Why John, where are you going to in such a hurry?

Why, I am going to LAUBACH'S, in Market street, to buy a nice lot of Furniture.

Cabinet-makers in Lebanon together? Yes, John, I think I can tell that reason very plainly he has always got by far the largest and best assortmonts of all kinds of Furniture and Chairs on hand, which he also sells a great deal cheaper than any other Cabinet-maker; besides he has an excellent cushioned Furniture Wagon with which he delivers all furniture and Chairs sold by him, free of charge; these I think to be very good and advantageous reasons.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT .- A daughter of Levi Hess, aged about 17 years, of this borough, residing with her aunt at Middletown, recently had her leg broken, from the effects of which she died on Sunday.

It seems that a man named Nagle, of this place, was drowned in the same boat with Urban, on the Shonandoah. Nagle was a single men, and also a German.

It is a pleasure to us to announce nevertheless, by study, after hours of laborious so on, until either slavery or the present Congress toll, acquired, together with natural capacity of is abolished entirely. Hereafter when I vote I'll a higher order, a fund of information, which be a little more careful. Good day. made him a desirable acquisition to the corps of School Teachers of our borough. Of late years, in addition to school teaching, he has read law with Gen. Weidman, and has now been admitted to our Courts. Upon the completion of the present term of our schools, we understand, he intends to open an office for his new profession, and we bespeak for him the flattering support and confidence of the people of his native county.

Lieut. Jacob Kline, of this place, was in the Saitle of Pittsburg Landing. The following is the extract from a letter written on the battle seld to his parents. We are delighted that Lebanon was so well represented :

"You no doubt have heard of the glerious victory we have gained. After a long and wearisome march of twenty miles—with-out rest, almost without food—we entered the battle field. We were engaged four times, and each time drove the enemy back. Capt. Acker, my captain fell at the first fire—and the command of the company devolved upon me. My most intimate friend, Lieut. Mitchell, of New York City, was killed. I attended to the burial of Capt. Acker and Lieut. Mitchell: Our company, being the centre company, sustained the severest loss. Of my conduct I shall only say that I tried to do my duty. The official report of our officers will speak The omeial report of our omeers will speak for itself. Our loss is 25 persent, of the whole number engaged. The 15th and 16th Regulars are spoken of every where for their bravery and gallantry. LETTER FROM OHIO

For the Advertiser. MIAMISBURG, OHIO, April 22d, 1862. WH. M. BRESLIN, Sir :- I write from this place to give you a small synopsis of my travel to this place. On leaving Lebanon, I arrived at Harrisburg at 1 o'clock, passing through a fine agricultural district. In Harrisburg I had to wait a short time, for the western train for Pittsburg. By and by the Iron horse stood ready to take me off for the smoky city. Off he went with me, passing through the heart of the coal and fron producing region, and the grandest and picturesque of mountain scenery in the Keystone State. The Logan House at Altoons is a fine and commodiously constructed building, of fine architectural proportions. The traveler who sees it for the first time does not fail to feel surprise that so suburb a house has been erected there. Kittanning Point, at the top of a heavy grade presents the grandest view to the sight on the South Lebanon township, last week, when the was taken through the awesome - dark tunnel. The next and greatest engineering work on the road, is the curvature (the horse-shoe bend,) which is one of the greates engineering triumphs D .- I'll bet you a suit of clothes, and will leave of the age. The road grades at a curve of 95 feet to the mile. From which place I was soon taken to the smokey city, where I changed cars, which was the only length of time I stopped in Pittsburg. From thence I was almost in a twinkle of an eye taken into the Buck eye State. then on to Dayton. On which route I passed through some fine agricultural districts on to the Miama valley. The Miama valley is one of the finest agricultural sections of the country I ever saw. There is a great quantity of Tobacco raised in this section of the country.

The soil is very rich, and of a sandy nature, all through the valley.

Dayton is a very fine place; fine buildings in it; and very nicely situated on the banks of the Miama. The City contains the finest streets I ever saw in any City-the streets have the appearance, in firmuess and cleanliness, of a barn

A healthy, happy, joyous child, its strong constitution and buoyant spirit battled long and firmly against-the inroads of disease; but, overcome at length by protracted suffering, it found deliverance in the ponceful arms of death. What a light goes out in the family with the loss of such a child! The full loneliness of the vacant place only parents can know. Yet as every cloud has its "sliver lining" which shows that, there is a shining sin behind it. so every ch istan sorrow is illumined by the golden light of a better world beyond. The death of a child is the fulfillment of a great mission without bill, the winning of a great victory without a battle, and the reaching of a distant and glorious home by a short journey.

Lay her gently to her rest

Lay her gently to her rest
Neath the church-yard's shaded sod;
Wait, as her own spirit waits
For the trump of God!

Deck her grave with lively green, Plant a flower at its head; Hopeful, lovely be the scene Round the lonely dead. See her not as when she died, . Not as sleeping in the tomb— Think of her as glorified In the heavenly Home! In your heart's deep, silent love,

That can never die. The Lebanon Market.
