A Last Word.

Before the next issue of the Apvo-CATE, the question as to who will be the next President of these United States will have been decided at the ballot box. If every man having the right of franchise, will only view the situation of affairs calmly and intelligently, we have no fear as to the result. While the election of Mr. Hayes would not, in our opinion, interfere with the ultimate sue cess and prosperity of our country, still on account of the immense amount of of the Senate." corruption in high places -- among members of the Cabinet, of the Senate and of the House of Representatives-we incline to the opinion that a radical change in the entire administration of the Government of the country would hasten the day of prosperity, and this could only result from the election of Samuel J. Tilden to the highest office in the gift of our people. That there is corruption in all parties, that demagogues can be found in the Democratic as well as the Republican party, it would be perfectly useless to deny-we have them even here in little Carbon. Still when a party has held power for a considerable length of time, the corrupt elements of that party are apt to rise to the surface, and from continued success, become careless of the interests of the people, and work only for their own nefarious purposes. To this climax has the present party in power arrived, pandering to their own taste for luxury and overbearing aristocracy, it has neglected the wants of the people of the country; prostrating business by the imposition of enormous taxes to pay the largely increased salaries of the numerous, and in many cases superfluous, officers of the governmentmaking the poor poorer, and the rich faction to distract public attention. richer. Again, we say, let every voter study the situation calmly and without prejudice, and go to the polls on Tuesday next with a determination to root out corruption from our national goveroment, and we have no fear for the

The county ticket of each party coutains the names of some men, in whose honest and integrity we have the most implicit confidence-men who do not make party polities subservient to all else-men who are well known to most of our people to be honest, hard working and intelligent-men who, if elected, will perform their duty to the people independent of party; such men are W. M. Rapsher, Dr. J. C. Kreamer, Thos. Kemerer, Joseph Feist, J. W. Raudenbush, John Painter, Dr. R Leonard and Thos. L. Foster, any of whom we believe will do honor to to the positions for which they aspire. Vote intelligently and you will be sure to vote right.

Peter Cooper and Samuel F. Cary have issued an address to the independent voters of the United States setting forth the principles of the Independent Greenbackers, and declaring their "unalterable determination to remain candidates for President and Vice President nextl the close of the polls." They declare that neither the Republican nor the Democratic party is deserving of support, the former having "brought want, distress and debt on forty million of people," and the latter being "without any fixed policy in relation to Governmental affairs, and unfitted to administer the Government." The only letter in the alphabet with which Peter Copper is familiar, is evidently the letter I.

-The public debt statement shows a reduction during the month of October of $3,388,139 01. Amount of coin in Treasury, $75,987,027.92; currency balance, 12,001,320-10; special deposits of legal tenders held for redemption of certificates of deposit, $40,670,000; coin certificates, 233,283,100; outstanding legal tenders, 8467,595,716.

Counting the Votes.

Concern is expressed in some quarters, says the N. Y. Sun, about the method of counting the votes for President and Vice-President, upon the idea that the election will be close and way be attended with possible danger. This auxiety is mispieced, and these fears may be dismissed. In the first place, Mr. Tilden's majority of States in the electoral college, and of the popular vote, too, will be so large as to furnish no pretext for dispute.

In the second place, the Constitution provides the only existing mode by which the election shall be formally verified; for after all, it is nothing more than a verification of a result already determined. That clause in the Constitution is explicit enough, when not broken into fragments. It says, Article

II., Section 1 : "The electors shall meet in their respective States, and vote by ballot for two persons, of whom one at tenst shall not be an insubstant of the same state with themselves. Apa they shall make a list of all the persons voted for and of the number of votes for each; which list they shall sign and certify and transmit sealed to the sent of the Government of the United States, direct to the President of the Senate. The President of the Senate shall, in the presence of the Senate and Honse of Representa-tives, open all the certificates, and the votes

The act of March 1, 1792, was passed to carry this clause into effect. It provides how the electors shall be chosen. when they shall meet, and to whom their certificates shall be sent. Also, that Congress shall be in session on the second Wednesday in February "for the purpose of counting and declaring the vote." The practice has been for the two Houses to meet ir. joint session on that day, and for the Senate to appoint one teller and the House two, to record the votes as read from the certificates of the electors, which had been previously "directed to the President

On the 6th of February, 1865, the Republican Congress adopted a joint rule, which placed it in the power of either House to raise objection to the counting of any vote, and declars " no vote objected to shall be counted except by the concurrent votes of the two Houses." It is easy to see that, with a Republican majority in the Senate and a Democratic majority in the House, very serious difficulties might arise in high party times like the present.

