PARAGRAPHIC.

—Ex-Senator Revels, as a colored Methodist minister, is said to be highly successful.

—The greatest depth of the Pacific Ocean, as found by the British ship Challenge, was about five miles.

—The Archbishop of Canterbury receives $75,000 a year. Even an Indian Ring Chaplain doesn't make that much.

—A decent mourning bonnet now costs $12, and any sort of an economical woman is afraid of crying at the grave for fear of spoiling the strings.

—The San Francisco mint coined during August nearly $4,000,000 in double eagles, over $300,000 in trade dollars $30,000, in half dollars and nearly $50,000 in dimes.

—A girl is on trial in London for pawning her engagement ring. She raised fifteen shillings on it the day after her lover gave it to her, whereupon he had her arrested.

—It costs Canada only $2 to care for each Indian. It costs the United States more than $20 per Indian. But, then, we have our money's worth in having Indian Rings.

—It has been seven years since James Woods, of Philadelphia, was sober. The Courier-Journal believes that James must be the most unknown who is just now furnishing sober stories for the press.

—A very handsome mulatto boy, sixteen years old, has eloped with the matron of a white family in Wilmington, N. C., in which he was a servant. The woman is forty years old, and has some money.

—An appropriation of $1,000 having been made by the City Council of Poughkeepsie, Vt., to aid in the erection of a Catholic Seminary, the citizens secured an injunction on the treasurer to prevent the payment.

—There are 1,700,000 Baptists in the United States and only 250,000 in England. Virginia alone has as many as Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, and Massachusetts put together. The denomination is very popular with the negroes.

—Dr. Hicks, a Methodist minister of Live Oak, Fla., has been acquitted by a committee, after a protracted trial, on charge of impropriety. In his defense the reverend gentleman said that he would mash down his prosecutors with relentless fury.

—Chaines Jeanne d'Arc and Jeanne d'Arc bells are the latest fancy additions to the feminine toilet. They encircle the neck or waist at pleasure, or suspend the vinaigrette, fan, watch, chatelaine, or any other article that a lady may need when shopping or visiting.

—It is altogether probable that Poor Richard did not see the mess he was getting into when he gave utterance to his seemingly harmless dictum: "Thrift is the mother of money." It looks like a toothless kind of a saw but when we consume that equally good authorities tell us that "The love of money is the root of all evil," and further that "evil communications corrupt good manners," we are forced logically to believe that if it were not for trade we would be living in Paradise and would know nothing about scrip and rings and politics. Ought Poor Richard to arise and explain or refuse, or something.

—It would seem that in St. Louis clergymen, instead of being as subject to suspicion of immorality than other men, are watched more critically. The Rev. Father Stephen of St. Genevieve county, Mo., started for that city with the young daughter of a parishioner on her way to be put to school. On the steamer they sat in a stateroom with a door open toward the main saloon and one closed toward the deck. Somebody who knew they were there, jokingly told the captain that something was wrong, and he at once burst in the closed door, wildly attacked the unoffending priest, and gave him a brutal whipping before the situation could be explained.

—A brother of the murdered Nathan is passenger agent of the Green Bay and Minnesota Railroad. He is reported as saying: "My brother would have been the last man in the world to set up from his bed to seek an encounter with any one. He would let a burglar carry off the whole room, and pretend to sleep. My theory is that he heard a noise in the front room and went out, in a curious, absent sort of a way, to see what it was, never dreaming for an instant there was any person there with burglarious intent. He must have softly stepped out and probably come upon the intruder unawares—it may be, stumbled against him—he was short sighted, you know—and this man found it necessary for his own protection to kill him to avoid an entire or future recognition."

HUMOROUS.

—"Every heart knows its own bitters!" as the old lady said to her minister.

—A backwoodsman describing a steamboat, said, "It has a sawmill on one side, a gristmill on the other, and a blacksmith's shop in the middle, and down stairs there's a tarnation big pot boiling all the while."

—Mr. Billings very philosophically remarks that we laff at sheep because when one of them leads the way all the rest follow, however ridiculous it may be; and I suppose the sheep laff when they see us do the very same thing.

—A Glasgow antiquary recently visited Cataract Castle, and asked one of the villagers "if he knew anything of an old story about the building?" "Aye," said the rustic, "there was anither auld story, but it fell down long sinces."

—A man in Michigan cut a large piece out of his leg the other day, under the impression that he had been bitten by a rattlesnake, and then discovered that he had merely been bitten by a bee. A meaner feeling man on making the discovery, was probably never raised in that state.

—"Have you Goldsmith's Greece?" was asked of the clerk in a store the other day in which books and various miscellaneous articles were sold. "No," said the clerk reflectively, "we haven't Goldsmith's Greece, but we have some splendid hair oil."

