CHOOSING A PHYSICIAN.

There is an Eastern story of a certain prince who had received from a fairy the faculty of not only assuming whatever appearance he thought proper, but of discerning the wandering spirits of the departed. He had long labored under a painful chronic disease, that none of the court physicians, ordinary or extraordinary could relieve; and he resolved to wander about the streets of his capital until he found one regular or irregular, who could alleviate his sufferings. For this purpose he donned the garb of a dervish. As he was passing through one of the principal streets, he was surprised to see it so thronged with ghosts that, had they been still inhabitants of their former earthly tenements they must have obstructed the thoroughfare. But what was his amazement and dismay when he saw that they were all grouped with anxious look round the door of his royal father's physician, haunting, no doubt, the man to whom they attributed their untimely doom.

Shocked with the sight he hurried to another part of the city, where resided another physician of the court holding the second rank in fashionable estimation. Alas! his gateway was also surrounded with reproachful departed patients. Thunderstruck at such a discovery, and returning hanks to the prophet that he was in leing, despite the practice of these at such a discovery, and returning thanks to the prophet that he was in being, despite the practice of these great men, he resolved to submit all the other renowned practitioners to a similar visit; and he was grieved to find that the scale of ghosts kept pace with the scale of their medical rank. Heart broken and despairing of a cure, he was slowly sauntering back to the palace, when, in an obscure street, and on the door of an humble dwelling he read a doctor's name. One single poor solitary ghost, leaning his dependend cheek

One single poor solitary ghost, leaning his dependend check upon his fleshless hand, was seated on the doctor's steps. "Alas! exclaimed the prince," it is, then, too true that humble merit withers in the shade, while ostentatious ignorance inhabits golden mansions.—This poor neglected doctor, who has but one unlucky case to lament, is then the only man in whom I can place confidence." He rapped; the door was opened by the doctor himself, a venerable old man, not rich enough, perhaps to keep a domestic to answere his unfrequent calls. His white locks and flowing beard added to the confidence which his situation had inspired. The elated youth then related at full length all his complicated allments, and the still more complicated treatments, to which he had in vain been submitted. The sapient physician was not illiberal enough to say that the prince's attendants had all been in error, since all mankind may err; but his sarcastic smile, the curl of his lips, and the cannot cure very sace, but he believes that such his meticines are ready to the cannot cure very case, but he believes that such his meticines are ready to consumption. His joy gave suppleness to his rigid spine, and after bowing the prince out in the most obsequious manner he ventured to ask him one humble question; "By what good luck by what kind planet, had he been recommended to seek his advice?" The prince naturally asked for the reason of so strange a question; to which the worthy doctor replied with eyes brimful with tears of gratitude:—

"Oh sir, because I considered myself the most unfortunate man in Bagdad until this happy moment; for I have been settled in this noble and wealthy city for the last fifteen years and and have only been able to obtain one single patient." Mandrake Pills.

Tis true that "Consumption can be cured;" but when this fact is asserted, it is proper to add that if the disease has reached its very last stage, a cure is almost or quite impossible. There is no creative power in medicines. When the lungs have been destroyed by disease, no human art can restore them or create them anew. When lizards have lost their tails, and lobsters have parted with their claws, nature favors these animals by refitting them with new members; but the case is different with man. The destruction of any of his members is final; they are not to be recovered by any natural or artificial contrivances.—These undisputed facts show how important it is for consumptive persons to avail themselves of the means of cure, before decomposition of the lungs has advanced so far as to make recovery hopeless.

It can be proved by unimpeachable evidence that SCHENOK'S PULMIONIC SYRUP has cured more persons suffering with diseases of the lungs, than any other medicine. This preparation has been before the public for more than twenty years, during which time many hypothetical "cures for consumption" have acquired temporary credit, which in most cases was of very short duration, but Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup has maintained its popularity, endured the test of innumerable trials, and triumphed over all opposition, It now enjoys an established reputation, and its claims to public favor and confidence admit of no dispute.

FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU

A positive and Specific Remedy for diseases of the Bladder, Kidneys, Gravel and Dropsical Swellings This Medicine increases the powers of digestion, and excites the absorbents into healthy action, by which the watery or calcarcous depositions, and all unnatural ennts are reduced, as well as pain and inflammation,

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU. For weakness arising from Excesses, Habits of Dissipa-tion, Early Indiscretion, attended with the following

Symptoms:
Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Power, Difficulty of Breathing, Trembling, Loss of Memory, Weak Nerves, Horror of Disease, Wakefulness, Dimness of Vision. Pain in the Dack Hot Hands, Dryness of the Skin, Flushing of the Body. Eruptions of the Face.

Universal Lassitude, Pallid Countenance,
These symptoms, if allowed to go on (which this Medicine invariably removes), soon follow—
FATUITY, EPILEPTIC FITS, &c., in one of which the patient may expire. Who can say they are not frequently followed by those "direful diseases," > INSANITY AND CONSUMPTION?

Many are aware of the cause of the fraulicring, but no; will confess. The records of the ins.me asylums and the melancholy deaths by consumption bear ample witness. the truth of the assertion. the truth of the assertion.

The Constitution, once affected by organic weakness, requires the aid of medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU invariably does. A trial will convince the most sceptical.

INORBASE OF RATS.—The Farmers' Gazette (Eng-ish) asserts and proves by figures that one pair of rats will have a progeny and descendants no less than 651, 50 in three years. Now, unless this immense family can be kept down, they would consume more food than would sustain 65,000 human-beings. In many affections peculiar to Females, the EXTRACT Evenu is unequaled by any other remedy, and for all omplaints incident to the sex, or in the DECLINE OR CHANGE OF LIFE, 7 SEE SYMPTOMS ABOVE.

No Family should be without it.

of the worst disorders that affect mankind arise from the corruption that accumulates in the Elood. Of all the discoveries that have occur made to purge it out, none can equal in effect Helimbold's Compound Extract of Sar and Provided Helpinold's Com humors which make disease. It stimulates the health functions of the body, and expels the disorders that grov and rankle in the blood. Such a remedy that could be tolled on has long been sought for, and now, for the first, me the public have one on which they can depend. Ou space here does not admit of certificates to show its effects but the trial of a single bottle will show to the sick that i has its virtues surpassing anything they have ever taken Two tablespoonsful of the Extract of Sarsaparilla adde to a pint of water is equal to the Lisbon Diet Drink, an one bottle is fully equal to a gallon of the Syrup of Sarse parilla, or the decoction as usually made.

The Science of Medicine, like the Doric Column, should to be propistand simple, pure, majestic, having Fact for its basic Induction for its pillar, and Truth alone for its Capital;

My Extract Larseparilla is a Clood Turifier ; my Extrac Buchu is a Diprothe, and will act as such in all cases.

Both are proposed on purely scientific principles—secure—and are the most active measures of either tha can be made. A roady and conclusive test will be a comparison of their properties with those set forth in the fol owing works:
