How the reason given for theretusal to act on this proposition, can be made consistent with the enlist ment of men for one hundred days, to serve in Pean viv als. Mayland and at Wachington and vicinity, it is hard to perceive.

Assistant, A judan, General
In each of the three years, 23, 2. 3853, 1854, 1854, 18 has been found necessary to call the State militis for the defence of the State, and this has been fone with the assent and assistance of the General Government. From the want of organization, we have been obliged to rgy exclusively on the volunieer militia, and, while few exceptions to organize them anew for each occasion. This has caused confusion and a loss of valuable time; and has resulted in sending to the field bodies of men is a great measure undiciplined. The militia till passed at the least esselve is 1-think for ordinary times the best militia least we shave ever had rivid under the existing extraordinary circumstances it so use to require modifications. I suggest that the essessor's be directed to make an istmediate enrollment, classifying the militia as may be thought best; that the officers be appointed by the Governor, or whom the Major Generals for each division, of whom the Major Generals for each division and provide and shall have been knorrolly in the concentration of whom the Major Generals for each division shall be selected by preferance from officers and men which the selection of the conficers and the services of the most deserving and competent men.

The election of officers in the volunteer for a in the field has been found to be injurious to the service, while provot one by sendently, and appointments of meritorious privates has produced harmony and atimulated to faithfulness. In file englistment of new organizations the plan adopted of granting authority to of recruit companies has seen found to be the best policy. I also recommend that the Governor be authorized to fun (fifther by the acceptance of volunteers or by draft its the policy is the first the State as he may deem expedient) a special corps of militia toleogists in due proportion of Cavalry, Artillery and Inflandry, to be kept up to the full number of fifteen regiments to be styled "Minute Man," who shall be sworn and mustared into the service of the State for turee years—who shall assemble for drill at such times and places as he may direct, who sais be dotted, armed and equipped by the State, and paid when sasembled for drill or called into service, and who shall at all times be liable to be called into survice, and who shall at all times be liable to be called into immediate savies for the defence of the State independently of the remainder of the militia.

of the remainder of the militia.

As this force will be subject to rudden calls, the larger part of it should be organized ie the counties lying on our extreme bo der, and as the people of these counties in their protection, the resonance of the state in the protection, the resonance to the state in which it should be raised, and to save the time and expense of transporting troops from remote parts of the State and the subsistence and pay in gotting to and from the border.

A body of men so organized, will, it is believed, be effective to prevent raids and incursions. The expenses of elething, arming and equipping such a force cannot be correctly ascertained, but the Quartermaster General has been directed to make approximate estimates for your information, which will be independent of pay and subsistance.

The State should provide at least six force.

The State shou'd provide at less ; six four-gun batter-The State and a provide at least six hour-gar batteries of field artillery with all the modern improvements. The suggestion has been frequently made by unreflecting persons that the State should raise a force and keep it permanently in the field for her defence. Apart from other considerations, it is to be observed that the expenses of such a measure would be quite beyond the present ability of the State.

present ability of the State.

To raise and maintain and army of fifteen regiments would involve an annual expenditive f more than fifteen millions of dollars and any smaller force would be inadequate. The plan which I have above prop sed would. I think give to the Salte efficient protection, and if the Lagislature should think fit to adopt it, the expense can be readily provided for by loan or or herwise.

Having as organized force under the control of the raithorities of the State, and mustered into service or domestic protection, we would not; as increasing the service of the state, and mustered into service or domestic protection, we would not; as increasing the service of the state, and mustered into service or domestic protection, we would not; as increasing the service of the service the National Government, when it became necessary to call into the field. When theroughly organized, it should be in all its appointments an army which could be increased by draft made from our enrolled and classified citizens.

The barn of John N. Smith, adjoining, was saved by the untiring exertions of some of the citizens. It seems to be a certainty that there is an incendiary in Annville, and the great pity is that he is not discovered. It is supposed that the fire was kindled by campirene buils and fuses, as one such contrivance was found in a stable near by, which had fortunately not ignited.

We had a taste on Monday of the most luscious Grapes that mortal palate can desire. They were from the hot house of John W. Mish, Esq., of this borough. Mr. Mish is an experienced Horticultu-rist, and the great pity is that he cannot incite his own enthusiasm on the subject into more of our citizens, who have the time and means to devote to that noble art.
