Was It Suicide ? From circumstances that have come to light within the past week there is great doubt thrown out as to whether the late Hon. Geo. It-sohall restly put himself to death designedly. There were many of our people who could hardy credit the finding of the jury at the time, ow ing to the fact that Mr. s. was seen in a rational state but a very short time before his death was sunounced, and now that is has been discovered that what was considered the mark of the bul let on the inside shutter was really an indes-tation made by an iron lock catch, the theory advanced to support the supposed manner of self destruction is upset—unless he should have ommitted the deed with the left hand, which is not probable considering that he was not left-nanded. There is a mark in the ceiling nearly overhead from where Mr. S. ast, made by the cullet after it had coursed through his head, and this from the position in which he was found and the course of the shot, makes it ap-pear as if his steath had really been actidents, particularly so when it is taken into considera-tion that while out in the afternoon shooting at mark his peakel got out of order through the cracking of a pivot, that as a consequence one of the bullets was immerciale, that on outering the house in the evening he remarked to the housekeeper that he was going up stairs to re-caution to look his chamber door, that he did not remove either his cout or hat, coupled with visions during the afternoon, buying apparel for his children, etc. e.e. All in all, there is the best of reason to believe that his death was the result of accident rather than of intent or de. sign.—A tienfown Democrat.
