Institute Inklings.

FROM " OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT."

The 11th annual Teachers' Institute convened in the Court House, Mauch Chunk, on Monday, November 30, at 2 o'clock P. M. R. F. Hofford, County Superintendent, called the Institute to order, and S. H. Hollinger was chosen temporary Secretary. An election of officers ensued, and resulted as follows: President, R. F. Hofford ; Vice-President, B. C. Youngman ; Secretary, J. P. Rowland; Treasurer, L. H. Barber.

"Home, Sweet Home" was then sung, after which the County Superintendent addressed the Institute, His remarks were very pertinent, urging the necessity of brotherly feeling, and of all the teachers and friends taking an active part in the various exercises, thereby making the Institute interesting and entertaining.

Messrs. Rowland, Youngman, Barnett and Gaynor followed with appropriate remarks.

Thirty-three members were enrolled the first day.

TUESDAY A. M .- Institute had opened when we took our seat, but found Prof. Allen, of Mansfield, Pa., occupy-ing the floor on the subject of "School Organization." He divided his subject into two periods. 1st. The how or fact period; 2nd. The why or philosophical period. At the conclusion of his remarks, the professor requested questions from the teachers, which were freely asked, and answered by him.

Recess now occurred which gave the 'marms' a chance to exchange congratulations, which, of course, the gen-tlemen did not refuse. "Swinging gratulations, the trefuse. "Swinging themen did not refuse. "Swinging reath the Old Apple Tree," brought J. L. Allem to the floor on the subject of Geography and Map Drawing. This subject Mr. Allem handled well, and it was continued by Messrs. Motzer, Barnett, Hofford and Prof. Allen. Prof. Allen would not lay much stress on geography, but would teach geography geography, but well and history together.

At 1.30 the Institute was called to At 1.50 the President. "Bright Jewas sung, after which Mr. Tinker followed on the subject of Arithmetic. He gave his views in a clear, practical manner, he was followed by others.

Prof. Allen nexts tepped forward and continued his subject of "School Organization," treating of studies and their classification.

Fifty-two members enrolled. On account of the abscence of Rev. Urban, who was announced to lecture in the evening, the Query Box was opened, and questions answered by Prof. Allen, who interested the Institute for one hour. The professor is a live teacher and, as he said himself, a

The clerks opposite the Court House are terribly annoyed by the many smil-ing countenances of "school marms" cast at them as they pass to and from Institute.

WEDNESDAY A. M. - Institute just called to order as we dropped in at 9 A. M., and opened by singing "Praise God from whom all blessings flow," and prayer led by Prof. Allen. Atthisjuncture a swarm of "school marms" rush-ed into the Court House and reported to the Secretary, no doubt many of them having kept "wee hours" the night pre-

Minutes of Tuesday were read and adopted.

The first exercise in order was an essay, by F. W. Frantz, subject: "Ring-of the Bells." This gentleman prefac-ed his remarks, by saying, that fried potatoes were a good dish for breakfast, but that he preferred them later in the day, thereby leading us to believe that he choose to say his piece on an empty stomach. The subject matter was very good and well handled. Prof. Allen then led off by continuing his sut jecton "School Organization," the Prof. remarked if we never wrote we never would need to spell, which elicited quite a lively discussion among the Teachers. The eye alone should be trained to take cognizance of the spelle oral method impractical, and should be discarded, He spoke of a very important method practised in his school, viz: That of granting no requests in the school room except first reduced to writing by the scholars. The method we think a very He then proceeded to the fourth division of "School Organization," first, its object, which included, discipline, information and inteligible conversation; second, its requisites, among which health, comfortable scating, pure air and warmth were memtioned.

At 1.30 P. M. Institute opened by singing the good old patriotic song "America." After which Mr. Grossman, of Packerton, fired the first cannon on Grammatical Analysis. He dwell on the importance of the subject and its relative order and branch. Barnett, of Lenighton fell in line and the subject continued for some time, when Prof. Allen attacked the fifth subject of "School Organization" viz: "Teachers preparation," The outlines are as follows, 1st.a general knowledge of the subject; 2nd, A knowledge of the text book; Brd, A knowledge of what those books say; 4th, prepare to ex-change places with the pupils; 5th, In every lesson impart information.

