The Carr Shooting at Coaldale. The case of the commonwealth against Reese and Thomas, of Ashton, Carbon county, charged with the murder, on the 10th of June of this year, of Joseph Carr, of Coaldale, was called Monday morning, in the court at Pottsville. Out of thirty five jurors examinad the following twelve were sworn and impaneled : Jeremiah Kiine, Schuylkill Haven ; John Pollock, St Clair ; Chas. B. Fessolt, Pottsville ; George M. Headle, Tremont ; Benjamin Hampton, Ashland; Benjamin Kauffman, Tremont ; William F. Grassang, Pottsville! George W. Beck, Pottsville ; George Bender, Pottsville; B. F. Bannan, Pottsville ; Jacob Kuebler, Pottsville ; Harvey Scott, Pottsville.

M. M. L'Velie, Esq., who assists the district attorney in this case, made the opening for the commonwealth. He related how the shooting occured, (published in the ADVOCATE at the time) ; referred to the disturbed state of the coal region at present and during the past, and closed by asking the jury to acquit or convict as the evidence warranted. The defence was conducted by Gen. Albright and F. W. Hughes.

The jury, after being out about three hours, came into Court with a verdict of " Not Gallty."

MR. EDITOR,-News is at a low ebb here ; nevertheless, I will endeavor to find something that may, perhaps, interest your readers. In the first place I would state that one of our young townsmen, Robert Nichol, formerly of Mauch Chunk, has invented a machine for eatching eals, and it has been tested and proved to be a success. We hope the inventor may do well.

On Saturday, Nov. 18th, George Hartz, of this place, shot a six-pronged buck, weighing 300 pounds, the largest that has been shot in this vicinity for several years. There have been quite a number seen near town, but this one is the first that has been killed.

Daniel Smith and Patrick Quigley bave opened an umbrella factory. They seem determined and no doubt will make it pay, as they are both energetic men. One thing is certain, umbrellas are scarce here-my own was scarce a few evenings ago.

Henry Brief, our worthy butcher, has in his possession ten turkeys; the heaviest weighs 29 pounds, the second 26, the remainder over 20 pounds. Who can beat this? He killed a beef weight ing 1600, dressed, a few days ago.

Any young man who can furnish a good recommendation can find a position as bar-tender at Chas. Boxmeyer's. Salary twenty dollars per month and board. He must be handy with the pen as there is some book keeping to be done.

We brag over one of our shoemakers, who can half sole a pair of boots and entirely finish them in seventeen minutes. He is none other than Benjamin Wetzel. Who can beat this?

Wm. MeBride has a hog weighing 700 pounds, and Billy is very proud of him.

George Booser has left town very uncaremoniously. I wonder if Katy won't follow him? Her big brother, Pete, says "By Jimmeny, I fetch him!" Jerry Kline has started west for the purpose of procuring poultry for the hollidays. He says "Money will do anything." We wish him luck.

Yours Respectfully.

How to Carve a Thanksgiving Tur

Next Thursday being Thanksgiving day, the following article, from one of our exchanges, on carving a turkey will be appreciable; There is nothing a young unmarried man likes better than to go to a dinner at the house of a friend and to be asked to carve a tur-He never carved a turkey in life, and with an old maid on one side of him watching him closely; and on the other side a fair girl for whom he has a tenderness, he feels embarrassed when he begins. First he pushes the knife down toward one of the thigh He can't find the joint, and he plunges the knife around in search of it until he makes mince meat of the whole quarter of the fowl " Then he sharpens the knife and tackles it again. At last, while making a terrible dig, he hits the joint suddenly, and the leg files into the maiden lady's lap, while her dress front is covered with a shower of stuffing. Then he goes for the other leg, and when the young lady tells him he looks warm, the weather seems to him suddenly to become four hundred degrees warmer. This leg he finally pulls loose his fingers. He lays it on the edge of the plate, and while he is hacking at the wing he gradually pushes leg over on the clean tablecloth, and when he picks it up it slips from his hand into the gravy dish and splashes the gravy around for six square yards. Just as he has made up his mind that the turkey has no joints to its wings, the host asks him if he thinks the Indians can really be civilized. The girl next to him laughs, and he says he will explain his views upon the subject after dinner. Then he sops his brow with his handkerchief and presses the turkey so hard with the fork that it siides off the dish and upsets a goblet of water on the girl next to him. Nearly frantic he the girl next to him. gouges away again at the wings, gets them off in a mutilated condition, and digs into the breast. Before he can cut any off, the host asks him why he don't help out the turkey. Bewildered, he puts both legs on a plate and hands them to the maiden lady, and then helps the young girl to a plateful of stuffing, and while taking ber plate in return, knocks over a gravy dish. Then he sits down with the calmness of despair, and fans himself with a napkin, while the servant cleans the table. He dosen't discuss the Indian question that day. He goes home right after dinner and spends the night trying to decide whether to commit suicide or to take lessons in parving.

