HOME AFFAIRS.

THE New York and Pittsburgh Express Trains, over the Lebanon Valley Railroad. will commence running on Monday, the 13th of May-a week later than we announced. The arrangement is also materially altered, at the instance, as we are informed, of the Central Bail, road of New Jersey. Instead of the two daily Express Trains, each way that were originally agreed upon, only ene-the night line-will run. by the following time-table:

Going West .- Leave New Nork at 7.30 P. M. Arrive in Harrisburg at 3.05 A. M. Going East .- Leave Harrisburg at 1.30 P. M.

Arrive in New York at 8,30 P. M. This line will run independent of the passenger trains at present upon the Lebanon Valley road, and stop only at the principal stations. The night train, going West, will be provided with sleeping cars. . On the 18th, the day this arrangement goes into effect, some important changes of hours in the regular passenger trains on the Reading, East man. Meeting him just before the arrival of the Penna. and Lebanon Valley Railroads, will be cars they determined to settle old scores and at-"maqe

A BOY, named Isaac Fining, had his the hour of trial. foot cut off by the cars last week, rendering the amputation of the leg necessary, at Reading, in attempting to obtain a ride on the platform of the cars. We know that the employees about Depots are greatly annoyed by boys on the track and hanging to the cars during the arrival and departure of the trains, and Lebanon is no exception to other Depots. Fortunately, no accident has occurred thus far, and this is the very reason that measures should now be taken to stop the nuisance. The employees frequently get themselves into trouble with parents for driving their chil- and confidence in the loyalty of Misdren from the most dangerous situations, henco, there should be a policeman stationed at the Depot to arrest all who put their bodies in the situation of having mince meat made thereof.

HOW TO MAKE AN AMERICAN FLAG. Notwithstanding the number in use, few persons flenow how to make an American flag properly.— The rule is as follows: The flag should be one half longer than wide, viz: if 6 feet wide, 9 feet long; if 8 feet wide, 12 feet long; the stripes and residence of the writer, although The field should be blue and extend over seven that he is not and would not be de. stripes, commencing at the top, four red and that he is not and would not be de-three white. Capt. Faber's Company, of Jonesown, passed through this place on Monday, for Harrisburg, to offer their services to the government. They had not been accepted, but presumed that the Governor would not reject them when they thus personally offered themselves .---The Company we believe is a full one and in excellent drill. The history of the world never before furnished an example where soldiers pressed themselves into the service of the government for the defence of the flag, as is now seen every day.

A disgraceful proceeding took place on Monday noon at the Depot. It seems that several of the members of Capt. Faber's Company had an old grudge against a man named Brutz. tacked him. He run and they after him with a volley of stones. He made his escape into Ramler's bar-room and locked the door. They broke in the door and window, and stoned the interior. The effect of the power with which the stones were cast being perceptible on the wall and counter where they struck. One of the first stones thrown in struck Mr. Geo. I. Arentz, the owner of the house, who was unaware of the Many of the Banks of Pennsylva- fight, on the forehead, knocking him down and in the small of the back with a stone. The departure of the cars drew off the rioters, and peace was restored. LETTER FROM MISSOURI. no The following letter, received on Monday from a friend in Missouri, breathes such a spirit of patriotism, souri, that we cannot refrain from laying it before our readers. With such men to fight for the Union in Missouri, (and there are no doubt also many such in the seceding states, although they may be shackled at present) the perpetual integrity of the whole Union has risen fully to par in our estimation. . We omit the name -and just such as those given below cure from the enemy's guns. We arrived at An-napolis at 6 o'clock in the morning, and our five thousand soldiers landed. One of the New York Regiments just left as we marched in, and a portion of the Massachusetts boys were left to guard the place. Among others, the 71st New York Regiment attracted attention, and a finer body of men I never saw. They were fully equipped, well drilled, and well behaved. The Boston Flying Artillerists also are a good look. ing set of men; bat when little Rhode Island enme in I was willing to accord to her the palm of having the neatest-looking body of men.

