HOME AFFAIRS

Why John, where are you going to in such a burry? Why, I am going to LAUBACH'S, in Market street, to buy a nice lot of Furniture.

Well, John, can you tell me the reason why LAUBACH sells so much more Furniture and Chairs than all the Cabinet-makers in Lebanon together? Yes, John, I think I can tell that reason very plainly he has always got by far the largest and best assortments of all kinds of Furniture and Chairs on hand, which he also sells a great deal cheaper than any other Cabinet-maker; besides he has an excellent cushioned Furniture Wagon with which he delivers all Furniture sand Chairs sold by him, free of charge; these I think to be very good and advantageous reasons.

As the 93d Regiment will leave for the seat of war this week, the public will please bear in mind that the best and oldest CABINET MAKING ESTABLISHMENT, in Lebanon, is that of C. BROTHERLING's. Any person in want of good made work will please call on him, before buying elsewhere. C. BROTHERLINE. Lebanon, Nov. 20, 1861.—6mo.

Lewis Rank, so horribly burned, at a late fire and explosion, in Pottsville, died last week. His remains were taken to Jonestown, Lebanon county, and interred in the Lutheren burying ground of that place, on Friday last, followed by a large number of sympathising relatives and friends. The occasion was mproved with a feeling sermon by Rev. Mr. Gerhardt, of Jonestown The Pottsville Emporium has the folowing additional in regard to the accident met by Mr.

Rank:—
"We were in error last week in our report of the fire at Mr. Bright's store. We mentioned that the injuries received by Mr. Rank, were the consequence of the explosion of a keg of powder. This was not the case.—There was no powder exploded. Mr. Rank was caught in the yard at the rear of the store by the falling walls, and was severely burnt before he could be extricated.—We were misled in our remarks, by the rumors current at the time."

Mr. Cyrus Rank intends leaving again for California in the steamer on the 8th July .bride. A pleasant journey, and happy life and prosperity to them is the sincere wish of many a heart.

Mn. Entron:—A nist the exciting and impor-tant news from The mond, Corinth, the lower Mississippi, and the valley of Virginia, I pre-sume, that not much general interest can attach sume, that not much general interest can attach to the movements of: single squadron, especial y when they had foresult beyond the information obtained. Yet here is many a heart whose whole interest in this war is centered in my ranks, and as I have neither time, nor opportunity to address them individually, I must claim the benefit of your columns to give a brief sketch of the first scout in which Company F., of the 4th Penna Cavalry, has been engaged.

On Sunday last, the second squadron, under command of Capt. S. B. M. Young, of Allegheny county, composed of Cas. B. and F., was ordered to report at Division Head Quarters at 12 M. for instructions. We got there about 1 past 12, and by 1 o'clock, P. M. were en route. Our instructions were to cross the river Rappahannock, take the telegraph road leading from Fredericksburg to Richmond, and to make our way to Bull to Richmond, and to make our way to Bull-church, which it on that road. General McCall church, which is on that road. General McCall had information that some 1800 rebels belonging to Jackson's army, after the defeat of the latter at Front Royal by Shields, had come down the valley, and were encamped in that neighborhood. We were to get a near them as we could, observe their numbers, fosition, the nature of the forces, and the roads leading to their camp, and, if possible, to capture one or two of their pickets, if it could be done without giving the alarm, and only to fight in case of a surprise or some other nuforeseen and unavoidable exigency. The distance was stated to be about 18 or 20 miles, and we were to return as soon as we could consistent. we were to return as soon as we could consistent. by with the objects of the expedition. There are three main roads hading from Fredericksburg to Richmond, separating from the former point, like the sticks of a fun, for a considerable distance.— That on the left hand going South, is the Bowlroads, and some byemaths. The face of the country is rolling, much if it is cleared, but the forests are also numerous and dense, and almost entirely impenetrable to cavalry. There are fiver rivers crossing the Teigraph road, four of which are named, Ma, Ta, Po, and Nye, and which subsequently unite and furn the Mataponye river.

The fifth is White rivel. They are about the size of the Swatara, not so wide, but much deeper, and containing a greatet volume of water. We marched without incident until we came to a road leading across to the Spotsylvania road, about 13 miles out. Here we were informed by contrabands that the pickits of the rebels were within a mile of us. Capt Young immediately sent out detachments and virested all the citizens in the vicinity to prevent them from giving information. One young thin was brought in, whose appearance was so adjoicus that he was searched, but without any evilence of bad intentions being found on him. The Captain them dismonized twenty carbine ten, making them strap their sabres to their saddes, and sent them down the road under command of Lieut. Parke, a most excellent, trustworth and promising young officer, to reconnotire. La short time he sent back an orderly, mounted on an extemporised mule, directing us to advace to a house about a quarter of a mile furthed on, where we found him and his command, and learned from Mr. Cropp, the owner and resident that the rebelle had left on Saturday night, and that concefound him and his command, and learned from Mr. Cropp, the owner and resident that the reb-els had left on Saturday night, and that conse-quently there was no enemy there. We had also learned from the contrabands, that in the road,

The following letter from a member of Com pany F. explains the position and doings of Companies A., and F., during the late battle at Fair Oaks.]-EDITOR.

