THE CORNER.

A Snake in His Hat.-The editor of a periodical states that a gentleman of the highest veracity related to him the following snake story, which beats anything we have read lately : "Going into an ordinary for his dinner, he was supprised to observe the extra care with which a gentleman who took the seat opposite to him took off his hat. He turned his head as nearly upside down as possible without breaking his neck; then placing his head over his bat, he again turned it, and received its carefully guarded contents concealed in a pocket handkerchief on his head; then gently laying the back of hand on the cushion, he slid the hat and its contents off, and commenced his dinner. The attention of my friend was irresistibly directed toward, the haf, and his surprise was greatly increased on observing the head of a snake thrust out and looking sharply about him. The gentleman, perceiving the discovery, addressed him thus: 'My dear sir. I was in hopes to have dined alone, and not annoyed any one with my pet. Allow me to explain. He is perfectly harmlessonly a common black snake. I, was advised fo carry him on my head for theumatism. I have done so for several weeks, and am cured—positively cured of s most agonizing malady. I dare not yet part with him; the memory of my suffering, is too vivid; all my care is to avoid discovery, and to treat my pet as well as possible in his irksome confinement. ] feed him on milk and eggs, and he does not seem to suffer. Pardon me for my annoyance; you have my story-it is true. I am thankful to the informer for my cure, and to you for your courtesy in not leaving your dinner in disgust."

Changing Hats .- We have a friend who is rarely seen in anything but a finely polished silk hat. We met him on Saturday afternoon, looking very sheep ishein an insignificant cap. He explained at, once. He said he was at a meeting the night before, and when he was about to go home his hat was missing. He couldn't think of walking home bareheaded, so he fitted himself with a hat thinking mistakes might be rectified another day. Coming down town the next afternoon, he met a gentleman, who said-"I think you have got my hat; if so, you will find my name in it." Such proved to be the case "But where is mine ?" inquired our friend. "Don't know; this was the best one I found." Handing our friend a very shabby hat, which he was forced to take.

A short lime after, another man accosted our friend with-"I say, sir, seems to me you have got my hat" This time our friend got in exchange a low-crowned soft hat that bore the trace of much service. Before he got to his office he met a third man who looked very sharp at the hat as he passed stopped, turned around, looked again, and then shouted -- "Hold on here you. Guess that's my hat you've got on." Our friend gave it up without a word, received from the other a mean, greasy looking cap. He put it on (there was a tingling sensation about the roots of his hair as he did so, unpleasantly suggestive,) and mentally resolved that if another man stopped him to trade headcovers he would knock him down. He was hurrying to a hatter's to get a new castor, and we didn't detain him.

WEAKNESS OR, DEBILITY, INDUCED, BY OVER FATIGUE: Will soon disappear by the use of these invaluable Fills, and the Soldier will quickly acquire additional strength. Never let the Bowels be either confined or unduly actel upon. It may seem strange that Hollo-way's Fills should be recommended for Dysentery and Flux, many persons supposing that they would increase the relaxation. This is a greet mistake, for these Fills will correct the liver and stomach, and thus remove all the acris homors from the system. This medicine will give tone and vigor to the whole organic system hower-er deranged, while health and strength follow as a mat-ter of course.
