years ago I was a gay Vide Avake, and wore a grazed cape at my own expense —but the goal oil was said to be free. They are now settling that coal oil ac-count; I'se paid mine, and here's the receipt in full." Saying which, he flourished his commutation receipt. The little incident set some of the listeners to thinking, and their thoughts probably THE UNION AS IT WAS. THE CONSTITU-thinking, and their thoughts probably thinking, and their thoughts probably traced a strong connection between their actions three years ago and their present unenviable predicament. This is a world of compensation. We pay for all we get -even for a gill of coal oil in a Wide Awake procession. Payment may be delayed for a year or two, but it is sure to come. The old proverb is yet true that "the gods sell goods at their own that "the gods sell goods at their own fair 'price"-including coal oil, of course. And many a man now stands, as did our friend mentioned above, thinking of torchlights and soliloquizing to himself torchlights and soliloquizing to himself that "thus the whirligig of Time brings on his revenges."—Harrisburg Patriot and Union. and Union.
