A Good Family Medicine
SWAYNE'S
Tar and Sarsaparilla Pills.

HEADACHE, Languor and Melancholy generally arise from a disordered stomach, enervating a cold liver. Such may be speedily removed by SWAYNE'S Tar Pills, which stimulate the liver and stomach to a healthy action in removing all biliousness, and producing regular evacuations of the bowels.

LIVER COMPLAINT.
That dreaded disease from which so many persons suffer, is frequently the cause of Headache, Indigestion and Dyspepsia, is speedily relieved and often permanently cured by their use. Evers are often prescribed by the use of these Sarsaparilla Pills, as they carry off through the blood, the impurities from which they arise. For COSTIVENESS there is nothing so effective as SWAYNE'S Tar and Sarsaparilla Pills.

They are purely vegetable, and act specially on the Liver as Blue Mass or Calomel, without any bad results as from taking those drastic medicines. In all communications, and address letters to DR. SWAYNE & SON, Philadelphia. No charge for advice. Sent by mail on receipt of price. Price 25 cents a box; five boxes for $1.

THE LUNGS!
CONSUMPTION!

This distressing and dangerous complaint and its preliminary symptoms, protracted cough, night sweats, distressing, wasting thin, fever, hemorrhages, etc., are cured by SWAYNE'S Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry.

DR. SWAYNE'S COMPOUND Syrup of Wild Cherry
IS A SOVEREIGN REMEDY.

Hemorrhages, or spitting blood, may proceed from the LUNGS, Trachea, bronchia of lungs, or from various causes, as undue physical exertion, pathology, or fullness of the vessels, weak lungs, overstraining of the voice, suppression, obstruction of the spleen or liver, etc.

Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry acts at the root of disease by purifying the blood, restoring the liver and kidneys to healthy action, invigorating the nervous system.

The only standard remedy for hemorrhage, bronchitis and all pulmonary complaints, Consumptives, or those predisposed to weak lungs, should not fail to use this great vegetable remedy.

Its marvelous power, not only over consumption but over every chronic disease, where a radical altering action is needed. Under its use the cough is loosened, the night sweats diminish, the pain subsides, the pulse returns to its natural standard, the stomach is improved in its power to digest and assimilate the food, and every organ has a purer and better quality blood supplied to it, out of which new restorative and plastic material is made.

SAVED HIS LIFE.
A REMARKABLE CURE!

Was that of Edward H. Hanson, Engineer at George Swayne's Pottery, 1234 Biddle Avenue, Philadelphia. He had a violent cold, night sweats, more distressing weakness, spit at different times a pint of blood, gave up all hope of recovery. Through the use of "Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup" became a sound and healthy man, and resumed his duties, although over twenty years have elapsed since he was cured.

PRICE ONE DOLLAR. Six bottles $5. If your druggist or stockholder does not sell it, we will forward it at once, freight paid, to any address, on receipt of order.

PREPARED ONLY BY
DR. SWAYNE & SON,
330 N. Sixth Street, Philadelphia.
Sold by all Prominent Druggists.

Itching Piles!
PILES, PILES, ITCHING PILES,
Positively Cured by the use of SWAYNE'S OINTMENT.

HOME TESTIMONY:
I was sorely afflicted with one of the most distressing of all diseases (Piles or Hemorrhoids), and more commonly known as Itching Piles. The pain and smarting was most intolerable, and increased by scratching, and not infrequently became quite sore.

I bought a box of "Swayne's Ointment" and it gave me quick relief, and in a short time made a perfect cure. I can now sleep undisturbed, and I would advise all who are suffering with this distressing complaint to procure Swayne's Ointment at once. I had tried prescriptions almost innumerable, without finding any permanent relief.

HERE IS THE PROOF
Of Its Superior Excellence.

Read this Home Certificate testified to by Edward H. Hanson, one of the most celebrated Druggists and Chemists in Philadelphia, a man whose veracity none can doubt:
I am happy to add my testimony to the great value of the "London Hair Color Restorer," which restored my hair to its original dark color, and cured the itching and smarting which afflicted me. I purchased the first bottle from Dr. H. G. Swayne, Orange, Va., and it cured me. The color has been restored, and the itching entirely stopped by its use.

