TO MAKE A GOOD WIFE UNHAPPY.

We apprehend that there are many husbands who will read the following with a bush:

See her as seldom as possible; i she is warm-hearted and cheerful in temper; or if after a day's or week's absence, she meets you with a smiling face, and in an affectionate manner, be sure to look coldly upon her, and answer her with monosylables. If she force back her tears, and is resolved to look cheerful, sit down and gape in her presence till she is fully convinced of your indifference. Never think you have anything to do to make her happy, but that her happiness is to flow from gratifying your caprices; and when she has done all a woman can do, be sure you do not appear gratified. Never take an interest in any of her pursuits; and if she asks your advice, make her feel that she is troublesome and impertinent. If she attempts to rally you. good humoredly, on any of your peculiarities, never join in the laugh, but frown her into silence. If she has faults, (which without doubt she will have, and perhaps may be ignorant of,) never attempt with kindness to correct them, but continually ebtrude upon her ears, "what a good wife Mr. Smith has." "How happy Smith is with his wife. In company never seem to know you have a wife; treat all her remarks with indiffer. ence, and be very affable and comence, and be very affable and complaisant with every other lady. If you follow these directions you may be certain of and obedient and heart broken wife.
