

determined to have some fun out of the girls. About a quarter of a mile up the creek lives "Old Aunt Judy," and there Jones and his attendant, Josh, immediately proceeded. While Josh went to the old woman, and for a few paces purchased the largest gourd in her possession, Jones slipped behind the garden, and threw off his clothes; then cutting off enough of the handle end of the gourd to admit his head, and making two holes for his eyes, he slipped it on his head and jumped into the stream. So soon as the gourd reached the point above, the bathing place commenced floating towards the shore until within a few yards of the bathers, when it drifted against a limb which overhung the stream and lodged. If Jones had looked through the loopholes, (he swears he didn't) he would have seen a sight that would have made the gourd itself blanch. On one rock were three or swimmers, alternately squatting down and rising up on their heels, and imitating the cry of the bullfrog, and when one would say "chung" they would all plunge into the water, frog fashion. At another place they were trying to duck each other; while a third party was leading, by force, into the water a coy dancer, who had been too modest to address before so many folks. But Jones' gourd did not remain long unnoticed in the water, and the damsel who espied it, sailed up to it, and with a slight resistance it came off, and disclosed the curly head of Bill Jones. Miss Betsy screamed and Bill Jones yelled. Miss Betsy and the other bathers rushed up to the bank, and Jones in his fright and confusion, followed them. Here the girls turned on him, seized him and threw him on his face, and having bound his hands with a kerchief, Jones lay defenceless in the power of his captors. The girls would scarcely have crossed themselves and then each provided herself with a trim birch or willow rod, and without further ceremony began applying it to the back, sides, and legs of poor Jones. Jones twisted and Jones writhed; he drew himself up and spread himself out; he begged and he prayed. But in vain. His captors were insensible to pity, until their arms were fatigued, and their rods frayed in ribbons. As for poor Jones; he was not yet to escape. His tormentors provided themselves with fresh instruments, and stationed themselves in a row along the footpath from Jones' tree to the water's edge; and on the rock from which he was to plunge was posted a stout country lass, whose strength he had often tried to wrestle, and whose endurance he had often tested in a "bran dance." At last he was released, and told he must run the gauntlet. He could not but comply. Straightening himself up and drawing a long breath he started at full speed, as he thought, but at every step something touched him that accelerated his motion. His eyes, and he bounded half across the stream at one leap. The rock has been known as Jones' leap ever since.

Without stopping to see any more of his fair friends, Jones hastened to Aunt Judy's cottage, dressed himself, gave Josh a thorough kicking, borrowed a sheepskin from Aunt Judy, mounted his horse, and rode slowly back into town. And from that day this Bill Jones has never shown his face, nor any other part of him, in good old Squire Pariah's house, nor the stream that runs by its door.

An extraordinary affair lately occurred in the town of Orel, in Russia. A grettle land owner had a large sum (forty-three thousand silver roubles) to receive through the police office of that town. On applying for the amount he was told that the money could not be handed over to him unless he presented the office with five thousand silver roubles. He refused, and immediately reported the case to St. Petersburg, and the money was paid over to him. But on the evening of the same day, he was quietly smoking in his study, a loud ring was heard at the bell. The servant, on opening the door, was instantly pinioned, and four men, their faces covered with black crape, rushed into the room and told him he must hand over the forty-three thousand roubles. With the greatest coolness he went over to his strong box, opened it, seized a revolver which was laid on the top shelf, and shot two of the robbers dead, the other two immediately taking to their heels. On the crape being removed from the faces of the dead men they were recognized as the head of the police and his Secretary.

IMPORTANT SUIT DECIDED.—In 1861, the office of the West Chester Jeffersonian was seized by U. S. Marshal Millward and his Deputies, and kept closed for two months. The proprietor of the Jeffersonian brought suit against the U. S. Marshal, and the case was tried before the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania, and $512.00 damages awarded. Under the Act of Congress, indemnifying the officers of the government for trespasses, the case was removed on motion of the Marshal from the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania to the Circuit Court of the United States, in which it again came up for trial on Monday last. Judge Grier charged the Jury that the seizure was illegal, and directed that compensatory damages should be awarded to the plaintiff.—The Jury found a verdict of $503.33 damages against Marshal Millward.

ASTONISHING DEMOCRATIC MEETING. ENORMOUS PROCESSION. DEMOCRACY TRIUMPHANT!

The friends of McClellan, on Saturday last, held a meeting in this borough, which, in splendor of appearance, great numbers, lengthy procession, &c., exceeded anything of the kind ever before held in Lebanon, without any exception whatever.—Although Lebanon county is a small county, and the Democracy in the minority, our friends determined that the large meeting of the opposition on the previous Tuesday should not only be "taken down," but that the gathering and procession should be the greatest and completest ever held in Lebanon. It proved to be such, as is freely admitted by the opposition themselves.

The weather was not exactly what was desired, being threatening for rain, and even a sprinkling of snow flakes sometimes, while the opposition had for their meeting one of the loveliest days of the fall of the year.