No. 12 N. Sixth-st., Philadelphia.
DR. SWAYNE & SON—Respected Friends: I have the pleasure to inform you that a lady of my acquaintance, Mrs. M. J. H., is delighted with the success of your "London Hair Color Restorer." Her hair was falling rapidly and quite gray. The color has been restored, and the itching entirely stopped by its use.

Druggists, Cor. Tenth and Commerce Sts., Phila.
All that art can accomplish in securing, strengthening, thickening and growing the hair is effected by using "London Hair Color Restorer." AT AUNT'S.

BY J. R. W.

At a certain door in a certain square (both very smart and fresh) and between three and five one fine summer afternoon, a gentlemanly man, of clouded countenance, might have been seen to knock, and with a sense of having done so before.

A footman opened it.
"Oh, good morning, Henry. Is my aunt in?"

"No, sir; but we expect the carriage every moment. Will you wait?"
"Yes; for I want to see Miss Ford very particularly."

After being shown into the drawing-room, certainly he did not take a seat, for the man in livery heard him tramping up and down, backwards and forwards, incessantly.

Three minutes after, on looking from one of the windows, he saw a cab drive up to the door, where a young person descended, and performed a very remarkable fantasia on the door knocker.

As the occupant of the drawing-room looked, he saw a young lady bend forward and smile as she addressed the servant.

"What a jolly pretty girl!"
"This is Miss Ford's house, I think?"
"Yes, miss."
"Is she at home?"
"No, miss."
"Will she be at home before long?"
"We expect my mistress in every moment, miss."

"Then if you please I think I will wait for her. Will you kindly open the door?"

Well, it is impossible to say that there was anything very attractive about these words; nevertheless, Mr. Tom Angel found them some of the most pleasant he had ever heard, so unexpected and incomprehensible are our likes and dislikes.

When the young lady entered the drawing-room and saw it was occupied, she drew back in some hesitation, evidently combating with herself whether she should enter or not.

However, clearly her business was of considerable urgency, for suddenly her very pretty features became set, and she stepped firmly into the room, bowing, without any reserve, to the gentleman she saw there.

"He found her quite delightful."
"All the windows are open," he said, when the servant had withdrawn. "Is the wind to much for you? Shall I close one or two?"

"Oh, dear me, no!" she replied, without any of that reserve so common to young ladies when they find themselves in the presence of a stranger. "I am sure I want all the air possible."

"Ah! you suffer from the heat."
"Not at all; but sometimes one requires all the air and open space possible."

"I am of your opinion," he said earnestly. "I quite comprehend that feeling. I am myself an example in point, for it was I opened all the windows; and when your carriage arrived, I was tramping up and down the room like an angry grenadier."

"It is not a carriage," said the young lady, with considerable, if amiable, asperity; "it is a common cab, and the young person inside is Pawkins, who is looking so sorry because I have made a dash for home, while I am supposed to be walking in the enclosure in our square, and have come to ask Miss Ford to help me."

"Ah, you know Miss Ford?"
"I have not seen much of her. We have lived abroad a good deal, and Miss Ford does not like the Continent. She came to us last Autumn, however, and she and I became great friends, and I have come here for her services. Pray, may I ask why you are waiting?"

"I was thinking how similar are our errands here," he replied; "for I have come to seek Miss Ford's advice, or, rather, to ask her to take up the cudgels in my favor, and insist with my people upon having my own way."

"Just my case," said the young lady. "I must insist upon Miss Ford insisting upon my father and my mamma listening to my very reasonable objections."

"Ha!" said the young gentleman, whose brow had clouded; "your people at home are interfering with you?"
"Very much so, indeed," replied the young lady. "I'm old enough to manage my own affairs!"

"Quite right," acquiesced the other, enthusiastically. "I know what I am about to ask is very impudent, but do allow me to shake you by the hand."

"Certainly," she cried, with great alacrity; "it is quite delightful to meet with some one who is sympathetic! I know it is most imprudent to be confidential with quite a stranger, but the fact that you know Miss Ford induces me with greater courage. We have been living abroad, and my people positively insist upon my marrying a man I have not seen since he was a mere boy, and all because of some curious family understanding that took place before I was born, even!"

"Something my case," he said. "But I will never submit, and I shall prefer the alternative—to be sent away as a steerage passenger to Australia, with one hundred dollars in my pocket!"

