-The near approach of winter is now brought to our minds in many ways We witness the falling leaf and the frosty nights; we teel the cutting winds and think of the poor; we look with some of pity and some of di gust upon the shivering tramp; we wonder why it is that more coal oil is used since the advance in price; we see some with their last year's Ulsters dangling at their heels, and sympathize with them when we reflect that they might have had new ones had they remained home from the Centennial; we hear the voice of the oyster man; the death shricks of dying porkers cut throught our ears; yes, all these, and more too, force us to the conclusion that cold, stern winter is surely coming and is near upon us .- But we rejoice in the fact that David Ebbert still lives at his old stand on North street, and that he has the largest and best lot of herses, carriages and sleighs, with nice warm buffalo robes, to be found in the country, and that his terms are very low.

Letter from Mauch Chunk.

Manch Chunk, Nov. 15, 1876. Althoughveleetme.day is post, anxiety and meetainty still control the hour ; political discussion continues as lively as ever, and the customary "well, what is the latest ?" or "what do you think of it ?" still continues to confront one wherever he may go. There is the same anxiety to ascertain the result and the same reluctance on the part of all to believe in the possibility of defeat And yet, it won't be long before one or the other of the two great parties will save to accept it, as bitter a pill to swal lew as it may prove to them, and whenever that trying hour shall have arrived, ict them remember that "When reme dies are past, the griefs are ended" (at geast should be) and that "To mourn a mischief that is past and gone, is (frequently) the next best way to bring new mischief on" for which, and sundry other reasons that I might cite, it is to be hoped that when the final result shall once become known all will accept the inevitable in good grace, greatly as they now a pear to be averse to any such a course. Should it be "Tilden," let all Hayes-men heartily join in a grand 'rah for Tilden-if "Hayes," let Democrats shout themselves hourse for him, and they'll find the thing to work like a charm, for sure

The emigration fever in the vicinity of Summit Hill is spreading, and stong hopes are entertained by the originators the colonization-project that, ere spring, large numbers of those able to leave, will join in their endeavors to acquire homes elsewhere. With three or four times as many operatives in the coal region than can under existing circumstanes or future prospects, expect steady employment at remumerative rates, the scheme deserves to be encouraged. The days of the Lehigh Valley as an iron producing center, are evidently past and the demand for coal from that quarter will probably never again reach the extent it once had; and for all other purposes the use of anthracite would at no time warrant the expecta tion of more than 4 or 5 months steady employment per year. Such being the case, our advice to all able to do so is : Go while you have the mears, whether west or south west, north, north west, or south matters little, so you go be-fore waiting for employment shall have robbed you of the means you may yet

Our popular young friend, Mr. II. A. Peters, who for the past two years has been employed in the drug store of A. J. Durling, on Thursday afternoon last, led to the hymenial altar, Miss A. C. Horn. Peter filled the position of ladie's maid, and Mr. J. A. Horn that of groom's man. Among the visitors present were Rev. G. A. Bruegel and lady, Rev. A. Bartholomew and lady, and the members of the bride and bridegroom's family. At about 3 o'clock p. m. a very elegent collation was served up, to which ample justice was done by the guests. At 4 41 the happy couple started for N. Y. city, where they propose spending their honeymoon. Before their departure they were made the receipients of a number of very handsome presents, as a token of respect, from their friends. The affair passed off very happily to all concerned. We extend to them our best wishes for their happiness.

-Says one of our exchanges : The coming winter is unquestionably to be a severe one, even in the mildest aspects of weather, to the large class of poor people, who, of necessity, have been kept out of work the greater part of the year. The "times" have been exceptionably stringent, and many people who have been accustomed to free and generous fiving have been compelled by the stress of fortune to curtain expenses in every possible way; so it is not to be wondered at that, those who have found life a hard struggle at best should now be severely puched, and will be, as the cold season comes on, greatly troubled to obtain the smallest comforts even the protection that is required to "keep soul and body togeth-But as we all can foresee the suffering that is sure to come, each one of us should prepare to contribute in measure toward its alleviation. Cloth-ing, fuel and food will all be needed, and each one in his own neighborhood may do the part of the Good Samaritan, and receive not only the rich reward of thanksgiving from grateful hearts here, blessings from above and bountiful Remember that the poor "we have always with us," and realizing it let none who are well provided with comforts fail to perform their share of charitable work during the cold and bleakness of the coming winter

THE FIRST PRESIDENT .- The opinion that Washington was our first President is very prevailing one, and yet it is by no means the literal truth. deniably he was the first President under our present Constitution, but he had 14 predecessors under the revolutionary government and confederation. first of these was Peytan Randolph of Virginia, who was chosen September 5, 1774, and died in office shortly after-wards—October 23, 1774. He was suc ceeded by Henry Middleton, of South Carolina, who remained in office until March 24, 1775, at which time John Hancock, of Massachusetts was elected. The latter served until November 1777, when Henry Laurens, of South Caroli-ra succeeded him Next came John Gay, of New York, who was appointed December 10, 1778. In 1779, Sept., 28, Samuel Hantington, of Connecticut, entered upon the discharge of the duties of the office. His term continued until July 10, 1781, when Thomas Kean, of Deiaware, was appointed. His successor was John Hansan, of Maryland, who was chosen November 5, 1781. Next in order is Elias Bouninot, of New Jersey, who was elected November 3, 1783. Thos Mifflin, of Pennsylvania, was appointed Nov. 3, 1783 came Richard Henry Lee, of Virginia, Nov. 30, 1783; Nathaniel Gorman, of Massachusetts, June 6, 1786; Arthur St Ciair, of Pennsylvania, February 2, 1787 and Cyrus Griffin, of Virginia, January 22, 1788, who was succeeded by George Washington, first President under the Feveral Constitution, April 20 1789.