This joint rule is now dead, as the House at the last session refused to readopt it, and with very good reason. So the count will take place under the constitutional provision above cited, unless the two Houses should come to an agreement as to another mode, which is hardly probable. While no trouble is to be apprehended, the desperate Republican leaders who have control of the Senate will stop at no means within teach to retain power. Hence it is desirable, not only to elect Mr. Tilden, but to elect him by so overwhelming a vote that the corrupt and reckless managers at Washington will be awed into submission and silence, and the Administration of Grant will go down into disgrace, without the voice of a disturbing

Thanksgiving Day. By the president of the United States

A proclamation.

From year to year we have been accustomed to pause in our daily potaults and set apart a time to ofter our thanks to Almighty God for the special pleas may like has youth-sted to us, with our prayers a continuance thereof. We have at this time equal reason to be themstul for His continued protection, and for the many material bleadings. His bounty has been weed. In addition to these favors accorded to us as individuals, we have especial occasion to express our hearty thanks to Almighty God that by his provinces and guidance our government established a country sgo has been enabled to faultithe purpose of its fasters in offsering an asylum to the people of every race accurring levit and religious therty to all within its borders, and meeting out to every individual sike, justice and equality before the law. It is, moreover, especially our duty to offer our humble prayers to the Father of all Mercues for a continuance of Bit divine favor to us as a nation and as motividuals.

By reasons of all these considerations I. Utys-

Bis dwine favor to us as a nation and as individuals.

By reasons of all these considerations I. Ulyases S. Grant president of the United States, to recommend to the people of the United States, to recommend to the people of the United States to devote the solution of November next to tace a pression of their thenks and prayers to Aimighty Sted, and haying aside their daily advocations and all secular occupations, to assemble in their respective places of worship, and observe such day as a day of thanks giving and rest.

In witness thereof, I have herounto set my hand and caused the seal of the United Sistes to be affixed.

Boin at the city of Washington this twenty-sixth day of October, in the yearr of our i ord, one thousand eight hundred and swenty-six of the independence of the United States of America the one hundred and first.

By the president ; HAMILTON FIGH. Secretary of State.

-The Reading Eagle is responsible for the following : Two belles of this city lately came home from Philadelphia shorn of their wealth of raven tresses. After they had taken in all the points at the big show and had made many purchases before they knew it they had spent all their money, and what was worse had lost their return excursion tickets. They had no friends in Philadelphia and no time to write to Reading. They therefore resolved to make a raise; so they skipped away into a barber shop and struck a bargain for their back hair. The shaver offered $3.75 each for what they had. In a short time they were nicely shorn and thus they were able to get back to their native land.

-Next Tuesday, Nov. 7th, is the day upon which every man is expected to do his duty at the ballot box. Let no man, who has the right to vote, fail to derosit his ballot for Tilden, Hendricks and Reform.

Our Philadelphia Letter.

PHILA., Pa., Nov. 1, 1876. DEAR ADVOCATE :- It is not likely that I shall have the pleasure of writing you again until after the election. then all will most likely have been deeided, the smake of the conflict will have lifted from the field of battle, the wounded safely hospitaled and the dead buried with their martial cloaks around then. The proud victors, "laurel crowned," will be parading, feasting, serenading, illuminating, cheering, commanding, shouting, lemonading, and otherwise, and pocketing their bets.