"Ha!" cried the young lady, with astounding keenness; "then, if you are ready to go away, you do not refuse the young lady your people wish you to marry because you like somebody else?"
"Dear me, no! I am free as the air."

"So am I," she said, bursting into a silvery laugh.
He came forward a step, and then hesitated.

"Oh, yes," said she, "you must shake hands again."

It was at this point that Miss Ford, a handsome, hearty, bonny woman of fifty came into the room, and said, in the uttermost astonishment—

"Bless my soul! I thought you two young people detested each other; and here have I been to your fathers and mothers, and shown them your two distressed notes to myself, and I have got them to promise that they will break the match off, and I come home to find you making love under my very roof!"

"The young people were still smiling, but looking at each other in the utmost perplexity.

"Cousin Bessie," he said, "is that you?"
"Cousin Tom, it is! And you are you! How you are changed for the better, since you were ten!"

"And you—what a difference since you were five, and burst out crying because I, at eight, was greedy enough to steal your cherries!"

Miss Ford was laughing now.
"Come, come, you young people, shake hands. That is right. You see, you disliked each other until you met, and now you adore one another. Yesterday you each wrote praying me to go to my brothers, your fathers, and break off the proposed match between your families, and now you are terribly afraid I have done it. There is no managing your young people who do not know your own minds for one moment, and after disliking each other, they know not why, love each other for life, and would never forgive their family for parting them!"

Here bonny Miss Ford, sat down before the young couple, and, with a radiant smile she continued—

"You young people, listen to me. My two brothers-in-law married two sisters, and, of course, the women quarreled, or thought they did, and were too proud to admit their faults. Your two fathers were very sorry for the rupture, and yours, Bessie, went abroad, that the brothers might not experience any pain of meeting, with the knowledge that it would irritate their wives. As you both grew up, it struck me that your marriage with each other must reunite your mothers; and this morning, under very dexterous management, they have met, have owned their foolishness, and will, I am sure, never allow division between them. It was then I suggested, on the strength of your two stupid letters, that if you could not agree, it would be well for you to keep apart; and while your mothers quite agreed upon that point, and wished there had never been any cause for disagreement, they both evidently wished that you might marry. What is to be done?"

"Cousin Tom," said the young lady, "my cab is at the door. Will you come and see papa and mamma?"
"He kept up very willingly."
"No, no," said Miss Ford, "we will go in state; and as it seems that I have done pretty well for you already, I had better be in at the death—that is to say, I had better look after you as far as the altar; thenceforward, shift for yourselves. Come along!"

BRIEFLETS.
—Three-fourths of the applications for postmasterships come from unsettled clergymen.

—Arkansas has more newspapers in proportion to population than any other State in the Union.

—Negotiations are in progress for a tract of land in Decatur county, Ga., on which to settle a colony of French immigrants from Germanized Alsace.

—Judge Josiah Hall, of Warren, aged 82, died on Sunday. Deceased was the first lawyer admitted to the Warren bar. He was a leading democratic politician, and served as associate judge and member of assembly.

—Holland has for centuries been known as the country par excellence of tulips. The Dutch King has offered to send 40,000 of these flowers to the Paris Exposition of 1878, and they have been gladly accepted. Those fading will be constantly replaced by others in bloom.

—The School Commissioner of Hardin county, Ky., is reported to have lately said that the few school houses in his county are not as good as "the average horse stable, and that as a whole, the people thereabouts are making greater efforts to raise stock than to educate their children."

—There are in Colorado over fifty peaks which rise more than 14,000 feet above sea level. Blanca Peak, in that State, the elevation of which was determined last year by Hayden's survey, is probably the highest point within the limits of the United States, being 14,464 feet above the level of the sea.

—Years ago, the King of Prussia jokingly complained that his physician, Dr. Lauser, kept him on short commons in the hope of making an octogenarian of him and so earning for himself the title of Excellency. The Doctor is now an Excellency, sure enough. On the Kaiser's birthday he was named Privy Councillor.

—A tunnel through the Pyrenees will place France and Spain in railroad communication by the 1st of January, 1878. The work has been in progress, and will save twelve hours of tedious diligence riding between Perpignan and Barcelona. Next year travellers will be able to travel by rail from Paris to Madrid, almost without changing trains.
