He entered the service in August, 1862, and was highly esteemed for his soldierly and personal qualities.

"4th of July" was "celebrated" in this section in a very mild manner. Some of the Sunday Schools retired to the cool and shady country and enjoyed themselves as best they could. Many folks "went fishing," while the large body people have little heart to be gay when the manhood of the land is being slaughtered to so little purpose that the rebel hosts are threatening at this moment our homes, when the mere shadow of what the 4th used to be celebrated for is scarcely remaining to us, and when the future is dark, dark, and our rulers persisting to travel the road that has been already so unfortunate and bloody.

hands are used, put the crushed fruit, after the juice has been poured off, in a cloth or sack, and press out the remaining juice. Put the juice back into the tub after cleansing it, where it should remain about three days, unless the first stages of fermentation are over, and removing once or twice a day the scum copiously aris ing to the top. Then put the juice in a vessel-a demijohn, keg or barrel-of a

Three pounds of the best yellow sugar,

And soft water sufficient to make a gallon.

"Thus, ten quarts of juice and thirty pounds of sugar, will give you ten gallons of wine, and so on in that proportion. Those who do not like sweet wine can reduce the quantity of sugar to  $2\frac{1}{2}$ ; or who wish it very sweet, raise it to 31 pounds per gallon.

"The vessel must be full, and the bung or stopper left off until fermentation ceas es, which will be in twelve or fifteen days. Meanwhile the cask nust be filled up daily with currant juice left over, as fermentation throws out the impure matter .--- When fermentation ceases, rack the wine off carefully, either from the spiggot or by a syrnon, and keep running all the time. Cleanse the cask thoroughly with boiling water, then return the wine, bung up tightly, and let stand four or five months, when it will be fit to drink, and can be bottled if desired.

"All the vessels, casks, &c., should be pertectly sweet, and the whole operation should be done with an eye to cleanliness. In such event, every drop of Dran-dy or other spiritous liquors added will detract from the flavor of the wine, and will not in the least degree increase its qualities.—Currant wine made in this way will keep for an age. We have some made in 1856, which is really an ex-cellent article. "We see it recommended to take one-third juice and two-thirds water, also four pounds of sugar to the gallon. This is rather sirup than wine, and few will relish it after comparing it with that which we recommend." "Thows is not much doing in the totake medicine, because you ness.
