 Speculation in Cents.—While search-ing a house in Jersey City the other day in pursuit of a suspicious character, the police found two large sacks full of nickel excits, which had undoubtedly been col-lected with the view of obtaining a large premium for them. It was found neces-sary to prop up a building in the lower part of New York a few days since, as it was settling at a dangerous rate, and on investigating the cause two huge tierces full of inckele cents were found in one of the upper stories. Their great weight had made the building settle.
