

THE CORNER.

PAINTIN A REGULAR TRADE.

The late Henry Inman used to relate the following story: He was sitting in his studio, one morning in Murray street near Broadway, one morning when a jaunty looking young man and woman entered and wanted to see the picture he had painted of S'ph'ar G— in B—street. It was unfinished, but was readily shown to them by the always obliging artist.

"Oh, ain't that good! ain't that good! particularly the comb! That S'ph'ar's comb for all the world! I should have known it anywhere!"

The appreciative young lady's companion admitted that it was good, and added flatteringly to the artist: "After all, paintin's a regular trade, isn't it?"

He told his companion, however, that the best way to look at a picture, if you wanted to "throw it off," is so to stoop down and looked up at it through his legs! Somebody had given to that distance was sometimes given to a landscape by that process. Difference of costume rendered his improved lens unavailable to his companion.

ATMOSPHERIC FERTILIZERS.—M. Barral, of Paris, has lately made the discovery that rain water contains minute quantities of phosphorus. He believes that it exists in the form of phosphated hydrogen, which escapes from decaying animal substances. As phosphorus is necessary to the fertility of the soil, we have in this discovery a key which unlocks the secret of "summer fallow" land becoming fertile. The ancient Hebrews were accustomed to allow the land to rest without cultivation every few years. This was no doubt, for the purpose of restoring it from comparative barrenness by cropping, to renewed fertility. It is now well known, that ammonia also exists in rain water, and this is held to be the chief of fertilizing agents. Any worn-out lands may be restored to fertility by allowing them seasons for repose, in the manner that Moses provided for the perpetual fertility of the land of Israel.

BLESSING IN DISGUISE.—A Dutch preacher, who was warmly inclined in favor of the holy party during the Revolutionary war, happened to get into an American camp on Sunday, and was consequently called on for a sermon and a prayer. He from force of habit, commenced the latter with "Got pleas to King," whereupon there was considerable excitement among the soldiers. When he perceived it, with admirable presence of mind, he continued: "Yes, my hearers, I say, Got pleas to King—pleas him mit plenty of hat times—pleas him mit a whip parliament—pleas him mit defeats on land unt on sea—pleas him mit all kinds of pad luck—pleas him mit sickness—pleas him mit a short life—ant—Lord, may we have no more of him!"

GEN. BUTLER'S STRATEGY AT THE BAR.—One of Gen. Butler's shrewd professional freaks is told by a young factory girl formerly in one of the Lowell mills. She having discharged the corporation refusing to pay her she sought legal redress and retained M. Butler for her counsel. He listened to her case with much interest, and afterwards consulted the representative of the corporation, who still refused to pay the girl her wages. Butler then issued a writ, and attached the main water-wheel of the establishment, and by bringing the whole manufactory to a stop, the corporation, rather than allow their mills to remain idle, and await the law's delay, paid the girl her wages, and resumed operation.

A CURE FOR HYDROPHOBIA.—One of our exchanges publishes the following relative to an alleged remedy for hydrophobia: "A Saxton forester, named Gastell, now of the venerable age of eighty-two, unwilling to take to the grave with him a secret of so much importance, has made public in the Leipzig Journal the means which he has used for fifty years, and wherewith he affirms he has rescued many human beings and cattle from the fearful death of hydrophobia. Take immediately warm vinegar or tepid water, wash the wound clean therewith, and then dry it; then pour upon the wound a few drops of hydrochloric acid, because mineral acids destroy the poison of saliva, by which means the latter is neutralized."

A lady writes: "A bright little nephew of mine, some three years old, at his home where I was visiting was one day playing out of doors with a small house once occupied by a family dog. Passing by, in my full expanse of crinoline, I stopped to admire it and asked him if he ever went into it." "No," he replied.

"Why," said I, "if it was mine, I think I should go in." "Quick as thought, he turned his eye comically from the door-way of his dog-house to my proportions, and said, "it is yours!"

CURE FOR ILL-TEMPER.—A sensible woman, the mother of a young family, taught her children from the earliest childhood to be free from anger as a disorder which was to be cured by diet. Accordingly, she had always small quantities of rice, and the little patients, whenever it was thought needful, took rhubarb for their croakings. No punishment was required. Peevishness or ill-temper and rhubarb were associated in their minds always as cause and effect.

A ton of perfect pain can be more easily found than an ounce of perfect happiness. He knows little of himself or of the world, who does not think it sufficient happiness to be free from sorrow.

A farmer out West made a scarecrow this spring, so frightful, that an old crow actually went and brought back all the corn he had stolen during several days, and left it in the fields.