miles from Washington, on the Baltimore and Obio Railroad. Although there is a Railroad to the Junction we had to march on foof; and such march I never expect again to make. We had or go along the Railroad to see that every thing was in a proper condition. Although it was but 20 miles it took us from 6 A. M. to 6 P. M., and when we arrived at the latter place there were not six men in our company that were not lamed and hardly able to get along. Marching on R. R. sills and sand six inches deep is not what it is eracked up to be. This is a barren country— no town along the whole line of the rond—the soil poor and hilly, and the water had. There are a good many secessionists along this route The telegraph was torn down; the railroad had been torn up, but was repaired by one of the reg-iments that passed before us. At one place there had been a passenger train thrown off the track the night before us. he night before, and it chilled me to behold such sight. The engine was thrown down a high a sight. The engine was thrown down a high embankment and was all smashed to pieces. As we passed the indignation of the boys was aw-ful, and I have no doubt, if they could have caught the demons, they would have never in-jured a railrond again. We arrived at the Junc-tion at about 6 o'clock, quartering in the open air and sleeping on our arms. This portion of Maryland is swarming with secessianists; and our quarters belonged to one of them. Here we were refused water by the citizons and had to use the water from the tank of the Railroad Company. he water from the tank of the Railroad Company We passed the night without any disturbance and when morning came we felt ourselves refreshed. Here an incident occurred which I will give :-A man came into our camp and commenced in-quiring about the different plans, pretending to be for Union, but at last suspicion fell on him, and he was sharply questioned by some of the boys of our company, and could render no good account of himself. We went and had a quard account of himself. We went and had a guard placed to watch his movements, and before he was aware of anything he was taken as a spy, and we brought him along to Washington, where he was recognized us a rank Secessionist, and placed under guard. We left the Junction at 10 o'clock on Saturday for Washington, on the Bal-timore and Ohio Bail Road, and as we went long we stationed strong guards along the road

A FEW HOURS ON TELEGRAPH HILL. SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA, | Monday, March 25, 1861. Monday, March 25, 1851. J Advertiser Editor: — Telegraph Hill occupies a prominent position at the direct north point of the City of San Francisco, and its name is de-rived from being used, a number of years ago, as an inner telegraph station to signal vessels en-tering the harbor. Since the establisement of a marine telegraph to Point Lobos, the use of fing signals from this point to one similar on a high point on the ocean's coast—distance between the two being perhaps five miles—has been dispens. It is frequently my privilege-most on Sabbath afternoons-to ascend this rather steep and ab rupt hill, where may be found many others who take pleasure in making the same walk. The circuit round to gain the eminence could he made a charming feature, and the new comer entertains doubts, when viewed from a distance, as to its easy accent; but the pleasure of a walk there speedily dispels all such delusive ideas, and the atisfaction gained doubly repays every moment spent in going thither. Allow me then, Mr. Ap-rime White riser, to write out a few thoughts that suggested themselves to my mind while on said hill one New Corn, Octs asant afternoon, for your columns.

Sometimes it hurst out in Ulcers on my hands and arms; sometimes it hurst in Ulcers on my hands and arms; sometimes it burned inward and distressed me at the stomach. Two years ago it looke out on my head and covered my scalp and eurs with one sore, which was painful and loathcome beyond description. I tried many medicines and several physicians, but without much relief from any thing. In fact, the disorder grew worse. At length I was rejuiced to reach in the Gaspel Messenger that, you had prepared an alternative (Sarsaparilla, for I knew from your reputhion that any thing you made must be good. I sent to Gincinnatiand got it, and used it till it cured me. I took it, as you advice, in some theory of a knew node heating while file. that Missour, in the cool, cain and sober judg. ment of the masses, is for the Union as it. was, and as it is under the Constitution, First, Last and Forever, and that when she suss fight, (armed NEUTRALITY, considered,) she will fight for and under the glorious Stars and Stripes—that Fing under which alone she will seek and find protec-tion in this and every other hand tion in this and every other hand. -In our late election for Delegates to the State Convention we assured the country by a majority vote of 80,000 that we were and intend to remain in the Union. In this county of ____, (of which this city is the metropolis,) which is one of the this city is the metropolis,) which is one of the most populous Slave counties in the state, the rebel nominees for Delegates in the Convention were defeated by a majority of 1500 in a vole of less than 3000. We sent our noble Henderson, who proclaimed to the Convention, to the state, and to the country, that if the Crittenden, Border State or any other Compromise proposition were not passed, Missouri would not secode, and that if Virginia, Kentucky, and all the Border Slave States went out, Missouri would still not go out. States went out, Missouri would still not go out. The approval of the galleries and the response of the people of the state showed the sentiment of Missouri most decidedly. None but a madman never yet has acknowledged the right of a State Howore does not compel her to adopt such a course, and it remains to determine whether her interests demand that she should make enemies of the ucumuu chat she should made encates of the millions of people that border eight hundred miles of her territory. With but one interest in common with the South, the has everything to loss and nothing to gain by secession. Can she tose and nothing to gain by secession. Uan she allow fifty millions of fleeting, transitory proper-ty to centrol her destiny? to tempt her to leave a good government under which she has lived a good government under which she has hver cultented and prosperously, and which she knows has the power to protect her, for one that is pow-erless to offer her any guarantees whetever? Will not, in the event of seccession, that property leave her, like rats from a burning house--crossing the borders on three sides and cutting their way, in borders on three sides and catching that hay, in droves, from the interior, well knowing that once out of the state, they are free ?--will she not in a few years' time find herself isolated from her new rew years time and nerseit isolated from her new friends by all that her prosperity would demand and by the loss of that common tie that binds her to them, in the Union? and, isolated from the damning blot of treason and condemnation which she, herself, had affixed to her escutcheon? de-tasted by concern anglesized by the other her stars she, herself, had affixed to her escuttheon? de-tested by one and neglected by the other, her atter ruin would be inevitable. The Slave Trade would destroy all she might be able to retain in negroes, and Free Taude would blast her manufacturing prospects, now so bright, and render valueless her inexhaustible riches in iron, lead, copper, &c. LETTER FROM WASHINGTON. WASHINGTON, May 1, 1860. We are now quartered in what is called the City Hall Buildings. The portion we eccupy is the celebrated Inauguration Ball Room. Our cruise to Annapolis was the most delightful I