HEAD QUARTERS, CAMP NEAR SAVAGE'S,
6 miles from Richmond, June 4. MR. EDITOR -- Sir: We arrived at this place some six or eight days ago. We lay here until Thursday last, when we again advanced, at the same time expecting a brush with the enemy, but centrary to our expectations everything passed off quietly. At 2 P. M. Cos. A. and F. were detailed for picket. We were stationed to the left of Casey's Division. All was quiet till Friday noon, when the enemy's pickets fired on ours, and a skirmish ensued, in which the rebel pickets were repulsed. Our loss was 4 killed and several wounded. On Saturday, at 11 o'clock, A M., the enemy rgain attacked our pickets. The first alarm was caused by some shells coming into our lines, and immediately the firing of musketry commenced. Casey's Division was the first in the battle; the 81st N. Y. formed where we were stationed on picket. They had been there but a short time when we saw the enemy advancing, and the 81st opened fire; at the same time a regiment of rebels rushed out of the bushes at our line of pickets. Lieut Dissinger at once fell back with the men not on duty, Capt. Long at the same time calling the men from their posts, as they were then in danger of being captured .-By this time we joined Company A., and Capt. Long was not to be seen. He went to the Regiment, expecting to meet us there, but was disappointed. He stated to Col. McCarter how he got away from his Company, That on the left hand going South, is the Bowling Green Road; the central one is the Telegraph Road; and that on the right hand is the Spotavivania C. H. There are also two other roads, by which access could be obtained to Fredericksburg, the one running down the run, and the other up, but on the right bank of the stream. Between all these reads there are frequent crossroads, and some byequaths. The face of the country is rolling, much if it is cleared, but the forest are also numerous and dense, and almost enwere again ordered to fall back, as the rebels were enining on us. We had no force to stand the ground and were then almost surrounded. The officer of the day called the officers together and asked of them what we should do. We knew not how to get out of the scrape as the enemy had then already possession of our camp, and we knew not which way to go. Lieut. Dissinger came back to the Company and said that we must try and extricate ourselves or we would all be taken prisoners. We then struck through a dense woods, Compary A. following us, not knowing where we would land. At last we saw a camp and found that it was the camp of Kearney's Division, when we at once considered ourselves safe, and we were ordered to the rifle pits, near by, where we remained until Sunday morning, when we again joined our Regiment, and immediately formed line of battle. The fight was again renewed but lasted only a short time, when the enemy was driven from the Saturday's battle field, and our forces took possession of it. On Monday I visited the battle field. The enemy had been driven away before they could bury their dead, which were laying there in large numbers. Col. McCarter said that he counted 35 of the enemy's dend in one ten yards square. The loss was certainly heavy on both sides, but in my estimation the loss of the lebels exceeds ours.

We expect to move in a day or two, but not without another struggle. Yesterday evening, about 81% o'clock, we were alarmed by picket firing. It appears that our own pickets fired upon each other in mistake. Last night and to-day we had very heavy rains; the boys were almost forced to leave their tents. In some the water was 3 inches deep, but we are all accustomed to such trifles. Yours, we all knott down, and carried on the work of destruc-tion. Here it was that John spoke his last words to

AN INCIDENT OF THE RECENT FRESHET. An elderly gentleman from Manadaville relates to us the following: During the terrible freshet of last week a cradle was coming down the rushing waters, and beng suspected of containing something it was watched by several persons for three or four miles, expecting it would at some point on its journey come near enough to the shore that it would be safe in venturing after it in a boat. At last, at a bend in a swollen stream, the cradle came sufficiently near that it was secured, when lo and behold, upon lifting up a light covering, a beautiful babe looked up and smiled! A crowd gathered around the little stranger so suddenly ushered into their midst. A kind person took the little one into charge, and although a week has elapsed, and inquiry upon inquiry has been made, no clue to the history of the little stranger has been discovered. The supposition is that in the sudden and tremendous inundation, where entire families have been lost, this child, wrapped snugly in its little "sleepy-bye," was the only one left. There may be a sad story connected with it, if it were only known.— But only in the Great Future will all be revealed. This little waif, however, will be carefully tended by kind hearts. - Harrisburg Patriot and Union.
