-Mr. T. P. Taylor and his amiable wife, removed back to Stroudsburg Monroe county, during the past week. A little more than one year ago, Mr. Taylor came to Lehighton and took ssession of the Linderman farm, situated in the Mahoning Valley, which proved an unfortunate investment for him, pecuniarily, and he returns to his former home a poorer if not a wiser man. During his stay in this section both he and his wife have made a host of warm and admiring friends, whose best wishes for their future success in life goes with them to other scenes. Their intercourse with our people, has been marked for its refined culture and social affability. We bespeak for them a warm reception on their return to Stroudsburg. - Oliver Musselman, Esq., of Knox, - Onver ausseman, Esq., of Khox, Indiana, who has been visiting old friends in this county for the past month, left for home Thursday. He is publisher and proprietor of the Stark ounty Ledger, printed in Knox. - Strangers are continually remark-ing over the neatness, system and cleanliness of our town. They admire cleanliness of our town. They admire our churches and public buildings, and appland our energy and public spirit-but they little dream that we are going but they little dream that we are going to have gas—not the gas that usually emanates from public assemblages and bar-room politicians—but real burning, fiery, illuminating Gas. Coal oal and tailow candles have had their day, or rather night, in Lehighton, and must succumb to the progressive spirit of the age. Mr. G. B. Wrenn, of Sanbury, the contractor, assures us that the charter for the company will be procured during the coming week, and that the work will be proceeded with at once. Mr. W. will be in our town again in about ten days, when an opportunity will be afforded those who have not already subscribed of procuring stock in the company.

Miss M. T. Yarnali last year taught the Inter mediate school. We are pleased to note that she has been premoted to the Grammar. It is an evidence that efforts last year were duly appreciated by the Directors, and must be grafi-fying to Miss Yarnail and stimulate her. If pos-able, to still greater and more successful efforts in her profession.

best grain-beating sections of the con-tinent of Europe just at the critical period of gathering the crops, and the gloomy details have been coming to us by telegraph and mail. Rains have drenched the already over-wet fields in some sections, while drought has parched them in others. For a month past, throughout Europe, the fears of a short crop of wheat have been accumulating, until now the necessity for preparing to meet the deficit has given a sudden impulse of activity to the grain and shipping interests of the United States. It so happened that this country is now in good condition to make up European Before the present American wheat crop was harvested, our granaries contained a large reverse of last year's crop-much larger than usual, for prices has been low and the demand poor, so that there had been no inducement to sell. Under the stimulus of increasing prices this reserve is coming forward in large amounts for shipment abroad for as yet but little of this year's crop has found its way to market, except from California, where the harvest is earlier than in the wheat-growing States on July 17-m3 the Atlantic slopes of the continent. Although the new crop in California has declined about ten per cent. in quality, yet elsewhere in the United States the new crop promises to be a good one, as large, if not larger, than last year's. We are therefore able, with new wheat and old, to send to Europe all that may be wanted there with seriously inconveniencing ourselves and in a very rew weeks the question will be settled whether the European European wheat crop is to be a very little or a great deal below the average, and also whether the demand for American breadstuffs abroad is to continue brisk during the balance of the year.

Advancing prices for food supplies are generally not very welcome conditions even as preparatoty to a revival of trade, but in the present commercial condition of the United States they bring some compensating advantages. Large numbers of American farmers bring some compensating advantages. Large numbers of American farmers have bad two or three poor seasons, in J. H., who has been engaged in private and hospital practice for 3 years, our ing diseases some of them short crops, and all of them low prices, and they have had as much as they could do to provide ne-cessaries, with scarcely any surplus money to spend for improvements or for manufacturing goods. Hence the demand for goods in many country dis-demand for goods in many country dis-
