Cartin's anfaithfulness, and the subject. The conclusion which he arrives at, says the Lancaster Express; is not only law, but common senseand laws ought certainly to be construed in accordance with common' sense The letter is addressed to Edward Reilly, Esq., and is as follows :

LANCASTER, August 27, 1863. Dear Sir: In answer to your induiry, my opinion is that the payment of the $300 com-mutation, and the furnishing of a substitute have precisely the same effect. Billier of them frees the drafted man from further draft for three years the is in effect in service, either by three years. He is in effect in service, either by h inself or another. The payment of $300 makes the government his agent to procure a substitute. The government has consented to act as such agent. The law says he may "on or before the day fixed for his appearance furnish an so-ceptable substitute. or pay such sum not exceeding $300 for the procuration of such substitute, and thereupon the percent furnishing the substi-tute, or paying the money, shall be discharged from further liability under that draft." No.ong. doubts that furnishing a substitute excuses for three years. To give a different effect to the payment of the commutation seems to me little less than absurdity. It is a very mischievens misconstruction, which, if need be, I have no misconstruction, while or rest. doubt Congress will correct. Thaddeus Stevens.

The New York Journal of Commerce says :---- We have the very highest authority for saying that it is the design and intention of the Government to shape its action so as to force all existing banks in the United States to wind up their affairs and withdraw from the field, in favor of Mr. Chase's system, and controlled at Washington.