All Hallow Eve was duly observed by our lads and lassies, both of young and older growth. Many were the ap-ples that were bobbed for in tubs of water by blindfolded swains, and should the water be shallow, as was, I fear, in some cases, the pates of the wouldbe sweethearts I doubt not that some noses were made to bleed, as they unexpectedly "touched bottom" in a too vigorous attempt to reach the coveted vigorous attempt to reach the coveted fruit. Masqueraders promenaded the streets and made night hideous with their discordant music. Door hells were rung by unseen visitors, who were laughing in their steeves at the other end of the wire, across the street, as Bridget answered the angry call. Chestnuts and other kinds of nuts in shovels and held over the fire by many loving hearts, who wished to see who would be "the coming man," or the "better half;" but, in some cases I fear the loud smack of a kiss was heard long before the nuts could erack or jump into the fire, or perhaps they were forgotten altogether and their omens considered as naught, as Johnny and Jenny sat in the dimly lighted room and swore "only to be true" to each other.

A Centennial visitor went into a Chestnut street mock auction store the other day and bid upon an article which was knocked down to him at two dollars, so he handed the auctioneer a five dollar bill to change, but in a moment the oily tongued rascal banded him back a counterteit bill of the same denomination and soundly rated him for offering "such money." Now, Mr. Visitor was no fool, so he went out, called an officer and had the villais arrested at once. Mr. Mock Auctioneer was soon disposed of and his "going I going !! gone !!! will not be heard in the busy marts of commerce for some months to come, for he lingers behind prison bars.

The Governor's proclamation declaring Thursday, the 30th of November, Thanksgiving Day, has caused considerable consternation in feathered circles and many of them are "roosting high." The tables will soon be changed, for as Turkey has been whipping Servia, we will kill turkey and have him served here; at any rate I hope to have that pleasure. (This is no hint, Mr. Editor, as I understand turkies roost very tigh in Carbon county). Pump-kins are being slaughtered by the thousands as the cruel knife ruthlessly pierces their golden sides. We must have pumpkin pie, you know. The chop of the mince meat cutter is heard in the land, and the doctors chuckle as they prepare their medicines for the cure of dyspepsia. At any rate let us all celebrate Thanksgiving in a proper manner, and if we cannot feast upon turkey and eranberry sauce, let us do so with mush and scrapple, and thank God for what we have, for blessings come to the store of those who are thankful at heart.

The Cententennial is on the wane and its glories will soon live in the memories of the past. Election day will be "Woman's Day" at the big show, and the women of all the world have been invited to be present. I fear that millions of the fair sex will not be able to be on hand on the festive occasion, for seven days notice certainly too brief for our sisters of Europe Asia and Africa to put in an appear ance, not to say anything else about the other sisters of the world. Mind you, I do not object to the thing, for if man has had his day, I don't see why woman should not have hers, that is if she leaves the broomstick behind. (Should any of the fair daughters of Carbon become augry or infuriated at these comments and call at your sactum and demand the name of the writer, who writes under the nom de plume of Marcutio, I hope you'll tell them his name is Smith. Tell them he is as fearless and as brave as a lion, but for pru-dential reasons be thinks it is best to be known as Smith, plain Smith ; you can put in a John if you choose, for they might think you were deceiving them if you only knew me as Smith.)

Yours, cautiously,

" DANIEL DEBONDA." - This new book by George Ellot, the famous au-thor of "Adam Bede," "Middlethor of march," etc., bas created a profound sensation in the literary world. It is truly a noble work,—the fullest and broadest expression that the spirit of this age has found in literature, and George Eliot will probably be consider ed by posterity the greatest, certainly the broadest, writer of our generation.

A nobler character than "Deronda" modern literature has not produced

The Boston Journal pronounces Dan-lei Deranda " the literary event of the The London Globe calls it "an event in the history of literature." The Christian Intelligencer: "The story is profoundly absorping." Scribner's Monthly says: "There are books which can only be measured by the largest standard, and such a work is George Eliot's new novel, Daniel Deronda."

The publishers of the popular "Lakeside Library" editions of standard au-thors have issued a cheap edition of "Daniel Derouds," complete in two volumes, unabridged, price, ouly 20 cents each, by mail 25 cents. Sold by P. T. Brady, in Lehighton, and all newsdealers, or sent postpaid by Donnelley, Loyd & Co., Publishers, Chicago, III
