FORGERY;

Or, Cliffla Earle's Sacrifice.

BY CAPT. CHARLES HOWARD.

PART FIRST.

Well, Cliffla, what do you think of Mr. Dwight, now?

Cliffla Earle, the little blonde belle of Harrisburgh, turned from the deep bay window with a frightened expression, and gazed, without a word, into her father's eyes.

It was his tone rather than his words that startled her.

'Woman,' he went on, 'is a good dissembler. Cliffla, you would make a magnificent Lady Maebeth. I shall call on manager Maculey to-morrow and speak of you. I believe he has mentioned you several times.'

'Father, what do you mean?' and the white hand of Cliffla touched his arm.

'Girl, dare you not tell me that you have not heard of his arrest?'

'I dare. I have heard of nobody's arrest. Who is arrested now?'

Her cheeks grew paler, as she put the question, and a tremor shook her fragile frame. But she looked her parent in the eye.

He answered slowly:

'Frank Dwight is in the hands of the law.'

Cliffla shrank away.

'Frank Dwight,' she gasped. 'With the commission of what crime is he charged?'

'Forgery.'

'Forgery?'

'Forgery!'

A minute's silence followed the last sounds of the final syllable.

Cliffla Earle started into her father's eyes aghast.

He seemed to enjoy her torture.

'Father,' she said at last, 'there must be some mistake here. He would not stoop to the commission of a crime.'

'You may talk thus Cliffla, but it will do him no good. What he now stands in need of is evidence that will clear him. If you can give him this, speak.'

She did not seem to hear the last sentence, for she was eager to say something.

'Come, father, tell me all about the event,' she said calmly, dropping into the arm-chair besides which she stood.

With a slight, the best of her nature; hope revives for a cure is sure to follow the use of this agreeable, scientific and reliable remedy.

Coughs!

MUCH has been said and written, and many remedies have been offered for the relief and cure of cough and lung diseases, but nothing has been so eminently successful, or obtained such a wide celebrity, as Druggs' Throat and Lung Balm.

Corns!

The excruciating pain produced by corns, the burning and itching from Ingrowing Nails, cannot be described. Thousands suffer, not knowing there is a cure. Druggs' Corn and Bunion Remedy is no acid or painful compound, but a reliable, soothing, and efficient, and justly merits the success they have earned from an appreciative public. The Curative is a healing ointment, immediate relief is obtained by its application. It will positively cure the worst cases of festering corns, inflamed and ulcerated bunions, the most painful, the largest and most stubborn, the most extensive callousness on the soles of the feet, the most obstinate itching of the feet, or frost-bite. The Absorbent for ordinary corns and preventing their re-formation is absolutely unequalled by any other known. Ask for Druggs' Remedies. There is no cure.

Piles!

IT'S ALL VERY WELL. I have not troubled to think of it, but I have had Piles. For this reason, the unfortunate sufferer gets very little sympathy. The agony of Piles is not confined to much worse than the ordinary itching, external and internal hemorrhoids, and the most distressing and dangerous symptoms. Glad Tidings for sufferers. Druggs' Pile Remedy is mild, safe and sure.

Corns! ARE THE MOST PLEASANT!
