

The Carbon Advocate.

H. V. MORRIMER, EDITOR. LEIGHTON, PA. SATURDAY MORNING, MAY 29, 1876.

Dangerous counterfeiters of the National State Bank of Terre Haute, Ind., $10, and First National Bank of Louisville, $5, are afoot.

There is no prospect of the adjournment of Congress before the middle of July—at least such is the opinion of Congressmen who have spoken upon the subject.

There is no longer any doubt that Richard Harrison, indicted for complicity in the safe burglary in Washington, has left the country, and it is believed he is in Canada. The extradition treaty with England does not apply to the offense of conspiracy, with which he is charged.

William H. Barnum was elected United States Senator by the Connecticut Legislature Tuesday. In the Senate the vote stood: Barnum, 17; Harrison, 3; English, 1. In the House, Barnum, 150; Harrison, 81; English, 5; Ingersoll, 2. The election is for the unexpired term of Senator Ferry, deceased.

In the Political Reform Conference at New York, on Tuesday, the chairman of the Committee on business reported a lengthy "Address to the American People," which was adopted. It declares against any candidate for the Presidency "not publickly known to possess those qualities of mind and character which the stern task of genuine reform requires." After the appointment of an Executive Committee, consisting of the members of the Business Committee, and authorizing them to add to their number at least one from each State in the Union, the Conference adjourned finally.

Philadelphia Letter.

PHILA., Pa., May 17, 1876.

DEAR ADVOCATE:—In writing from time to time, in regard to the Centennial, I shall endeavor to give your readers all or any points which may be for their guidance or advantage in visiting the great exhibition.

Never go into a restaurant and order anything without first knowing what you are going to pay for. This precaution will save much trouble, as in some of the restaurants dollars will hardly purchase as much as pennies will in the outside world.

Should you have a basket or package with you when you enter any of the buildings, you will have to let the guard examine it when you come out.

In spite of reports to the contrary, a fifty-cent piece or a fifty-cent note will alone give you admittance to the exhibition. Have your admittance fee ready before you start for the show.

Put on the easiest pair of boots or shoes you have, or you will wish you had before seeing one-half of the sights.

You can be wheeled through the buildings and grounds in a roller chair for 50 cents an hour or $1.50 per day. In hiring a chair be sure to select an able bodied man to propel it, or you may come to grief. A chair ran away from a man of moderate strength the other day and dumped a lady most unceremoniously down a hill.

The visitor from "up country" will doubtless be most interested in visiting Agricultural Hall, there he will find the products of the soil in bounteous profusion, and as to agricultural implements—why, everything from a pitchfork to a mowing machine can be seen. The exhibition is not confined to agriculture only, for here you can see the fish of the sea dispersing themselves in high tanks of water, fresh from the briny deep.

The citizens of Gloucester, Mass., contribute a representation of the harbor of that famous fishing town. Fishing crafts of all kinds and descriptions are floating at anchor, and in real water too. A dock and fishing house, old and new are close at hand, appearing ready to receive cargoes of fish from the tiny craft. To Gloucester belongs the honor of building the first schooner. In 1713 Capt. Andrew Robinson built a craft suitable for fishing, and as she was being launched one of the bystanders said, "Oh, how she scoots," "schooner, at her heels," said Capt. R., and schooner it has been ever since.

In the fishing for cod fish, the fishermen keep out by cutting out the tongue of each fish as soon as caught and receive credit for them in the evening, when the captain counts them over.

A little beyond the Gloucester exhibit is a most attractive showing of American Ingenuity from the manufactory of W. G. I. Wheeler, 21, 23 and 25 New Chambers street, New York. When one looks upon the beautiful bundles in the case, at first they seem to be packages of glossy silk or satin, so fine is the texture, in fact nearly transparent. Then it is that the graceful festooning (forming a canopy), and even a true lover's knot is made out of this self-same material, which it almost exceeds belief. The canopy is bound round with red, white, and blue, which adds a relief to the case and contents, and very appropriately denotes that its contents are American manufactures. "As it is made from mica, and is it for staves!" I heard a bystander inquire. What was his surprise and that of your correspondent when he heard it was made from certain parts of certain kinds of fish, and is largely used in clearing brooks, ditches, and for many purposes too numerous to enumerate. Visitors should take a look at this exhibit by all means, for it will amply repay them.

As I left the grounds with those notes for this letter the chimed upon Machinery Hall commenced to play "Good-bye sweetheart, good-bye," so I took of my hat and made a profound bow in return for the complimentary piece.

Ten men, most of them colored, were flogged and pilloried at New Castle, Del., on Saturday. Some of them were lightly lashed, others received no mercy from the jailer.

Christopher Ward, a farmer, convicted of having murdered his wife and set fire to his house in the early part of last month, was sentenced at Brampton, Ont., on Saturday, to be hanged.

Rev. Mr. Furness and Rev. Dr. Bellows made strong addresses in favor of opening the Centennial grounds on Sunday as a means of morality on that day.

Butter and eggs are cheaper in Philadelphia since the opening of the Centennial than they have been for a year past. The market is glutted.

The Great "Molle" Trial.

Considerable excitement was manifested in the Court House at Pottsville, on Friday of last week, when JAMES McKEENA was CALLED.

He was brought into court by some Coal and Tin police officers looking in first-rate condition, and he seemed nervous but in no way intimidated. There was nothing extraordinary, as the case was jammed full, but he was the center of attraction, on the importance of the case is enough to make a larger man than Jimmy change color.

As Jimmy was being sworn Mr. Bartholomew called out "What a fine fellow!" Mr. Bartholomew called out "What a fine fellow!" Mr. Bartholomew called out "What a fine fellow!"

Mr. Bartholomew then asked Mr. McKeena if he was a member of the 'Molle' and if he had any business with the 'Molle' in the city of Pottsville.

Mr. McKeena then testified that he had lived in Pottsville for some time and had known Jimmy for a long time.

Mr. McKeena then testified that he had seen Jimmy on the night of the murder and that he had seen him with a pistol.