After ten minutes recess, "Sweet by and by "came echoing to our ears, which called us in, when we found Mr. Bartett rendering, a practical report, al-though we understood him to say he had no report, but a few remarks to make on Practical Grammar. Prof. Althree points to be remembered, viz: 1st, to test pupils knowledge of the subject; 2nd. To teach him to tell in clean cut English what he knows; 3rd, to impart information.

Just then we heard some of the gen tlemen remark that they were surprised to know that there are so many good looking "school marms" in Carbon Co. There are certainly a large number of handsome young ladies among the Institute members; but we are not surprised at all, from the fact that the ladi Carbon County are noted for looking good as well as good looking.

The evening session was ushered in [Written for The Carbon Advocate.] by a very fine piece of music, the name of which we did not learn.

An essay followed, by Miss E, C. Need, it was well timed, delivered and appreciated, as was attested by loud ap-placise. Another piece of music, the name of which we did not hear, but which was to tire tune of A. B. was very good and well sung. Dr. Al-len, of Phila., was then introduced, and held the audience spei! bound for about forty fiveminutes on "MAn Redeemed. We have no time to tell you any of the good things the Dr. touched on. except that it was replete with common sense.

Child Murder.

The suspected abduction of a little babe at Freemansburg, on Thanksgiying morning, has unveiled itself to be a case of infanticide. As far as we are able to ascertain, the particulars are as follows: Early in the morning the town was thrown into great excitement by the startling report that a small child, infant son of Mr. Allen Glose, had disappeared during the night. A large crowd of people surrounded the house, and soon strong suspicions rested on Mrs. Glose, the mother of the missing babe, who has been known in that community for some time as a woman who is partially deranged, that she had done away with the child. Miss. Emma Smith, a servant girl, living in the same house with Mr. Glose, heard the child crying faintly at about 3 o'clock in the morning, and soon afterwards some person left the house. The mother, on being questioned, positively denied all knowledge as to the whereabouts of her child. and when some of the neighbors accused her of having drowned it, she exdone that I should try to kill it?" She said that on awakening she first became aware that the child had disappeared from the cradle. Mr. Geissinger's milldam was emptied and the race dragged. Search was made in all directions, but no trace was discovered. Suspicion strongly pointed to the mother of the innocent little babe as being its murderess. On being closely questioned, and by various threats and arguments, she at length divulged what became of the child. She confessed that she had thrown it into the Lehlgh river, and designated the exact spot where the body could be found. Search was made immediately, and the body of the innocent babe discovered by Mr. James Glose, a brother of the child's father, some distance from the shore, its clothes having caught upon a stump. The baby was seven months old. Mrs. Glose was committed to the Easton jail by 'Squire Edmunds, of Fremansburg, and Constable Moser conveyed her there. The busband, who was telegraphed for at Mauch Chunk, is almost distracted by the sad occurrence, and was at first unable to offer any explanation of the conduct of his wife, who is but seventeen years of age. On Saturday last, Dr. E. J. Erdwan made a post mortem examination. He discovered no marks of violence on the body of child. The Corouer's jury, after the examination of several witnesses returned the following verdict: "Deceased, Harvey Glose, came to his death by drowning in the Lehigh river, at the hands of his mother, Martha Glose, on the morning of the 26 of November."-Slatington News.

Accident-Runaway. On Saturday morning a week, Mr. E. riage from that place, accompanied by his uncle, William Peters, and sister, Olivia Peters, to go to Bowmansville, Carbon Co., for the purpose of attending the funeral of the wife of Mr. Henry Peters, whose interment had been fix ed for said day. In driving through Saltington, when near the slate quarry of Mr. David Williams, their horse took fright at a locomotive, and making a sudden dash sidways upset the carriage. spilling out the occupants. The horse ran up the street, but was soon after captured by several men blocking his passage. Fortunately, the persons thrown out were not seriously hurt. The buggy, however, was considerably damaged.—Alientown Democrat.