We gain the eminence, and in every direction behold the refreshing effects produced by the rain that had but reently fallen. We are now in the season of the year when we experience the most lovely and beautiful weather in the year. Feb-raary may be considered the midst of the rainy season, when the green of the landscape is the freshest and all the elements combine to make it the month in the year of beauty and comfort. Tt the month in the year of beauty and comfort. It is not to be understood that what is called the

"rainy season," is a season of continual rain .---We have frequent suspensions, when the air and sky will rival that of any latitude on the face of the earth. It rains frequently for whole days to gether, and yet during the whole season no more raio falls than in the autuinnal months in the East. Everything had put on a garment of green, im-parting an invigoration that could be taken into the lungs at every breath ; to the east, the grey and sombre looking Coast Range of mountains and sombre looking Coast hange of mountains were revised, and owing to the clearness of the atmosphere, we see Oakland and Alumeda, with their groves of oaks, at the foot of the range, on the opposite side of the Bay; the slopes with their herds of cattle, and grooved formations, setting the latter off to their best advantage in the ord sclearing light of the fast deallying the soft and pleasing light of the fast declining sun. The gray head of the towering Mount Dia blo looms up in grandeur in the background, fac-ing the Golden Gate in a direct line westward.— At the Gate, looking westward from our point of bservations, stands a commanding sentinel in the shape of Fort Point-standing immediately where the Gate "hinges," and by whose permission alone, should it become a questionable mat-ter, the "bars" would be let down for those that desire to enter. Fort Alenitraz, a la Sumter, is pearer at band, and with .a Major Anderson in command, would prove impregnable. Southward o a great distance, stretches the Day of San Franby Boyard Taylor in his letters East when he was here, two years ago. This extensive traveler and lecturer-by the way, in his last named capacity lecturer-by the way, in his last named capacity a certain literary society up country will long remember him for his great condecension and lib-cratity, in charging only $250 to deliver a lecture. when the receipts fell short some $50-is very apt to make heavy drafts upon his imagination; and paint the ideal instead of the real. It is true that its equal instead of the real. It is true that its equal instead of the real. It is much that the Rev. T. Starr King, in his "Ride round the Bay" in the Boston Transcript, has painted it to the life. The circuit from San Francisco vin San Jose to Oakland, is fifty miles, and this is San Jose to Oakland, is fifty miles, and this is termed round the bay. While thus engaged in beholding the surround ing landscapes, passing remarks on the lovely, grand and pleasing views, ever and anon the din and noise of the Metropolis of the Pacific at your feet, is sounding in your ears; and you are amazed to notice the space covered by a city but a mazed to notice the space covied by a city out a dozen years old—rechining more and more land every day from the bay, and extending up and over the may surrounding hills, in which latter respect it may be called a second Rome, built upon seven hills. From its old appearance one would not think that it had repeatedly been laid in ashes, and again and again—phoenix like —rose from its smouldering embers. It is yet destined to become one of the greatest commer-cial cities in the world. The fact is astounding, but nevertheless such are the sure indications. Its present population is upwards of 70,000 inhabitants, composed of people from almost every clime on the face of the globe, and in point of inclime on the face of the globe, and in point of in-telligence, it is not surpassed by many cities. are its senior by scores of years. Four and five story buildings rear their fronts on every side.— An absence of one week from any comparatively unimproved locality in any portion of the city, produces an entire change—presto—in its appear-ance, by improvements of every kindr Apropos, pernit me here to make somewhat of a locale ro-mark.