A strange and shocking assident occurred at the upper rolling mill of the Lrekawanna Iron and Coal Company, in Scranton, Tuesday, by which an old workman named Patrick McNally was toru to pieces by a massive dy wheel that was revolving with tightning-like rapidity. It was in the dim twilight of dawn when the hor-rible affair occurred, and McNaily who had oc-casion to go from one portion of the works to casion to go from one portion of the works to snather where he had to pass close by the wheel doubtless did not see it owing to its swife motion and the fact that he was near-sighted and so he waiked right into it, and in an instant his initialised body was hurded in fragments about the mill among the bewidered workmen. The sight of an arm or log desconding smoog those who did not see the accident hirrings them with fear and wonder. The sheeking sfinar soon became known, and when the fartisle wheel stoos alid its appearance told a feathul story. The trunk of the old man's bedy lay beside the pit, sied the difficult task or collecting his scattered renams was entered upon. In spite of well devised and well meaning law upon the subject of records, the investment, is by no means small. Now we have never heard of the party who, after advancing money on mortgage, failed to have the latter properly recorded. They do it to save themselves, to make assurance doubly sure, and in this they are right. And yet, the loss which may arise from a neglect to have a deed recorded within the time fixed by law, though equally imminent, is scarcely ever taken into consideration. A conviction which a recent call at the Recorder's Office was only too well calculated to confirm, for on that occasion we not only found Recorder Phillips engaged in entering an Indenture made in 1844, but, on inquiring learnt that a number of previous deeds—the original dating back to the year 1813, had also but recently been recorded. On the 19th day of March in that year, as appeared from the original before us, Peter Andreas had bargained, sold, aliened, enfeoffed, conveyed and confirmed unto Juo. Andreas, a tract of land in East Penn township, then in Northampton county. On the 27th of Nov. 1816 Jno. Andreas, by indenture, conveyed it unto Geo. Andreas, by in May, 1824, it was sold to Jac. Andreas, which latter, in May, 1841, deeded it to Jacob Dinkey, who, atter holding it 3 years, disposed of it to the present owner, Joe. Andreas. In other words the transactions of half a century had never before been legalized, and during all this time the successive owners probably never thought for a moment of the risks they were running py neglect. Have your deeds recorded by all means, and be sure to have it done within the time prescribed date of its execution. An autograph letter, received by him a few days ago from the President of the United States, causes Squire Beck-hardt to feel confident of his succession to the postmastership of East Mauch Chunk which is soon to be vacated by the present incumbent. Well, merit should have its reward, and there is certainly no getting over the fact that our worthy squire is a power in the Republican ranks, and more eminently fitted for office than any of the many small fry politicians hereabouts. In his answer to the President Mr. B. reserved unto himself the right to accept either the proffered postmastership or a mail agency. Were I in his place, I'd take the latter, sure. Besides, Hughes, although a good, elever fellow, has held it long enough, and there should be rotation out of as well as in

The Coal Trade.

Anom the only hope for any revival of the coal tr. de in the near future is a week or two of sharp winter weather. That would stir domestic consumers as nothing one will. There is not must presented of any untertaily increased demand from those who consume more largely of coal in manufactures and in the steam marine of the country. And yet, we observe a starsment, said to be furnished by the presulent of the country and of the presulent of the createst Railroad of New Jorsey, to the effect that the coal estraings of that road for the ten months of the current vear to the end of October word as great as they were in corresponding time last year, and that its coal traffic is now fully sed-sustaining, and will prove so for the whole year, with the last reduction in its operation expenses, while the claimed superiority of its coal, it is stated, has enabled it to keep sill its minus in operation since the break in the combination, with the prospect of keeping them running all winter to supply their trade. So far, it is said, there has been no accomulation of coal, the demand having been up to production, while the company there has been a new and very considerable source of revenue to the Central, namely, the business of the new Hound Brook line, from which about a quarier of a million has been received from the increased travel during the Centennial Exhibition, which is claimed in favor of the trade of the Central that the contract between it and the Lebigh and Wikesbarre Coal Company gives the road anom one half the price of the coal at tide water for carrying. Hence the companys were from the increased insolute of the Central that the contract between it and the Lebigh and wikesbarre Coal Company gives the road anom one half the price of the coal at tide water for carrying. Hence the company sines her latent of the Central to Lebigh Navigation Company, such a not unfavorable as compared with last year.
