-We took a run out to the new slate quarry, now opening on the land of Lewis Graver, in South Lehighton, on Wednesday afternoon. There are some seven or eight men engaged clearing off the fop rock, and they have already reached a depth of about 7 or 8 feet. We saw a few specimens of slate al-ready taken out, and found that it split easily and of a uniform thickness, white the quality is pronounced A No. 1—in fact, it is claimed to be equal in all respects to the celebrated Vermont state. The stock of the company is being rapidly taken, and those wishing to invest should do so without delay.

The Laros Poisoning Case.

The Supreme Court Monday morning, says the Harrisburg Patriot, rendered an opinion affirming the fadgment of the Northampton county court in the case of Allen C. Laros, who poisoned his father, mather and five siters. soned his father, mother and five sisters and brothers, a gratdehild and an aged man named Moses Schug, on March 31, 1876. The father and mother and Mr. Schug died from the effects of the poison, while the children all recovered. The case was argued on a writ of error before the Supreme Court at its last meeting in Philadelphia, during which a number of very delicate questions were presented for the consideration of that tribunal. Hence the protracted postponement of the decision. The poisoning of the Larce family created a great sensation at Easton and elsewhere at the time. The father and mother of Laros died the next day after the poi-son had been administered, and Schug on the second day. Laros, after sus-picion pointed toward him as the per-petrator of the crime, directed the officers where to look for a sum of money—$240—he had taken from his father and Mr. Schug after the commission of the crime. Allen Laros was formerly a school teacher and had borne a good name. The plea of insanity was attempted to be established by his counsel, but the jury who tried him, brought in a verdict of murder in the first degree, and the Supreme Court, Monday sustained the action of the lower court, and another will be added to long list of executions aiready announced to take place.
