

Removal!

Our friends will please take notice that the office of THE CARBON ADVOCATE will be removed from its present location to the building almost directly opposite, belonging to P. S. Heintzelman, Esq., on or about the 1st of March next.

The expenses of the Territorial Government of Utah charged to the United States, including salaries and legislative and contingent expense for the year 1873, amount to $14,198; those of Colorado to $14,051, according to a report made to Congress by the Secretary of the Treasury.

A bill has been introduced into the Maryland Legislature to encourage migration from Scotland to that State. The Commonwealth is to pay fifty-nine per cent, of the passage money, and the person desiring the services of the immigrant forty-one per cent., and the immigrant is expected to sign a pledge to remain in the State three years, and to give his note for the passage money, payable in twelve months. The terms favor too much of contract labor and old plantation times, and Maryland will probably find that Scotchmen who want to come to the United States will pay their own passage.

The steamship City of Melbourne from Honolulu brings the news of the death King Lunalilo at Hawaii on Feb. 3. The cause of his death was bronchial disease. Immediately after the death of the King the members of the Cabinet were called together, and ordered a meeting of the Legislative Assembly on the 12th of February to consider the condition of the affairs of the Government. At Kailohawe, on the 4th inst., a mass meeting declared in favor of David Kalakoa, the most powerful chief in the nation, as Lunalilo's successor. Queen Emma, the widow of Kamehameha, is also named for the succession, and there will probably be a severe contest in the Legislature over the question.

LEGAL HOLIDAY.—Some question having been raised as to the legality of observing as a legal holiday the 23d of February, (the 23d coming on Sunday), a correspondent, says the Philadelphia Ledger, calls our attention to the fact that the session of the Legislature of 1873 passed a law covering the point in dispute. The law, after recapitulating all the days of the year set apart as holidays, and to be observed by the general cessation of business declares when any of the said days occur on a Sunday, the following day, Monday, shall be deemed and declared a public holiday, "and all bills of exchange, bank checks or promissory notes falling due on either of the Mondays, so observed as a holiday shall be due and payable on the Saturdays preceding such holidays; and such Mondays, so observed shall, for all purposes whatever, as regards the presenting for payment or acceptance, and of the protesting and giving notice of the dishonor of bills of exchange, bank checks, drafts and promissory notes, be treated and considered as is on Sunday. The act from which we quote was signed by Governor Hartranft April 2, 1873, and clearly settles the right of the banks to close on the 23rd instant.

The debate in the House on the Army Reduction bill disclosed the marvelous fact that between the 20th of June, 1866, and the 11th of March, 1873, the Quartermaster's Department had received from sales of army stores and transfers of money from other departments, the immense sum of $105,681,000, and had spent the whole, in addition to the millions annually appropriated to it by Congress! It is one of the worst signs of this portentous time that this statement, read from a return of the Quartermaster-General himself, was heard by the House without interest and without debate. Mr. Beck of Kentucky put the question, "Can the gentleman tell me how it is that one bureau alone of the War Department can manage to spend, in order to meet any contingency, $103,000,000 in excess of all appropriations—five millions more than it cost for all expenses of the Government during the first twenty one years of its existence?" The answer to this, and the close of all the debate which took place, was, as reported in the Congressional Record—"The general debate on this subject has closed; otherwise I could give the information he asks. [Laughter.]" The people are rapidly passing out of the laughing mood. The waste by one branch of the army in less than six years, of one hundred and five millions of dollars over and above appropriations, is no joke to the tax payers, as this Administration will find out at the next Presidential election.—N. Y. Sun.

A Brief Honeymoon. Garrett J. Banta was a well-to-do farmer, residing with his sister, her little family, and other relatives on the old homestead at Paramus Plains, near Ridgewood, Bergen county, New Jersey. Banta was a shy, saving bachelor of thirty-six, who for seven years had courted Miss Matilda Westervelt of Paramus. On Saturday the lovers were married at Haekensack by the good Dominic Romaine. They went to the bride's home. On Sunday the young wife saw her husband busily writing. She jocularly asked if he was making his will. He laughingly replied, "Yes." That afternoon they rode out, and Sunday night was passed by them together. But at half past three in the morning he got up to go to his own home, telling his wife he went thus early to avoid being seen, as the neighbors would make fun of him about his marriage, he would take her home on Wednesday. He was not seen until about 11 A. M. of Monday. Then some one calling to see him, search was made. Poor Banta was found in the barn, hanging by the neck from a cross-beam just above the hay, dead. He had gone directly into the barn, and taken off his neckcloth, without removing his hat or overcoat, committed suicide. In his pocket was found the paper he had written on Sunday in his wife's home, as follows: I want Wm. J. G. Zabriske to attend to my business. Give my brother John my watch and hair chain. Guillaume J. G. Zabriske, if you want my whole rig (horse, wagon, &c.) for what I said, you must take it. Gill, I want you to get a Paterson lease and let the money in the Paterson Bank stand one year after my death. Don't put any plate on my coffin. Would like to be buried in the Reformed Dutch churchyard with the rest of my family. Ask Dominie Romaine to preach my funeral sermon. Tell brother and sister and mother I am tired of life. Yours truly, Garrett J. Banta. Take the money out of the Paterson Bank if you think best. Banta mixed but little in society, and many wondered that he ever picked up courage to marry. No provision, it will be seen, was made for the wife, for whom much sympathy is felt. Undoubtedly the poor fellow was insane.

