

A MODEL MAIDEN,
[FROM PUSCH.]
'Tis not alone that she is fair,
And hath a wealth of golden hair;
'Tis not that she can play and sing,
To charm a rustic or a king;
'Tis not that she is gentle, kind,
And wears no crimson lace behind,
Nor light heels'd boots nor corsets laced,
Nor shows her staidness of waist;
'Tis not that she can talk with ease,
On well-worn things and peace;
'Tis not that she can row and ride,
And do a dozen things beside;
The reason why I love Miss Brown
Are that she never wears a crown,
Nor pearls, or points or nothings, or frets,
Or fads about "society" or "sets";
Nor prattles nonsense by the fire,
Nor bids her friends her charms admire;
Nor lets upon the "dove" her eye,
And when she's to be paid to pay;
By bonnets does not bound her hair,
And is not indisposed to wash;
Nor bulges her small brooches, nor
Keeps them continually agog in a row;
Wears pigmots, or never her neck defiles,
Nor practices exquisite wiles;
Needs not a maid to pack her trunks,
Nor plagues papa for diamond rings;
On biscuits is content to lunch,
Loves chocolate, Milton, Pope, and "Punch";
Never descends to vulgar slang,
And he's was known the best to bang!

HUMOROUS.
—A tender subject: railroad fuel.
—A beneficial strike: striking a job.
—Favorite jewelry of horse fanciers—Studs.
—A very narrow aperture—The crack of a whip.
—To keep warm—Keep the furnace "cooled."
—What class of people lie the most?—Sugarists.
—A western settler—The contents of a six-shooter.
—Why is a compositor like a cripple?—Because he can't get along without a stick.
—What must always be calculated upon when we paint our houses?—A brush with a painter.
—What is the difference between horse-racing and going to church?—One makes men bet, the other makes them better.
—Since the cardinal red floats behind every other woman, three raise-ups-and-sit-downs is the conventional for getting seated in church.
—A correspondent writes: "Will alcohol clean silver?" It will. Taken regularly, fifteen or twenty times a day, it will soon clean all the silver out of your pocket.
—"What is Ingrain Carpet?" asks an exchange. Mrs. Spilkins says that it is something that costs three dollars or so a yard, and has to be shut up in a dark parlor to keep the moths out of it.
—A Yankee, describing an opponent whose person was extremely thin, says: "I will tell what, sir—that man don't amount to a sum in arithmetic; cast him up, and there's nothing to carry."
—A young gentleman meeting a handsome milkmaid in the country, said, "What will you take for yourself and your milk, my dear?" The girl instantly replied, "Your hand and a gold ring, sir."
—"Get out, you ornithorhynchus!" the man departed meekly. "Who's that?" inquired a friend of the speaker. "An ornithorhynchus." "How's that?" "Well, Webster defines him as a beast with a bill."
—"Are you there, my love?" he whispered through a hole in the fence of his beloved's back yard. "Yes, darling," was the reply, "jump right over." He did so, and alighted in the presence of her mother, a broomstick and a police man.
—A wag tried to annoy a popular preacher by asking him whether the fatted calf of the parable was male or female. "Female, to be sure," was the reply; "for I see the male," looking the questioner full in the face, "yet alive in the flesh before me."
—The sexton of a parish in the county Armagh was about to lose his wife. She begged him to bury her in Tyrone, among her own kindred, 40 miles away. "Indeed, Peggy," said he, "I'll try ye here first, but if ye give any trouble, I'll take ye up and bury ye in Tyrone."
—"How, my dear fellow, can I make a girl love me, who is constantly devoured by love of herself?" asked a young gentleman of his friend. "Oh," replied the latter, "that is the easiest thing in the world; just minister to her self love until it overflows, all that runs over will be yours."
—"How much will your new school books cost, Johnny?" says father. Johnny calculates to himself, sotto voce, "Lemme see: 62 cents for the singing book, 75 cents for a new 'rhythmic,' $1.25 for a new 'jogography,' 25 cents for a hokey, half a dollar for a new bat, and a quarter for candy." Then out loud says: "Bout four dollars, pa!"
—What a poetical way the ancient had of putting things. We read in their pages that "Lycurgus, king of the Edones in Thrace, refused to worship Bacchus, in consequence of which the god visited him with madness." Now in our day the affair would read: "Lycurgus, king, etc., refused to drink any more whiskey, and in consequence had the delirium tremens."
She stood in the door and watched the departing form of her own beloved spouse, and sighed at the thought that he would not see him before dinner time, and then she went sadly into her boudoir and kissed the photograph of her first husband, whispering in soft accents, "Oh! how changed is the world to me. He promised to give me a new silk, and he's ordered home only calico. Why did I marry again?"
—A fashion writer thus deals with cardinal red: "A stylish priestess in the temple of fashion looks very much like a preambulating conflagration. Lurid ribbons lap about her shapely limbs, glowing tassels envelope her head and clasp her white throat in blood red coils; startling flames of light dart in and out, up and down her garments, and even shine between the soft kid of her little boots." And no insurance, either.

