Blackwood's Magazine, which is high in authority in such matters, says of Sir Edwin Landseer's paintings: "Landseer's dogs are immortal pictures. They are life—perfect reality—not a muscle that does not speak; and the brilliancy, color and execution are altogether charming. One of his paintings which will almost talk to you in dog and sheep language at least, is 'The Twins.' We have received a copy of a fine chromo after this painting, about two by two and a half feet in size. It is furnished to subscribers to The Christian at Work, T. De Witt Talmage's paper. Those who wish to learn further respecting it may write for terms and specimen copies, which are mailed free upon application. Office, 102 Chambers street, N. Y. See their advertisement.

Attention, Borough Council. The following, from the Allentown Democrat, fits Lehigh just as well as that city, and the demand of a small sum from those travelling vendors would be no more than right. Let our council, see to it: "With the spring opens the season for the coming among us of travelling vendors of all sorts of articles, as for instance the candy butcher and the dealer in papers, pens, and pencils who occupied the public square a short time ago. It would be but common justice to our merchants that an ordinance be passed (if one does not already exist,) requiring from such fellows a license commensurate with the amount of money they take from the community. Our merchants are under the necessity of keeping up large and extensive establishments, employ clerks, own real estate, and pay a heavy tax to help keep up our city expenses, as well as for the privilege of carrying on their business, and yet our councils afford them no protection against a class of intruders who rob them of a part of their business. Justice to them demands that transient dealers should be taxed so high that few if any of them would care about unpacking here."

Settled. About one year ago Mahion M'Intyre lost a leg on the L. V. R. R. by being run over, and sometime after instituted proceedings against the company, claiming damages. The case was tried at our Court, and M'Intyre was awarded two thousand and some dollars for injuries received. The company not being satisfied with this decision took the case to the Supreme Court, and the decision of the Court here was affirmed. Still delaying payment, and after another effort to institute further proceedings, Sheriff Faust seized their goods and office furniture in this city, and had handbills printed offering them for sale on Saturday next. After some consideration the company came to the conclusion to give in, and gave a cheque for the full amount Monday, to E. J. More, Esq., counsel for Mr. M'Intyre.—Allentown Morning Herald.

Parties coming into possession of property this spring should not lose sight of the provision of the act of assembly which requires that all deeds and conveyances for real estate in this commonwealth shall be recorded in the office for recording deeds, in the county where the lands lie, within six months after the execution of such deeds and conveyance not recorded as aforesaid, shall be adjudged fraudulent and void against any subsequent purchaser for a valuable consideration, unless such deeds be recorded before the recording of the deed or conveyance under which such subsequent purchaser or mortgage shall claim.