—A Massachusetts man is carrying favor with the fair sex by a tract in which he seeks to show that there are two heavens, one for men and one for women. The latter are to pass into their heaven without discrimination, but the men are to be sifted before admission.

—The ignorance of foreigners is something superb. Dumas has written an American novel, in which a coon chases a couple of young United States lovers up a tree and then tries to get down by them gnawing through the trunk. Dumas says the Virginia coon is as large as a yearling calf.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

—The new cattle distemper in England is called "the foot and mouth disease." The same thing has prevailed in this country among statesmen for years past. Its principal feature, and that which gives it its name, is that the victim can't open his mouth without putting his foot into it.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

—Rev. Charles Brooks was asked, "What is the shortest sketch of human life?" He answered thus:

"At ten, a child; at twenty, wild;
At thirty, strong if ever;
At forty, rich; at fifty, wise;
At sixty, good, or never."

—A youngster being required to write a composition upon some portion of the human body selected that which unites the head to the body, and expounded as follows: "A throat is convenient to have, especially to roosters and ministers. The former eats corn and crows with it; the latter preaches through his'n, and then ties it up. This is pretty much all I can think about necks."

—Here is an Irish gentleman's letter to his son in college: "My dear son—I write to send you two pair of my old breeches, that you may have a new coat made out of them; also some new socks which your mother has just knit by cutting down some of mine. Your mother sends you two pounds without my knowledge, and for fear you may not use it wisely I kept back half and only send you one. Your mother and I are well, except that your sister has got the measels which we think would have spread among the girls if Tom had not had it before, and he is the only one left. I hope you will do honor to my teachings; if not you are no son, and your mother and myself your affectionate parents."

—During a class meeting held several years since by the Methodist Brethern of a southern village, Brother Jones went among the colored portion of the congregation. Finding there an old man notorious for his endeavors to serve God on the sabbath and satan the rest of the week, he said, "Well, brother Dick, I'm glad to see you here. Haven't stole any turkeys since I saw you last, Brother Dick?" "No, no, Brudder Jones; no turkeys." "Nor chickens." "No, Brudder Jones, no chickens." "Thank the Lord, Brother Dick! That's doing well, my brother," said Brother Jones, leaving Brother Dick, who immediately relieved his overburdened conscience of saying to a near neighbor, with an immense sigh of relief, "If he'd said ducks, he'd a had me." It is not necessary to go South to find sophistical Christians like "Brudder Jones."

—The following circumstance happened in a country town not a thousand miles from Leighton:—A gentleman had been drinking until a late hour at night, before he started for home. All honest folks had long been in bed, and the houses were aunt and dark. The liquor he had taken was too much for him; he did not know where to go. He at last staggered into an empty wagon shed and fell upon the ground. For a long time he lay in the unconsciousness of a drunken sleep and would have unquestionably frozen, for the snow on the ground showed the night to be very cold; had not others not less insensible than himself been around him. This shed was a favorite rendezvous for the hogs, which rushed out when the newcomer arrived, but soon returned to their beds. In the utmost kindness and with the truest hospitality, they gave their tiped companion the middle of the bed some lying on either side of him, and others acting the part of the quilt. Their warmth prevented him from being injured by the exposure. Towards morning he awoke; finding himself comfortable, and in blissful ignorance of his whereabouts, he supposed himself enjoying the accommodations of a tavern, in company with other gentlemen. He reached out his hand, and catching hold of the stiff bristles of a hog, exclaimed—"Why, master, when did you shave last?"

"$160,000"

Made in Two Months. A Wall street Operation. The Banking-house of Alex. Frothingham & Co., No. 12 Wall-st., who deal in Stock Privileges, have paid this enormous sum to their customers during this short space of time. Some persons have made as high as $6000 from only $100 originally invested and many have made $1,000 and over from only $5's. They paid in a single day over $40,000, for which only $5,000 was received, or $37,000 net profit to various people. They employ continuously from twelve to fifteen competent bookkeepers and assistants. With this strong force they are often compelled to remain at their work until midnight. This energetic firm well deserves the credit of being the leading house in their branch of business. It is no wonderful to acknowledge that they have established this business in the short space of five years.

They have customers who reside in nearly every State of the Union, the Dominion of Canada, from the Island of Cuba they receive orders from persons who are continually dealing in stocks. Their business has become so extensive that two experienced correspondents are employed to attend to their advertising accounts. Their cards may be read in every first-class newspaper published in the United States. To this they attribute a portion of their success. We advise those desiring to place their business with a firm possessing the very highest record for uprightness, and who conduct their business upon honest principles, to deal with this house.

They also issue a Weekly report of the condition of affairs in Wall street, which they are glad to mail free for one year, to any one who desires and contemplates speculating.

Send for it.—Evening Mail, N. Y. jy10 y1
