How to Manage the Potato Bug.

The following method of effectually destroying the Colorado beetle which is again annoying the farmers of Carbon and adjoining counties to a considerable extent, is given by a correspondent to one of the leading agricultural journals in the country. It will be found to be of particular interest to farmers and truckers hereabout, and may assist them materially in the gradual extermination of the pests referred to,

Decoration Day.

Wednesday last-Decoration dayvas duly observed by the soldlers and citizens of this and our sister borough of Weissport. At about nine o'clock a. m, the line was formed in the following order at the lower end of Bankway :

Marshal and Aids.
Young America Cornet Band of Weissport.
Ministers and Orators in carriages.
Chief Burgess.
The Voterans with Colors and Guard.
Wagon drawn by four white horses, containing the Godcess of Liberty and the States.
Weissport and Lehighton Soys.
Lehigh Book and Laidor Company.
Citions in carriages.

The procession moved up Bankway and Bank street to North, up North to Second, down Second to Elm, out Elm to the cemetery, where they formed around the grave of a departed comrade. After an appropriate prayer by Rev. L. B. Brown, of the M. E. church, the comrades departed to decorate the graves, the choir singing the Decoration Hymn. The assemblage then moved to the shelter of the grove, and were addressed by Hon. W. M. Rapsher, in the following efoquent and patriotic language:

The fifth meeting was held at Mauch Chunk, there was a much small exattendance there than at any other places. Although there was only a small attondance still the meeting was decided a success. Rev. J. Werner presided, after opening meeting in the usual manner he introduced himself in a somewhat annucing and instructive German Essay on the subject "What constitutes an attractive S. S.," after the close of the discussion Wm. B. Romig, the worthy Superitendent of Lehghton, read an essay on "The Model S. S. Sasion, the composition was very fine throughout; the question boz was opened soon after, and by the number of questions asked we are led to infer that the Sianth Chunkers are good at asking questions, one of the questions read "When are we going home? The questions were answered very well. The following resolutions (corrected) were read by C. S. Welss and adopted by the Institute. Resolved 1. That the efficient S. S. is the working S. School; Officers, Teachers, and echolars work in union for one common good.

Resolved 2. That parents can help to promote the S. S. chool cause, by their presence, by saying coine instead of go, and by having their heartify, and hands, and pockets in the work.

Resolved 3. That we can make our S. School more interesting by misking it more profitable and attractive, by having superintendents' and teachers alive to this work.

Resolved 7. That the way to teach the S. School lesson is by always shaekeling Christ in the lesson, a S. School lesson without Christ, lacks tone. We should teach the S. S. lesson, for the express purpose and in a manner adopted, to make our echoling good earnest christians, N. B. The teachers must be such ahristians first.

Resolved S. That the way we can induce our church members to participate in the S. S. cause is by giving them: a prominent place among us, and by making the S. S. Sessions so interesting that they will be almost compelled to come.

Resolved 9. That an actractive S. S. is one of cheerfulness; officers, teachers, and scholars must be cheerful as well as the room and all counceted with it. Nothing makes the S.S. more attractive than good, interesting, cheerful, happy, pleasant teachers; all teachers opposite to this will certainly make the school anything but attractive.

Resolved 10. That the Model S. S. Session is a session composed of consecreted, trained, and attentive managers and scholars. Much in it depends upon time, order, and regulation. The Model S. S. session is not that saves many souls and proves a means of keeping them saved.
