely stowed away for a future emergency; where every man's hand is turned against every other many and where every one is hosing his own row by billingsgate, or not hosing at all. Every one that comes within this tainted atmosphere is more or less effected with the disease, and speedily evinces a like disposition to abase somebody. Frequently pistols and bowie knives are the result, hence those of a peaceful disposition, follow the golden rule that discretion is the better part of valor, hurry home or to some other place, where bodily danger is not so great, and there give full vent to the blle inbibed-or rather, "blow off the steam." Our neighbor was sur-charged with the tainted atmosphere of Washington when he reached home last week, as could be seen in the Courier following his return.

The Democrats of North Liebanon township will meet at the public house of BEN-JANIN ZELLEN, in North Lebanon borough, on SATURDAY, MARCH 9, 1861, at 1 o'clock, P. M., for the purpose of nominiting candidates for

Gov. Curtin and citizens of the State of Pennsylvania : Perhaps the best thing that I could do would be simply to endorse the patriotic and elo-quent speech which your Governor has just made in your hearing. I am quite sure that I am unable to address to you anything so appropriate as that which he has uttored. Reference has been made by him to the distrac-tion of the public mind at this time and to the great task that lies before me in entering upon the administration of the General Government. With all the eloquence and ability that your Governor brings to this theme, I am quite sure he does not -in his situation he cannot-appreciate as I do the weight of the great responsibility. I feel that, under God, in the strength of the arm and wisdom of the heads of those masses after all, must be my support. As I have often had oc-casion to say, I ropeat to you—I am quite sure I do not deceive myself when I tell you I bring to the work an honest heart; I dare not tell you that I bring a head sufficient for it. If my own strength should fuil, I shall at last fall back upon these masses, who, I think, under any circumstances will not fail.

Allusion has been made to the peaceful principles upon which this great Commonwealth was originally settled. Allow me to add my meed of praise to those peaceful principles. I hope no one of the Friends who originally settled here, or who lived here since that time, or who live here now, has been or is a more devoted lover of peace, harmony and concord than my humble

But, at the same time, allow me to express the hope that in the shind time, allow me to ex-press the hope that in the shedding of blood their services may never be needed, especially in the shedding of fraternal blood. It shall be my en-denvor to preserve the peace of this country so far as it can possibly be done, consistently with the maintenance of the institutions of the country. With my consent, or without my great displeasure, this country shall never witness the shedding of one drop of blood in fraternal strife. And now, my fellow-citizens, as I have made many speeches, will you allow me to bid you farewell?

The procession then again formed and proceeded to the Capitol, where an oration was delivered by Speaker Palmer of the Senate. As we had no ticket of admission, we were obliged to remain an outsider with thousands of other good Democrats and Republicans.

We presume it is all right on such occasions to keep the "mud-sills" at a proper distance, but we could see no earthly use for the military to envolopo the President and his carriage during the rocession as they did. They seemed to be afraid that his life was in danger, and ready to receive any and all assaults that might be made upon him on their own proclous bodies. They prevented the President from seeing or being seen, and we doubt if one out of every ten, of the thousands of people that lined the pavements, doorways, and windows of the streets along which the procession passed got the slightest glance at the man they were anxious to see. The Tariff bill was again considered in the higher branch of Congress on Monday, but without final action. An effort was made by Mr. Seward to procure a reduction of the proposed

The bill provoked considerable opposition, and an effort was made to procure its rejection, but the House refused to reject it—110 to 67. Mr.

Stanton pressed for the previous question, but the expiration of the morning hour prevented its being taken. The report of the Com-mittee of Thirty-three was considered, and an antisecession speech was made by Webster, of Mary-land. The bill reported by Mr. Sheruan, from the Cemmittee of Ways and Means, allowing the issue of bonds of the denomination of $50, in lieu of a portion of the loan already authorized, lieu of a portion of the loan already authorized, was passed. The Senate bill, organizing the Ter-ritorial Government of Colorado, was taken up under a suspension of the rules, and passed, af-tersome debate. The House held an evening session, at which, as usual on such occasions, a number of speeches were made to empty benches.

The proceedings of Congress on Tuesday were extremely interesting and important. In the Sen-ate, after the presentation of the usual number of petitions and memorials, the Tariff bill was taken up and occupied attention until the adjourning to refer the National troubles to a National Convention, and moved this substitution for the report of the Committee of Thirty-thries. They were laid over under the rulo. The bill reported by Mr. Stanton, authorizing the President to call out militia in certain contingencies, was then ta-ken up, and a long and excited debate took place upon it. Mr. Stanton insisted there was a mis-apprehension in regard to the bill and proceeded to explain its purposes, concluding with a move for the previous question This was opposed by a number of members Northern and Southern, who desired more time to examine its provisions in order that they might vote understandingly. A motion to lay the bill on the table, was negatived, 105 to 68; but the expiration of the morning hour inally stopped the debate, and the matter gave finally stopped the debate, and the matter gave place to report of the Committee of Thirty three. The day session was finished with a debate on the Senate's amendment to the Naval Apprepri-ation bill, which provides for the building of seven additional steam sloops of war. A night session was held for general debate.

The proceedings of Congress on Wednesday, were again of an interesting and important character. In the Senate, the bill authorizing the Postmaster-General to discontinue the mail service in those States where it is liable to be interfered with was debated. It was opposed by Southern members as a direct attempt to strike at Seceeding States, and as a declaration of insurrection on the part of those States. Various amendments were suggested, but none of them were acted upon. The tariff bill was then taken up, and the amendments made on Tuesday in Committee were read and adopted, including the one reducing the duty on sugar, and placing one on tea and coffee. The bill was finally passed, 25 to 14. In the House, the consideration of Mr. Stanton's Millith bill was resumed, and Mr. Bo-

Mr. Bickler's name is now recorded among the nays on the Sunbury and Eric rail.)road bill and on the commutation of the Tonnage Duties on the Pennsylvania railroad. It certainly was not recorded in the first lists of votes published after the passage of said bills, and every reader of the Philadelphia papers, from which we copied, knows such to be the fact. We would do no injustice to Mr. Bicksler -never intended; but from the way in which our report of last week, relative to said vote, is met by the Courier, anybody would be justified in suspecticg some hocus pocusing.

