The expressinatter of the pre-vious eventup having been light, Mr. Lobean concluded to carry the few packages to the different places of delivery, and by so doing give his horse a few hours additional rest. Having performed the delivery part of his duties on the merning in question, he repaired to the office, where he lound a request to call at a cer-tain residence on High street, for some articles of heavy freight. He at once went for the cua-tomary telegraph pole, near which he usually leaves his rig, to look for his team. But—think of his surprise when the team coulon't be found! The first idea suggested to him was that "Massion Hones Jim" might have taken is away; but Jim hadn't been near! Next he thought that the High street owner of the heavy tright might have taken it off to accommodate him. To, High street he went, but 'nary team had been seen in that elevated region He wandered through the few remaining streets of the berough, but newhere could be learn aught concerning the missing vehicle. Went could have become of it! Well acquainted with every locality of the pisee, mightn't the horse have wandered back to the -table? To the stable he went, and it wasn't until he saw the unhar sed-animal quietly munching its mod that he took in the situation! Previous to this, it had not occurred to him that he hadn't taken the horse out of the stable at all that morning.

At Olewine & Miner's Foundry. Of the few industral est blishments which have of late years soring up in our midst, pro-bably nens are at present in a more flourishing condition than the man foundry carried on by the above named gostlemen. Having com-menced operations abortly before the panic of 1871, con-sequently at the most critic 1. unfavor-able period of our national existence, these gen-tlemen have nevertheless succeeded in estab-lishing a trade and reputation second to none in the valley. Indeed, their business has out-grown the capacity of their foundry to such an extent, that its en a gement has become an impersitive necessity, and is now held under ad-visement. They now employ fwenty these hands fiften of whom are moulders who, di-pits the low rates of wages elsewhere paid are still deriving a comfortable living from their occupation. Most of the men employed by Measrs. Olewine & Kimer are counsed uson job work which, to some extent, accounts for their superior wages. This firm is now turn-ing out 4) complete sets of machine fixtures (comprising nearty all that 4,50 to make up a machine) per week for the Domestic Sewing Machine Company of New York; and so soon as that number, for all of which, toey will find a ready market. It is always a pleasant task to note evidences of prosperity; more so at this gloomy period of general prestration. The most pleasing picapect of all is that the projected en-largement of their foundry will require the employment of a large additional number of

Singular Accident,

On Wednesday last a singular and fatal acci-cent occurred at Laury's Station. this county, It seems that a young and promising sen of a furmer named Mosca Newhard, aged about it years, was sent to herd some cows at pasture, to which errand the young boy eto rfully and willingly went. Nothing unusual was thought of the occurrence, until his mother, upon loos-ing towards the pasture, discovered the cattle straying around, when she sent one of her younger sous to acquaint his brother of the fact and learn why he was not attending to the same. But when upon nearing the piace where he saw his brother, as he supposed, playing, was terror stricken to find his brother hanging by the usek to a small rope attached to a cherry tree. No reason can be assigned for hanging other than that the young boy must have be amusing himself with the rope, when, by some unaccountable means, the same became fasten-ed around his neek and in his fright was cheked to double before he recovered control of himself aufficient to disentangle the rope, as when the rupe was cits it immediately dropped from his neck, and was found not to be in any manner ed.