The meeting was called for 10 o'clock, but owing to the long delegations from the various districts, and the great distance many of them had to come, it was near 12 o'clock before the procession commenced to move.

The lead was taken by Mr. J. C. SHINN, Chief Marshal of the day, who was followed by near 800 riders on horseback. [The opposition had in their cavalcade about 120 riders.]—Then followed the delegations from the various districts in wagons, carriages and on horseback, extending between three and four miles in length. Where every delegation was in competition with the others to exceed their numbers and display, it is hard to particularize any without doing injustice to the others.

Their wagon of beautiful girls elicited the admiration of all. The Northern section of the county—Bethel, Swatara, Union and Hanover, brought two immense delegations, and also a large wagon from Bethel, beautifully decorated and filled with pretty girls. Jackson turned out in her night, with banners and transparencies, containing appropriate mottoes. Millbrook swelled the train with her hardy and determined sons. But old Heidelberg. What shall we say of her? Her delegation was apparently without end. Immense labor must have been bestowed upon the display she made. They too had a wagon, containing the loveliest of the district, which was drawn by 86 horses. We never saw anything to exceed the enthusiasm that manifested upon witnessing the scene presented by old Heidelberg. A wagon containing an immense flag staff proudly bearing aloft the stars and stripes was also one of the features of this delegation. South Lebanon, if not so rich in display, exceeded many of the others, in swelling the procession by the large number of its hardy sons of toil. And Cornwall, she, who is never a laggard when large majorities are desired, was on hand on Saturday to swell the mighty parade with men, and give it beauty and life. She also had a wagon drawn by some thirty odd, if not forty, horses, decorated with bells and other paraphernalia. North Lebanon Township and Borough turned out in the glory of districts who are determined to wrench from the opposition the power they have wielded and abused. And last, but not least, Lebanon Borough. What shall we say of her? God bless the women and men who were uncensured in their exertions, by day and by night, to make the meeting and display a success. The hundreds of wreaths, and transparencies, and banners, and other emblems of devotion to country, to the flag, and to McClellan, attested their labor and faith.—The States were represented by thirty-four girls dressed in white skirts, red bodices, and liberty caps. The original thirteen States were represented by thirteen boys dressed as Continentals. "Liberty" in all her beauty and glory in 1860, as contrasted with manacled and mourning "Liberty" in 1864, was a touching illustration of what we have come to in four short years. The farmers, mechanics and laboring men were represented appropriately. Our brave soldiers, too, participated largely, and were received with cheers and tokens of respect wherever they passed. Hundreds of other devices were presented that are deserving of notice, but to do which is impossible. It is estimated that the procession would have encircled the two boroughs around their entire outer limits, and to parade successfully the town was too small. After passing Market Square, which required upwards of two hours, and the end not yet approaching, the time for organizing the meeting having arrived the people gathered in front of the stand, when, on motion, Capt. W. W. MURRAY, of Union township was appointed President, and Dr. D. S. Cooper, East Hanover, Samuel Beckor, Millbrook, Dr. Samuel Thome, Landoner, Elias Wall, Bethel, Samuel Mowatt, Jackson, Peter Zimmerman, Heidelberg, Jonas Stager, sr., South Lebanon, J. P. Jackson, Cornwall, Samuel Hoelman, North Annville, George Rigger, South Annville, John Albrecht, sr., N. L. Borough, Henry Shaeffer, N. L. township, Lieut. W. G. Souder, Swatara, Capt. John Ulicky, East Ward, and Pharis Cassidy, West Ward, as Vice Presidents; and Capt. Jeromo Myers, Jackson, Major Grant Weidman, West Ward, Private Andrew J. Krause, East Ward, Sgt. Henry S. Koebnick, South Lebanon, and Lieut. Jeremiah Hoffman, Heidelberg, as Secretaries.

Able addresses were delivered by Col. James Page, of Philadelphia, Col. W. W. II. Davis, of the 104th Penn. Vol., and Hon. Wm. H. Miller of Dauphin county, after which the immense crowd dispersed to their homes peaceably, and as far as we have learned, in safety, highly delighted with the grand scene in which they had all played a part on this memorable day. No one was insulted—no outrages perpetrated and no flags torn down by the immense concourse of people gathered together, but every thing passed off orderly and quietly, in a marked contrast to the proceedings usual with the opposition. Our friends insulted no one, and bore the insults, whether presented by the waving of black flags or otherwise, as good, peaceable, and law-abiding citizens should. Last Saturday will ever be remembered by those who had the pleasure of being in Lebanon on that day.

Dallas; beating Henry Clay and Theodore Tilton. 1849—Zachary Taylor and Millard Fillmore; beating Lewis Cass and William O. Butler, and Charles F. Adams for Vice President. Taylor died July 9th, 1850, and Fillmore became President. 1853—Franklin Pierce and Wm. R. King; beating Winfield Scott and W. A. Graham. 1857—James Buchanan and John C. Breckinridge; beating John Fremont and Millard Fillmore for President, and Wm. L. Dayton and A. J. Donnellson for Vice President. 1861—Abraham Lincoln and Hannibal Hamlin; beating John Bell, Stephen A. Douglas, and John C. Breckinridge for President, and Edward Everett, Herschell V. Johnson and Joseph Lane for Vice President.

