A "Sucker's" idea of soundness is aptly illustrated in the remark of an old bee-hunter in one of the Egyptian counties. The "times" were the topic of conversation among a group of villagers at "the store," and the soundness of the various Illinois banks was under discussion. Among these is the Gaston Bank, owned by Smith, a popular man among the "copperas-breeches" thereabouts.

A Peasant who had a miserable old hack horse, who was absolutely dying of old age resolved to destroy him. As he was riding along the road, he met a jockey riding a superb full blooded Arabian horse.

"My friend," said the owner of the antiquated animal. "I'll bet you ten dollars I can do with my horse what you can't do with yours."

"Done!" said the jockey. The peasant quietly led his horse to the brink of the river and pushed him in. "Now, let's see you do that with your horse," he said. The jockey preferred paying the ter dollars.

Theodore Hook once said to a man, at whose table a publisher got very drunk: "Why, you appear to have emptied your wine cellar in your book cellar."

A Man Unsuspectingly Orders His Own GRAVE CLOTHES.- Last week a merchant of Boston, in the prime of life, and apparently in a perfectly healthy condition, called upon a tailor and was measured for a suit of clothes, to be sent home on Saturday night. They were received at the time appointed, but in the meantime the merchant had suddenly sickened with brain fever and died, and the new suit was used for the purpose of clothing the body for the grave.

A dandy negro entered a book store, and with a very consequential air, asked: "Hab you a few quiers ob de letter paper ob de berry best rate, for gemmen to write lub letters on ?" "Yes. How much will you have?

"I s'pose my stay at de Spring may pe about two or tree weeks. Gib me 'nough quires to write four letters"

"Here'e what it says about you." said a flippant fellow to an Irishman, and he commenced reading something provoking about Pat's countrymen. "Does it say anything about me knocking a man down!" said Pat, gathering himself. Impudence was silent. The health of General Anderson is anything but satisfactory. His physicians have ordered him for the present to avoid all undue mental exercise. He is not allowed to engage in any of the public plans, on business even of the simplest nature possible; consequently he is living with his family in the utmost quiet at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, New York.

05 "Where did you get this turkey?" said Colonel Billy Wilson to one of his amiable recruits, who came into camp one day with a fine bird.

"Stole it," was the laconic answer. "Ah, you see my boys may steal but they won't lie," said the Colonel triumphantly to a bystander.

When Judge Peters, of Pa., was Speaker of the House of Assembly, one of the members, in crossing the room, tripped on the carpet and fell down. The House burst into laughter; while the Judge, with the utmost gravity, cried :-"Order, order, gentlemen—a member is on the floor."

Lord Campbell, a few days before his death, met a barrister, who had grown wery stout of late, and remarked, "Why, Mr. ____, you are getting so fat as a por-poise." "Fit company, my lord, for the rgeat seal," was the ready response.
