

BRIEFLETS.
Johanna Farnham, for many years housekeeper of the American Hotel, Boston, died not long ago at the age of 80. It was not known that she had left any property till she came to make search at her old home when there were found notes for $5,000 loaned to the proprietor of the hotel, a bank book for $1,700 and twenty-three large trunks and packing cases full of expensive articles of wearing apparel and house furnishing. Among all these valuables were 89 dresses, new and perfect, made of silk velvet, satin and all kinds of plaid silks, black and colored tibets, poplins, alpaca, braillantes, cashmeres, &c.; 3 silk velvet cloaks, 13 shawls, from common to the richest Paisley and wrought crapes, 106 skirts of all colors, 114 of hose, undergarments too numerous to mention, table linen, towels, handkerchiefs, counterpanes, blankets, covers, sheets, live geese feathers, sets of elegant chinaware, a large lot of silver and teapoons of best coin silver, silver knives and forks, a fine gold watch and chain and a large lot of fine jewelry, &c. All of these goods are perfectly new and in the best order, never having been used at all.

—Mr. Fry set out to marry Miss Boll in Amherst, Mass. Their names are fairly indicative of the difficulties they encountered. Her father opposed the match, and she went to a family in which her sister lived. That sister, being also in love with Mr. Fry, locked her in a room, and she only escaped by jumping from a window at night. A clergyman, called on suddenly to perform the ceremony, read the baptismal service half through before the error was discovered. The delay gave time for the father to arrive and forbid the marriage. The couple were united, however, and their final trouble came from the groom's creditors, who seized his baggage.

No process is so fatal as that which would cast all men in one mould. Every human being is intended to have a character of his own, to be what no other is, to do what no other can do. Our common nature is to be unfolded in unbounded diversities. It is rich enough for infinite manifestations. It is to wear innumerable forms of beauty and glory. Every human being has a work to carry on within, duties to perform abroad, influence to exert, which are peculiarly his, and which no conscience but his own can teach. Let him not enslave his conscience to others, but act with the freedom, strength and dignity of one whose highest law is in his own breast.

—A negro preacher, who was conducting a revival meeting in Calhoun county, Ky., thought that one of the sisters was too loud and continuous in her shouting. He told her to be quiet, but she only shouted louder, and then he boxed her ears with a Bible. Then she assailed him with astonishing vigor, striking, scratching, kicking, and biting, and he fled from the church.

—Simon Cameron says that the different attitudes of Hayes and Sherman on the silver question remind him of the inscription on a signboard which he once saw at the forking of a Pennsylvania road: "Take either road you choose, and before you have gone half way you will wish you had taken the other."

—New Abbott Martin, of Standing Rock Agency, held a conference with a chief of the latter's camp in the British provinces, on May 25. Sitting Bull was courteous, hospitable and attentive, and refused to return to the United States as he did not wish to surrender his person and arms, and was fearful for his personal safety. Father Martin broke the band should be encouraged to remain where they are, he considers the Indian war over.

—Mrs. Charles Sabine and W. P. Brechin were arrested in Boston, on Saturday, for criminal malpractice. Their victim, a Miss Eliza Brown, is in a precarious condition.

—Robert Richter, aged 40, a clerk in the Quartermaster General's office, in Washington, committed suicide in a garden attached to his dwelling, last Friday evening. He was annoyed by the interference of his wife's cat and kittens with his flowers, and threatened to kill them if she did not keep them out of the garden. She replied that if he did she would tear up his tomato vines. He began to beat the cat, and his wife to pull up the vines, when he ended the drama by putting a pistol in his forehead and blowing out his brains.

—Bishop Stevens, at the Pennsylvania Convention, in opposition to the change of the name "Protestant Episcopal" to "The American Branch of the Church Catholic," said:

"I shall not advocate such a measure because I believe that any such change of title is unnecessary and unwise. I should not have alluded to this here, but for the fact that similar efforts are being made to secure the votes of Diocesan Conventions to this or a kindred measure, and already the boast is made that five Bishops are committed to vote for the change of title. I do not wonder, indeed it is perfectly natural, that a class of men desire to bring back into the Church the cast-off ceremonies, vestment, and doctrines of medieval days."

—Brethren, our Church is by name, by constitution, by canons, by its Prayer Book, by its hymnal, a Protestant Episcopal Church. To take from her that name is to tamper with some of the vital elements of her being and to imperil her existence. If the errors which created the Anglican Reformation, over three hundred years ago, had all vanished away, then the protest against those errors, which give to us the name of Protestants, might be left as things belonging to our historic past, to be superseded by a new name more expressive of present circumstances. But brethren, the errors which the Anglican Reformers confronted three hundred years ago confront us. We stand face to face with the same errors, only augmented by more recent assumption of papal power, and more blasphemous dogmas of its councils and encyclicals. If there was need to protest then, there is equal need to protest now; nay more, for the errors are greater now, and the existence of traitors within our camp only makes it more imperative that ever that we should hold on to the word Protestant and never surrender it to those who now seek to obliterate what the fathers of our Church wisely and boldly inscribed on our banners."

TO RATIONAL INVALIDS.—In sickness every portion of the body sympathizes with the seat of the disorder. When the stomach fails to perform its functions, the liver, spleen, nerves, muscles, veins, arteries, &c. are all more or less affected. A Good Family Medicine
SWAYNE'S Tar and Sarsaparilla Pills.
Sufferers from Headache, Languor and Melancholy generally arise from a disordered stomach, constipation or a torpid liver. Each may be speedily removed by Dr. Swayne's Tar Pills, which stimulate the liver and stomach to a healthy action in removing all biliousness, and producing regular evacuations of the bowels.

that dreaded disease from which so many persons suffer, is frequently the cause of Headache, Indigestion and Dyspepsia, is speedily relieved, and are often permanently cured by their use. Fevers are often prevented by the use of these Sarsaparilla Pills, as they carry off, through the blood, the impurities from which they arise. For CONSTIPATION there is nothing so effectual as Swayne's Tar and Sarsaparilla Pills. They are purely vegetable, and act especially on the liver as Bile Beans and Calomel, without any bad results from taking.

Describe symptoms in all communications, and address letters to DR. SWAYNE & SON, Philadelphia. No charge for advice. Sent by mail on receipt of price. Price 25 cents a box; Retailers for $4.