THE ELECTION YESTERDAY.
The Philadelphia Age of this morning says—"The returns that have reached us of the election held yesterday, are not sufficient to authorize a positive announcement of the general result. In some of the counties of our own State, from which intelligence has reached us, the condemnation of the Administration has not been as emphatic as we deserved; and we are not without some apprehension that the countless frauds perpetrated in this city and in other localities, have overcome the popular power at the ballot-box."

Baltimore city is made, under the system of election inaugurated by our Abolition rulers, to endorse a party whom her citizens really despise, and to sustain Abolitionism by a majority that is to be from eleven to thirteen thousand! The infamous frauds perpetrated in Indiana in October seem to have been repeated freely all over the country; and the once-boasted elective franchise of American citizens has been made a mockery, so far as the Administration could make it.

The returns from New York city, and from portions of the interior of Pennsylvania and New York, show handsome Democratic gains over the latest preceding elections, and would seem to indicate that the two leading States of the Union have sustained Constitutional Liberty, against the fearful odds arrayed on the side of "dictatorial usurpation." New Jersey has, no doubt, maintained her proud position of loyalty to the Constitution. But, as we have already said, we have no desire to encourage hopes that may be disappointed; and, giving the returns as they reach us, disjointed and incoherent as they are, we wait further and more intelligible reports:

Philadelphia gives Lincoln 9,592. Adams 500 for McClellan, a democratic gain of 90. Allegheny 8,500 for Lincoln. Bedford 650 for McClellan. Berks county 6,500 for McClellan. Blair 425 for Lincoln, a gain of 145 for the Abolitionists. Lehigh about the same as in October. Schuylkill county gives McClellan 2,000.

IN WASHINGTON COUNTY the abolition county gives 3,300, a democratic gain of 500. Chester county 2,600 for Lincoln. A gain for the Abolitionists. Cumberland 730 for McClellan. A Democratic gain of 114. Dauphin 1,000 for Lincoln. A gain of 500, for the Abolitionists. Huntingdon 450 for Lincoln. A gain of 180. Lancaster county 5,000 for Lincoln. A gain of 500 for the Abolitionists. A New York city McClellan has a majority of 38,653.

It is probable that the State of New York has been carried for McClellan and that Governor Seymour is re-elected.

General Hood's army has crossed the Tennessee. On October 26th the main body had reached the northern bank. The crossing was made just west of Florence, twenty miles east of the Mississippi State line. Hood's forces at once marched down the Tennessee and captured the Federal gunboat Undine of which, we were advised some time ago. Hood then loaded this boat with troops; sailed past the Muscle Shoals, landed them on an island below; and sent a land force along the north side of the river, to co-operate with them. The Undine was then destroyed by her captors. Two Federal gunboats soon came to attack the Confederates. From the shore and the island, batteries opened fire and the two gunboats were destroyed. Nothing has been heard from Sherman, and no one seems to know his whereabouts. Johnsonville, on the Tennessee River, below Florence, is besieged by Hood. There is no news from Atlanta.

HOWARD, in Washington, Artemus Ward says:—I went to Washington, and put up at a leading hotel, where, seeing the landlord, I accosted him with "How-dy do, square?" "Fifty cents, sir, was his reply. "Sir," said a dollar. We charge twenty-five cents for looking at the landlord, and fifty for speaking to him. If you want supper the boy will show you to the dining room for twenty-five cents. Your room being in the tenth story, it will cost you a dollar to be shown up there. How much do you expect a man for breathin' in this equinoctial tavern?" sez I. "Ten cents a breath," was his reply.

A Fatal Fall.—Last Monday morning, about 4 o'clock, Richard M. Heller, in Berks County, fell from a porch on the second story down to the pavement below, upon his head, and was instantly killed. He had exhibited symptoms of delirium tremens while at Church the day previous, and it is conjectured that he was laboring under the same malady when this sad accident happened. It appears that on leaving his bed, he had partially dressed himself, and started to go down stairs, but by mistake opened a door leading from the second story out upon the back porch, and in stepping forward in the darkness he fell and was killed.

DEMOCRATIC U. S. SENATOR GAINED IN OREGON.—The United States Senator elect from Oregon, in the place of Mr. Harding, is Hon. George H. Williams, Ex-Chief Justice of the State. He was an active Douglas Democrat, and is now a McClellan Democrat, making the Union the one condition of peace. Harding, who goes out, is a Republican.

Some weeks ago, a worthy family in Detroit received additions to their household circle in the shape of twins both boys. A day or two ago the youngsters were baptized, and received the respective names of George Henry and James William. In order to tell one from the other, both being dressed precisely alike, a blue ribbon was tied around the arm of the former, but a stupid servant girl, after the fond parents had returned home, removed the mark, and now they are unable to tell "which from which."