Highway Robbery. On Friday night, last, Lewis Frontz stepped into the saloon of Charles Meyer to pay a little bill. Frontz is a hard working man, and a resident of Upper Mauch Chunk. He brought out his pocket book which proved to be well filled with greenbacks. Mr. Meyer advised Frontz to be careful of his money, and recommended him to take a friend with him to his house. The two started and when just above Jacob H. Smith's house, on the new road they heard footsteps behind them. In a moment two men came up and one of them struck Frontz with a billy, and putting his hand into his pocket, seized the money and ran away. The frightened companion of Mr. Frontz was unable to render any assistance. The latter has a cut on his head, but he is not seriously injured. On Saturday, Danielias Cager Curran, was arrested and charged by Mr. Frontz, before Esquire Butler, with being one of the men who robbed him. The evidence against Curran is circumstantial. It is said he and William Sandal were together on Friday night, and one of them was in the saloon when Frontz showed his money. A few minutes after the robbery, they were seen going down Susquehanna St. It was shown that they got a $20 bill changed, and Curran could not account for having so much money. He said he borrowed it, but the man he mentioned denied that he had lent Curran any money. On Monday morning Sandal was arrested and also committed.—M. C. Gazette.

Current Items. W. R. Smith, Adams Express agent at Granby city, Mo., was knocked down and gagged on Saturday by a gang, who secured the safe key and took $2,100. It is probable that the form of government in Spain will be decided by a plebiscite. A smoker has sent twenty-five cents to the Treasury in full payment of the duty on a ten cent cigar, which the consumer knew to have been smuggled. The betrothal of Duke Eugene of Wurtemberg to the Russian Princess Vera, daughter of the Grand Duke Constantine, took place at Stuttgart on Jan. 27. Leonard Worold, keeper of a beer saloon in Philadelphia, fatally shot his wife on Sunday night without the least provocation. Gen. Alexander Von Luders of the Russian army, who held a command in the Crimean war, died on Sunday, aged 84 years. Sydney Packard, a wealthy citizen of North Easton, Mass., committed suicide on Sunday. Policeman James Jack-on of Philadelphia hanged himself Monday in a cellar in the northern part of the city. H. Butler Swope, United States Attorney for the Western District of Pennsylvania, died in Pittsburgh Monday. The wife of James M. Mason, an ex-United States Senator, and Confederate Minister abroad during the rebellion, died near Alexandria on Sunday. The House Committee on Military Affairs expect to cut down the army establishment so as to leave about $4,000,000 annually. Among other reforms in the navy it is proposed to abolish the grade of commodore, which will effect a considerable saving. At present there are 25 commodores on the list.

Thousand of Lives and Millions of Property saved by using the AMERICAN Safety Kerosene Lamp. These lamps are made of brass, and will never break. The burners have a Safety Tube Attachment for the escape of gas, and will never explode. The chimneys are made of mica (or being glass, as called), and they are the only lamp chimneys made that will not break by heat or cold. Glass Chimneys and Lamps are unsafe and expensive—this is the universal complaint. Over seventy-five millions of Glass Lamp Chimneys are broken in this country every year. Price of Glass Lamps, complete, with Mica Chimneys, one dollar. Price of Bronze Bar or Stand Lamps, two dollars. Sent to any part of the United States by express on receipt of the money by mail. 1,000 agents wanted to sell these lamps and Mica Chimneys in every city and town, to whom a liberal discount will be made. Send for sample lamps and circulars giving all particulars. They speak for themselves, and sell on sight. AMERICAN SAFETY LAMP CO., feb14-1874 No. 240 Pearl St., New York.
