The Carbon Advocate.

H. V. MORTHIMES. . . . . EDITOR

LEHIGHTON, PAJ SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 21, 1877.

-The Western Iron Association met in Pittsburg Wednesday, and fixed the eard price for iron at two cents, an advance of a quarter of a cept per pound.

-A "special" to the New York Heraid asserts that 'the prosecution of ex-Secretary Robeson, for alleged misappropriation of the funds of the Navy Department, will be a leading feature of Democratic polley in the forthcoming session of Congress."

-The Charleston News and Courier is informed that Rev. W. H. Scott, the colored preacher reported to the New England Methodist Conference as having been assassinated at a church door, on the Sabbath, "is alive and well, and performing his pasteral duties without molestation, in Malboro, county, South Carolina."

-Copies of a letter written by ex-Senator Wade, of Ohio, strongly denouncing the President's Southern policy, have been privately exhibited in Washington. Wade says in concluding his letter that some persons excuse the President on the ground of good intentions, "but hell is paved with them."

-A dispatch dated Montreal, April 19, says: Hon. A. B. Foster, the Cansdian railroad king, has suspended payments. His liabilities are about two hundred and fifty million dollars. He controlled the Sotheastern, Brockville, and Ottawa, and Canada Central railway, also the Government Georgian Bay branch of the Pacific rall way, and several eastern township lines.

-We have at last reached real spring weather, and country towns are pleasant places to be in. The streets of the towns are gay with passing throngs, and the buds on the trees are swelling, while the grass is sending up its early tender spears, and all the preparations are in progress for the revival of the green things of nature. It is such weather as ought to fill the stores with customers seeking the garments appropriate to the warm season now close at hand. The country is healthy, but business is not lively enough to satisfy the workers.

-During the administration of President Buchanan the commissioner of public buildings and grounds acted as the master of ceremonies at the executive mansion, conducting the introductions, etc., on public occasions, and having a general supervision of affairs. In the succeeding administrations the marshal of the district performed those duties, but now the marshal has been superseded by the commissioner of public buildings and grounds. Col. Casey, who succeeded Gen. Babcock as commissioner, will therefore in the future attend to the above named duties at the executive mansion.

-It is reported that the general freight agent of the Reading, Lehigh Valley, and North Pennsylvania railroads have entered into arrangements with the Eric and North Shore Dispatch reight line for the shipment of of produce and grain over the lakes, from Chicago to Philadelphia. The Dominion steamship line has also entered into the arrangement for the transfer of freights by floating elevators from the Reading wharves to their vessels. There are now five steamships in this line running between Philadelphia and Liverpool, and the agent of the line offers such terms as to enable the Dispatch line to give bills of lading from Chicago to Liverpool.

-It is a vivid idea of the terror created by the grasshoppers in the West that is given by the proclamation of the Governor of Minnesota for public prayer against them. He sets apart a day of fasting, humiliation, and prayer that Almighty God may stay the grasshopper scourge; and he calls upon the people of the State to ask for this mercy, with contrite hearts, in their places of worship. "In the shadow of the locust plague, whose Impending renewal threatens the destruction of the land," says the Governor, "let us humbly luvoke the defence of the hand which alone can stay it." Thus he goes on, sentence after sentence, not forgetting to speak of those who are in suffering and grief on account of the plague. There are, doubtless, people in this part of the country who will think it queer to see the State of Minnesota trying to get rid of the devouring grasshoppers by public fasting, humiliation, and prayer; but the Minnesotians did not resort to this means of defence till they had fully realized their own helplessness. They have themselves struggled against the grasshoppers in valu; and they have advertised for weapons to destroy them. Even white fasting in humility and praying in hope, they must not relax their efforts to devise some natural way of conquering the grasshopper enemy.

-AMERICAN INVENTIVE PROGRESS. -Under the above heading the Scientific American of May 7th has a long and interesting article, from which we make the following extracts:

-When the Russians and the Turks fall to killing one another, says the New York Sun, they will prefer to do so with the best modern weapons and will not want condemned muskets from this or any other country. Both these belligerent nations have recently been supplied with large quantities of rifles, revolvers, and cartridges, by manufacturers on this side of the Atlantic, and the Turks are still receiving supplies of this kind under American contracts that are not yet filled. Eugland, France, and Germany, as well as the United States, have on hand large supplies of condemned arms and amunition which may come into play for a while if the war should spread over western Europe. But in these days guns ten or twelve years old are practically superseded by more deadly weapons, and when war comes they are replaced as rapidly as possible by the latest patterns. The ingenuity and resources that are displayed in perfecting the implements of death make it all the more appropriate that at the end of every war the weapons used in it should be turned into ploughshares.

Extravagance - Personal and

National. Feebleness of mind and body is the natural result of extravagance, says the New York Weekly Witness. The spendthrift is being weakened at every point, and fetches up ultimately among the husks and the swine. The fool and his money are soon parted. The question is sometimes asked, which sex errs the most in the matter of expenditures. That question we do not propose to discass. This much we stoutly maintain, that both in many cases are great offenders. Here is the young man who spends annually on himself fifteen hundred dollars. He could be in better health, more scholarly and more useful on $520. In an adjoining street is his cousin decked out with feathers and five-button gloves, who is costing some wearled, tolling father or husband as much. This wasteful pair were born and bred in an atmosphere of frivolity. They are lovers of pleasure. Their bands are so loaded with rings that they cannot relieve distress. If they read at all it is Dumas' latest and vilest. An ennobling and instructive lecture does not suit them. They can prattle about the becomingness of the latest new color and bonnet, but know nothing about the interesting explorations in the Holy Land. They are wishing that some rich uncle would die to relieve them from work and make them happy It has been often said, and with muc probability, that an American famil wastes more than would support family in similar walk of life in France

We have learned much, but know not yet the real purpose and power o the dollar. Our very prayers are sug gested by personal considerations, that we may consume more upon our eives. Our marriages, our baptisms, our church sociables, and our burials are all costly affairs. Here is where our first offerings are made, and costly in dulgences go on while the missionar box returns empty to the altar. Our church members are already be ginning to make preparations for the coming season at the seaside or among the mountains. The supreme question is that of so-called enjoyment. Had we not better consult our Bibles? Without doubt we are in danger of becoming a fast people, and our recent reverses have therefore been upon the whole most salutary. Let no one think that we are recommending a penurious pollcy. We are not. We are pleading for the less favored, by whom we are surrounded, and for the Lord's cause-missionary societies, home and foreign. The true man of Christianized nature looks constantly upon the things of others, and supplements their deficiencies from his surplus. Come, reader, jump into the scale till we see your weight. Have you developed into bran, or are you good as wheat. Let us not give the devil any of our money. We have too little for the building of God's kingdom. Save your money that with it you may save souls.

Prom our special Correspondent. Washington, D. C., April 18, 1877. I know of no American city that has so many I know of no American city that has so many pleasant, picturesque and interesting places in and around it as Washington; and now that the flowers and leaves are burshing lorth, the errass is given and the arrest and sweet with the spring fragrence, every sinov day sees crowds of exorpsionsts diriving or riding or salling to lease lovely places. The President will find humself opposed by powerful antagousts, and that in his own party. Hathe will probably lead the Hesphican opposition, and runners are already effoat of are organization of parties. They cannot forget that they waged the campaign on entirely different ground and that the President least applied of his very own, and he intends to be President of his sountry and to work for the good of all his fellow countrymen, instead of being chief of a party.
