> OF The San Francisco correspondent of the New York Times relates a queer Miss Joey embarked on board a Dutch ship bound to Melbourne, and Mr. Eddy, with the baggage and funds of both, secretoutside they stood on different tacks, and were separated some miles. The captain of the Carrier Dove, old sailor like, thought more of a mile gained to windward than all the actors and actresses he ever saw, and instead of putting Mr. Eddy on board the Dutch Ship squared away with cracking breeze. The actor, it is thought, must have felt unhappy, but "to Cork and a market" he went, willy-nilly. On board the Dutch ship a similar scene was enacted. When Miss Joey saw the state of affairs, and the truth flashed upon her that her wardrobe, her money and her manager were heading for Cork and she for Australia, she raved and stormed and tore her beautiful hair, screamed and cried and offered unheard of sums to be put on board the Carrier Dove, but the captain smoked his short Dutch pipe very deck Miss Joey had gone off in a tragic tain's breakfast, and was soon probably a Rome. ey, minus wardrobe, and minus agent.

GENERAL :- On Thursday the 15th inst. he enemy commenced the attack on my right, assailing and following the rear guard of detachments under General Siegel to my main lines on Sugar Creek Hollows, but ceased firing when he met my reinforcements about four o'clock, P. M. During the night I became convinced that he had moved on so as to attack my right or rear. Therefore early on the 9th I ordered a change of front on my right, which thus becoming my left still, rested on Sugar Creek Hollow; this brought my line across Pea Ridge with my new right resting on the head of Cross Timber Hollow, which is the head of Big Sugar Creek.
I also ordered an advance of cavalry and light artillery under Col. Osterhans, with orders to attack and break whatever he supposed would be the reinforced line of the enemy. This movement was in progress when the enemy, at 11 A. M., com menced the attack on my right.

The fight continued warmly at these points during the day, the enemy having gained the point hold in command by Col. Uarr, at Cross Timber hollow, but was entirely repulsed with the fall of the rebel commander McCulloch in the centre by the forces under Col. Jeff. C. Davis, of

The plan of attack on the centre was gallantly carried forward by Col. Osterhans, who was immediately sustained and superseded by Col. Davis' entire divi-

WHOLE NO. 665.

My left, under Gen. Sigel, moved close to the bills occupied by the enemy, driving him from the heights, and advancing steadily towards the hollows. The right wing turning the left of the enemy and cross firing in his centre. This final position placed the enemy in the arc of a circle. A charge of infantry, extending throughout the whole line, completely routed the en-tire rebel force, which retired in complete deep, impassable defiles of cross timbers. Our loss is heavy, and that of the enemy cannot be ascertained, for the dead are too, may many of them perish.

At the beginning of a campaign a permanent special court martial was formed in each army corps, from whose decisions there was no appeal, and the secused, unless not found guilty, or discharged by a pardon of the Generalin-Chief, was not brought up before the court again to receive his sentence, but only informed of it when led off for execution. The sentences were executed within twenty-four hours Though some laws of the penal code were not strictly kept, and often entirely disregarded. For example, the confusion, but rather safely, through the law against marauding, was during a whole campaign overlooked. The whole army subsisted by marauding. Yet when circumstances required it the strong arm of the law noted without mercy,