"Don't Kiss My Baby."
Says the Rochester Union:—Mothers are delighted when visitors caress and kiss their little darlings. They never think of asking the family physician what ill-results may come from the practice. Read what is said below by a thinker and observer, and remember the warning. The promiscuous kissing of children is a pestilent practice. We use the word advisedly, and it is mild for the occasion. Murderous would be the proper word, did the kissers know the mischief they do. Yes, madam, murderers, and we are speaking to you. Do you remember calling on your dear friend Mrs. Brown the other day with a strip of flannel round your neck? And when little Flora came dancing into the room didn't you pounce upon her demonstratively, call her a precious little pet, and kiss her? Then you solemnly proceeded to describe the dreadful sore throat that kept you from prayer-meeting the night before. You had no designs on the dear child's life, we know; nevertheless you killed her! Killed her as surely as if you had fed her with strychnine or arsenic. Your carelessness was fatal. Two or three days after the little pet began to complain of a sore throat too. The symptoms grew rapidly alarming; and when the doctor came the single word diphtheria sufficed to explain them all. Today a little mound is the sole memento of your visit. Of course the mother does not suspect and would not dare to suspect you of any instrumentality in your benevolence. She charges it to a mysterious Providence. The doctor says nothing to disturb the delusion; that would be impolitic, if not cruel; but to an outsider he is free to say that the child's death was due directly to your stupidity. Those are precisely his words; and who shall say, under the circumstances, that they are not justifiable? Remember—
"Evil is wrought by want of thought as well as by want of heart."
It would be hard to tell how much of the prevalent illness and mortality from diphtheria is due to such want of thought. As a rule adults have the disease in so mild a form that they mistake it for a simple cold, and as a cold is not contagious they think nothing of exposing others to their breath or the greater danger of labial contact. Taking into consideration the well-established fact that diphtheria is usually if not always communicated by the direct transplanting of the malignant vegetation which causes the disease, the fact that there can be no more certain means of bringing the contagion to its favorite soil than the act of kissing, and the further fact that the custom of kissing children on all occasions is all but universal, it is not surprising that, when the disease is once imported into a community, it is very likely to become epidemic. It would be absurd to charge the spread of diphtheria entirely to the practice of child-kissing. There are other modes of propagation, though it is hard to conceive of any more directly suited to the spread of the infection or more general in its operation. It stands to diphtheria in about the same relation that promiscuous hand-shaking formerly did to the tub. It were better to avoid the practice. The children will not suffer if they go un-kissed; and their friends ought for their sake to forego the luxury for a season. A single kiss has been known to infect a family; and the most careful may be in a position to communicate the disease without knowing it. Beware, then, of playing Judas, and let the babies alone.