Mr. C. P. Stinemetz, of Annville, is now in the west buying another lot of Horses. He will be back in about two weeks.

The Pickpockets had a flourishing trade at Harrisburg on Friday. Probably twenty persons lost their pocket books, with sums of money yarying from $10 to $100. Several of our Lebanon folks were among the unfortunate his face indicated a lacking of firmness and othones.

In company with about 20 carloads of the good people of Lebanon and Berks counties, we paid a visit on Friday last, to Harrisburg, to attend the Democratic State Convention, participate in the raising of the flag on the dome of the capitol, see Mr. Lincoln, and, in general See the sights. We put up at Coverly's, Buchler's and Herr's, first class Houses! As the convention was adjourned, and the flag raised, by the time we reached Harrisburg, we proceeded to the foot of Second street, where the Presidential train was to stop. Perching ourselves on top of a board fence, we paitently awaited the arrival of the cars. The crowd was immense. The military also, appeared in all their glory-particularly that portion on horseback. Fuss and feathers were triumphant there as they are, unfortunately, on all such occasions. At last the train arrived, and Mr. Lincoln was received into a carriage drawn by six white horses, and the grand crowd accompanied the grand procession up Second strest to Coverly's hotel. Governor Cartin rode in the carriage with the President elect, and in other carriages following were prominent gentleman of the state and nation, among whom we 1860. noticed our Congressman and Senator, Messrs. Killinger and Boughter. To gain time, we cut cross a lot, through a mud hole, over a manure heap, and up a filthy alley, reaching the Hotel in time to have our pocket picked. Fortunately we had left our pocket-book at home, thus escaping that misfortune. Our corns, however, were pretty well reduced by being frequently pressed into the mud with sledge-hammer boots, but they will grow again. Pretty soon Mr. Lincoln appeared on the balcony, accompanied by the Governor, Mr. Stains, our Prothonotary, and many others whom we did not know. After the commotion bad subsided-(there was not much enthusiasm,) Mr. Curtin addressed Mr. Lincoln as follows :-

Sin :- It is my pleasure to welcome you to the Sin: --It is my pleasure to welcome you to the Sin: --It is my pleasure to welcome you to the Batte of Pennsylvania, and to extend to you the hospitalities of this city. We have frequently heard of you since you left your home in a distant place, and every word that has fallen from your lips has fallen upon the ears of an excited, part-itie but loyal people. (Applease) Sir, as Pres-ident elect of the United States, you are called to the discharge of official duties at a period of time when the public mind is distracted and divided, when animosities and distractions divided its pre-ple of this bitherto happy and prosperous country.

want office, which accounts for their officiousness. When the proceedings were concluded in the Capitol the procession returned to Coverly's and Mr. Lincoln retired to his rooms. We promenaded the parlors until near the time of departure for the cars. Without accident, and most of us perfectly sober, we, to the number of fourteen cars filled to repletion, returned to our homes. "Old Abe," is not so ill featured a man as represented, nor is he very old. We would judge him to be about fifty. He is dark complected, wears a beard, and whiskers forward over his checks; has a prominent nose and small dark eyes. In stature he is medium height. He wore a new black hat with white lining, black (kid we presume) gloves, and a black overcoat well buttoned "down before." We earnestly hope he may be fitted for the emergency of the times and nation, but, we fear, the position is too much for him. Although favorably impressed with him, we still thought that er qualities requisite for the chief of a great nation at this time. He rather seemed to create a The 22d of February was celebra. feeling of sympathy than of confidence. The used to such demonstrations, when Mr. Lincoln left the cars and first entered the prowd, his lips ed his part well throughout-only he should have ordered the horsemen away from the sides of his > carriage. There, if anybody can describe the President elect and his reception at Harrisburg, better than we have done, our old-hat is at his service as soon as it is worn out.

IN NEW ENGLAND

One of the most flourishing branches of trade in the New England States has heretofore been the boot and shoe business, which has been enjoyed almost as a monopoly by that section of country. But we perceive by the returns that the falling off has been very considerable within the past year, in consequence of the political troubles in which the country is involved-a great portion of the shoe trade being done with the South, and no small part of it comprising the supply furnished for the use of the slaves. It appears that the number of cases of shoes, and the value thereof, sent from the New England States for the years 1859 and 1860, were as follows :

 Cases.	Value:
717,991 .652,047	$32,309,595 $29,387,115
	$0.000 APO

480 65,944 Decroase, Here we have a falling off in one year of nearthree millions of dollars in one branch alone of Northern industry, upon which we may base some calculation of what the decrease must be in the manufacture of cotton goods, iron, machin-ery and other departments. In the face of facts like these it is no wonder that a reaction of sentiment has taken place in the Eastern States-that ment has taken place in the Eastern States—that the abolition meetings and John Brown glorifica-tions are broken up by the people, and Union meetings and anti-coercion assemblages are en-thusiastically sustained. If such be the consc-quences to trade and manufacture resulting from the beginning of the trouble with the South, what may we not expect to see in case that open hostilities should be resorted to? The manufac-tures of New England may find that the triumph of an abstract idea is but a sorry return for trade f an abstract idea is but a sorry return for trade lost and prosperity thrown away; and the me-chanics and mill operatives may unhappily real-
